MAE WOOD ARRESTED; HER SUIT DISMISSED

Senator Platt's Accuser Held in $5,000 Bail on Charges of Perjury and Forgery.

MARRIAGE DOCUMENT BOGUS

Defiant to the Last, She Goes to a Cell in the Tombs to Await Grand Jury Action.

Mae C. Wood, who in her time has played many parts, was committed to the Tombs yesterday afternoon by Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman on charges of perjury and forgery arising out of her attempt to prove that she was the wife of United States Senator Thomas C. Platt through the medium of divorce proceedings. Justice O'Gorman used emphatic language in his decision dismissing the suit, and declared it "a most wicked design to support a false and fictitious claim." He fixed bail at $5,000, but as it was not forthcoming the woman was at once taken to the Tombs and locked up.

The closing scenes of the now famous trial were in keeping with the many sensations sprung during the hearing. Few, however, thought the law would work so swiftly, and probably the most surprised person present when Justice O'Gorman made his sudden decision was the plaintiff herself. On Wednesday, when Senator Platt testified, Mrs. Wood was absent from court, but when the case was resumed yesterday morning she took her accustomed seat beside her counsel, Charles Le Barbier.

She Prompts Her Counsel.

The Wood woman appeared to be confident that her cause would triumph, and continually prompted Mr. Le Barbier, even up to the moment when he made his final appeal to the Court in her behalf. He had resumed his seat when all eyes centred upon Justice O'Gorman. It had not been known until then whether the Court would make an immediate decision of the case or reserve judgment.

Justice O'Gorman hesitated a moment or two while he apparently studied a paper. Then, in the deep silence which ensued, he suddenly began to speak, looking straight at Mrs. Wood, who returned his look, almost defiantly.

"I cannot credit the plaintiff's evidence as to the alleged marriage," began the Justice. "The testimony impresses the Court that this is a most wicked design to support a fictitious claim by forgery and perjury. The Court does not believe that there was ever a marriage. On the merits of the case every issue has impressed upon the Court the impression that the plaintiff has committed wilful perjury in this case.

"The Court commits her to the City Prison unless she furnishes bail in $5,000."

She Is Arrested in Court.

As Justice O'Gorman finished speaking Capt. Lynch of the Court Squad, who had been sitting quietly just behind Mrs. Wood, arose and stood by her side. She heard the Court's decision apparently unmoved. Then her face, already pale, turned whiter still as Mr. Le Barbier interpreted to her the full force of the decision. Almost instantly, however, she seemed to regain her composure and smiled in weakly style. When Capt. Lynch lightly touched her arm she seemed to know instinctively what he wanted.

"You had better go now," said Mr. Le Babier to her, but she was not quite ready. She whispered to the lawyer, and he handed her a pencil and paper. Swiftly she penned a note to the manager of the Manhattan Hotel, asking that her belongings there be sent to her by the bearer. Even in this act she showed her bravado, for she signed the note "Mae C. Wood-Platt," then gazed at the throng around her, smiling defiantly.

Defiant to the Last.

A large crowd thronged the corridors of the courthouse as she was led through them out by the Chambers Street entrance on her way to the Tombs. She had regained all her jauntiness and laughed and chatted with Capt. Lynch as they walked along. Arriving at the Tombs she was turned over to Warden Flynn, and later assigned to a cell. She said she expected to procure bail before night, but was unsuccessful.

Justice O'Gorman committed her to the Tombs as a sitting magistrate. There she will remain to await the action of the Grand Jury, unless she procures bail. Already Assistant District Attorney Nott has taken charge of the case, and he said last night that he intended to bring her to trial as soon as possible, and hoped that the result would furnish a salutary warning to other women of her kind.

Marriage Certificate Bogus.

The proceedings yesterday started with a sensation. John B. Stanchfield, Mr. Platt's counsel, introduced the deposition of Frederick E. Hafely, taken in Philadelphia last Wednesday. He is President of the Hills & Hafely Company of 27 East Twenty-second Street. He deposed that his firm published a form of Protestant Episcopal marriage certificate. Upon being shown the alleged marriage certificate upon which Mrs. Wood based her claim of marriage to Mr. Platt, Mr. Hafely identified it as one of a batch of similar certificates printed exclusively for his firm.

Mr. Hafely then went into a long explanation as to how these crtificates were printed, and swore that the Wood-Platt certificate had not been printed until after Feb. 8, 1902, although Mrs. Wood asserted that the Senator had given it to her on the day of the alleged wedding on Nov. 9, 1901. Mr. Hafely's explanation as to how he knew that this particular certificate was not in existence until 1902, was that prior to that year the word "and" in the date line, which reads: "——day of —— in the year of Our Lord Nineteen hundred and ——," had been omitted, and he did not order it reinstated until Feb. 8, 1902. The word "and" appeared in the Wood-Platt certificate. This evidence produced a profound sensation.

Platt's Son Tells of Letters.

Frank H. Platt, son of the defendant, and member of the law firm of O'Brien, Boardman, Platt & Littleton, testified that his father turned over to him the letters he had received from the firm of Howe & Hummel in 1903, when they were retained by Mrs. Wood in a contemplated action against Senator Platt. He told of

DR. MITCHELL ON EDDYISM.

Amazed That Disciplined American Minds Are Taken In by It.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—"Although Eddyism, in one form or another is as old as civilization, I am amazed that the disciplined minds of Americans, usually so skeptical, should be taken in in such increasing numbers by an elderly woman with a smile," said Dr. S. Weir Mitchell to-day in an address before the American Neurological Association, of which he has just been elected President.

"It is not against psychotherapy that I charge you," the doctor went on, "but against the proneness to overstate its claims as an available remedy. No organic disease was ever cured by it, and its legitimate uses are circumscribed. The rational employment of it in some cases is without doubt of incalculable benefit, but its wanton misuse is inexcusable.

"I would not be understood as discrediting in any way the practice by influence on the mind. I have known a good whipping to better a sick child amazingly. I know of a bad-tempered woman whose bursts of rage were ungovernable and rapidly becoming chronic who was cured of them by an application of severe physical pain. Kleptomania yields sometimes to the same treatments. I knew of a woman who was obsessed with the idea that she could not eat, and who when she was told that she was getting thin and ugly promply recovered her appetite and her health. But there is nothing of Eddyism in these instances. These one might classify as 'imperative suggestion.'"

FOR STRANGERS IN TOWN.

Detectives Find Out What Can Happen After an Encounter on the Bowery.

While Detectives Howry and Mott were walking in the Bowery yesterday a small boy asked Mott: "Where'd yer get the come-on?"

The question staggered the detectives, but Mott replied that Howry was a rich Count. The lad arranged with Mott to meet him with the victim in Chatham Square at 10 o'clock.

"We'll take the sucker to the house and me pal'll choke the life out o' him. Then I'll frisk him, and we'll all meet in Chinatown and divy up," said he.

Howry pretended not to understand, and Mott agreed to the arrangement. The detectives kept the engagement at 10 o'clock, and after taking Howry around many blocks "so's he'll lose himself," as the boy explained, the trio entered the tenement at 84 Pike Street and went to the top floor, where the lad said his confederate was hiding in a closet.

Mott led Howry up to the closet, arranging him so that his back was to it, and instantly the door opened, and out darted a youth with a slender bit of rope about fifteen inches long in his hands. On each end was fashioned a loop so that once around a man's throat the operator could easily choke him.

Before the youth could get his rope in place both detectives pulled their revolvers and announced themselves. They took the prisoners to Headquarters, where the lad said he was Fred Woodruff, 14 years old and homeless. His companion said he was George B. Ellis, 18 years old, and married, and living in the Pike Street house. Both were locked up.

BILL, THE TAPIR, IS DEAD.

He Was Homesick, but 'Twas the Pictures That Finished Him.

Quite sad was the death of Bill, the Central Park tapir, who departed this life yesterday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. The Central Park Zoo has not often succeeded in getting a specimen of this South American animal. The few which have spent a few weeks at the Zoo were not particularly lusty tapirs. They soon died.

Last Tuesday came Bill, the biggest, lustiest, handsomest tapir that ever went to Central Park. He cost $4,000. But he was morose and melancholy. He was changed from house to house. Finally the keepers took the capybara out of the old hippopotamus cage and put Bill in that. He grew as gloomy as a trust President.

It was thought that he missed his home scenery, so he was taken out of his cage for a day or so while one of New York's best imitators threw upon the walls reproductions of masterpieces in the way of Brazilian swamps.

Yesterday, at 3:10 o'clock, they led Bill back to his cage. He took one look at the pictures on the wall, rolled over, and died, moaning as if he said:

"Fake pictures."

WANTED SINGING PLAYMATE.

So Mrs. Kittenger of South Orange Adopted One for Her Boy.

Norman Thomas Simpson, the fifteen-year-old son of ex-Policeman and Mrs. Thomas Simpson of South Orange, has been adopted by Mrs. Rosalie Kittenger, a wealthy woman of Morristown, in order to please her young son, who longed for a singing playmate.

Young Simpson is the soprano soloist of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Morristown, and Mrs. Kittenger's son Lloyd is one of the choir boys. The Kittenger boy is ambitious to become a soloist, and, believing that Simpson could teach him, he asked his mother to adopt the South Orange boy, which she has done with the consent of his parents.

Mrs. Kittenger is sending Simpson to the high school in Morristown with her son, and later will send both to a musical college.

LIKELY TO EXPEL LILLEY.

John Sharp Williams Will Make the Motion Unless He Resigns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Expulsion from Congress may be the fate of Representative G. L. Lilley of Connecticut if he does not resign before noon on Saturday. It was announced to-day that John Sharp Williams will introduce a resolution to expel Lilley for his charges of corruption against certain members of the House in connection with the award of contracts for submarines. This resolution will be offered at noon Saturday.

The prevailing opinion is that the Connecticut Representative will be ousted by an almost unanimous vote. Representative Ollie James said to-day that those who voted against the adoption of the report of the investigating committee did so because they did not believe it went far enough. The opposition, he said, wanted to vote the report down in order to expel Lilley immediately.

Representative Broussard, a member of the committee, also expressed his conviction that Lilley should be removed from public life. This, likewise, is the opinion of Representative Olcott of New York.

DOCTOR IMPERILED AT MARSH AUTOPSY

Injury to Dr. Van Giesan's Arm Treated to Prevent Hydrophobia.

MARSH DIED OF RABIES

And Not of Drugs, the Coroner Finds —Three Men Bitten by a Stray Dog in Brooklyn.

While assisting Coroner Brewer and Coroner's Physician Emil Hartung to make an autopsy upon the body of William H. Marsh, the Brooklyn hydrophobia victim, yesterday afternoon, Dr. Ira Van Giesan of the Health Department accidentally scratched his arm upon a part of the spine, which he was removing. He immediately went to the Pasteur Institute for treatment as a precautionary measure.

The autopsy was held at Mr. Marsh's home, 74 Ocean Avenue, Flatbush, following the refusal by the Health Department of a burial permit. The refusal was due to the published statement of Clark Bell, President of the Medico-Legal Society, that in his belief Mr. Marsh had succumbed to drugs administered by physicians to free his last moments from pain. While he found that opiates had been administered, Coroner Brewer said that Mr. Marsh's death was not hastened by them. The dying man was conscious until an hour before his death, showing that an excessive narcotic or anaesthetic had not been administered. Coroner Brewer declared that the autopsy showed that death was due wholly to rabies. Mr. Marsh's spine and brain were taken to the research laboratory of the Health Department, in Manhattan, for examination.

Miss Edna Thompson of 23 Linden Avenue, Brooklyn, Mr. Marsh's stenographer, who, like her employer, frequently fondled the spaniel from which the manufacturer contracted the disease, was removed from her home yesterday morning to the Pasteur Institute for observation.

Three men were bitten in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon by a stray terrier. Several other persons had narrow escapes before the animal was captured and shot. The first man bitten was James Trumbull, 70 years old, of 90 Vanderbilt Avenue. The dog attacked Trumbull at Ryerson Street and Myrtle Avenue and bit him on the left leg. At Flushing and Carlton Avenues the dog ran up to Frank O'Neil of 81 Fulton Street and bit him in the left leg. The third man attacked was William Rand of 117 Cumberland Street.

After attacking Rand the dog ran up Portland Avenue, pursued by several hundred persons. It turned into Park Avenue and again into Carlton Avenue, where it was cornered and shot by Patrolman Maguire of the Flushing Avenue Station in front of 69 Carlton Avenue. The men who were bitten were attended by Ambulance Surgeon Bacon of the Cumberland Street Hospital, who cauterized their wounds and advised them to go to the Pasteur Institute for treatment. The dog's body was sent to the Health Department for examination.

Upon receiving word last night from Coroner Brewer of the result of the autopsy Mr. Marsh's family announced that funeral services would be held at the family residence, 74 Ocean Avenue, this evening. The Rev. Charles J. Wyckoff, pastor of Grace Reformed Church, Lincoln Road and Bedford Avenue, will officiate. Mr. Marsh will be buried in Greenwood.

PLAY CARDS IN COURT.

Newark Assistant Prosecutor Beats a Gambler with a Marked Pack.

The spectacle of an Assistant Prosecutor of Essex County, N. J., playing cards with a professional gambler and winning by using a marked pack of cards, was witnessed yesterday in Newark in the Quarter Sessions Court by Judge Ten Eyck, a jury that was trying Jacob Kugel on a gambling charge, and an interested throng of spectators.

Morris Meisner admitted to Assistant Prosecutor Frederick Lehlbach that he was a professional gambler after a cross-examination regarding evidence he had given as to Kugel's good character. The Assistant Prosecutor then asked Meisner if he knew how to play "stuss." Meisner said he did, and Mr. Lehlbach suggested a game.

The two sat down at a table inside the bar, and, to the gambler's chagrin, he was beaten easily by the Assistant Prosecutor, and then was beaten by Rudolph A. Braun, Kugel's counsel. Then Meisner was told that the deck of cards was marked, and was one that had been taken from Kugel's gambling place. He would not believe it at first, but, after studying the cards for a few moments, he admitted that they were marked. Then he won a game easily.

Kugel was found guilty of the charge of conducting a gambling house in a very short time.

YALE TAP DAY SURPRISES.

Fairbanks, Taft, and McKee Awaited Slaps Which Did Not Come.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 21.—Tap Day at Yale furnished many surprises in the list of annual elections to the senior societies. Robert Fairbanks, son of the Vice President, was regarded as sure of an election to one of the three, but failed. The ceremonies take place on the campus and consist of each successful candidate's being slapped on the back in token of his election.

Others of the Class of 1909 who failed of election included Ponson Chu, the Chinese Prince; Benjamin Harrison McKee of New York, grandson of the late President Harrison, and William Howard Taft of Washington.

James Benton Grant of Denver, editor in chief of The Yale Daily News, received the honor of being the last man slapped for the Society of the Scroll and Keys. Ted Van Vleck, the 'Varsity pitcher, was slapped for the Society of the Wolf's Head, but refused the election, expecting to be slapped for the Skull and Bones. He was disappointed, however, as the other society filled its quota without him.

Boy Drowned In Park Lake.

A game of tag over the slippery rocks at the head of the Harlem Mere in Central Park last evening proved fatal for twelve-year-old David Kleinberg of 2,333 Second Avenue, when he slipped on a rock and slid into the lake, about opposite 108th Street.

Policeman Whalen of the Arsenal Station and a boatman recovered his body.

POLICE CLUB STUDENTS.

Columbia Sophomores Driven from a Harlem Resort.

Columbia students threatened last night to report to Police Commissioner Bingham the action of the reserves of the West 100th Street Station, who, the students say, attacked a crowd of them in the Lion Palace at 110th Street and Broadway last night and drove them from the resort with a great exercise of their clubs. Many of the students were badly beaten before they escaped from the police.

The trouble started over the Sophomore Triumph, the annual event which the sophomores hold on the night of the last final examination. The affair started last night with a huge bonfire in South Field. Residents of the neighborhood telephoned to the police, and fire departments and reserves and firemen hurried to the place.

The bonfire was put out, and the students, forming behind a band, marched down Amsterdam Avenue toward 110th Street, where there are several resorts. The policeman on post saw the crowd of singing and shouting youths marching down upon him and telephoned for the reserves.

By the time they arrived most of the 200 or 300 students were in the Lion Palace. The management said afterward that there had been no complaint to make over their conduct, but nevertheless the police swooped into the place with drawn clubs and began beating every one in sight and driving them into the street.

Several witnesses of the affair said that no opposition was made to the policemen, and the students dispersed as quickly as they could escape to the street. Only one man was arrested, and at the stationhouse the charge against him was dismissed, and he was allowed to go.

THE ISLAND BRIDGE SAFE.

Experts Find the Structure Capable of Bearing Four Times Its Weight.

"By actual tests made by the best experts obtainable in engineering and bridge construction, the Blackwell's Island bridge, linking Manhattan and Long Island City, is not only safe, but what is much more, is fully capable of carrying four times as much weight as can be placed upon it when completed."

This statement was made authoritatively by Vice President D. S. Sanborn of the Committee of Forty at a meeting of that body in Strack's Casino, Astoria, L. I., last night. Mr. Sanborn based his statement on information furnished to him by Bridge Commissioner Stevenson. He did not give the names of the engineers who made the test.

This bridge is said to be almost a counterpart of that ill-fated cantilever bridge at Quebec, and instead of being already overloaded, as has been charged in some quarters, the engineers who made the tests for the city find the bridge stanch and true, and equal to any strain.

The experts reported that there is now every indication that the bridge will be completed this year and opened for traffic.

MAY DEFEAT BURROWS.

Roosevelt Men Ready to Elect Another Chairman of Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Word went out to-night that Senator J. C. Burrows may yet have hard sledding in taking his seat as temporary Chairman of the Republican National Convention at Chicago next month.

There is trouble brewing for him among the Roosevelt men in the Senate and House, and they are ready to make a fight in the convention if the President gives the word. They have been counting noses for the last two days and taking stock of the opposition to Burrows. They find that it extends even into his own State. It is based solely upon his well-known opposition to Roosevelt, and one of the main rallying cries is the remark attributed to Burrows that "we've got him on the toboggan slide at last," meaning Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt insurgents are afraid the selection of Burrows indicates a deal in the National Committee to keep the convention from declaring in favor of the Roosevelt policies, and they declare that the friends of Roosevelt are going to control the convention or know the reason why.

Senator Burrows called at the White House this morning and had a few minutes' conversation with the President. But, as was learned from both sides, the subject of the temporary Chairmanship at Chicago was not mentioned. Burrows said he simply called to "pay his respects."

HARRIMAN WINS OVER GOULD.

Got San Francisco Terminals While Edwin Gould Was on Way.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 21.—E. H. Harriman has beaten the Goulds in one round for the control of San Francisco harbor terminals. He obtained control of the ocean shore railroad concessions and holdings to-day from J. Downey Harvey, at a conference held in the office of the Pacific Electric Company. At the conference were Mr. Harvey, Peter Martin, Walter Martin, Epes Randolph, and W. F. Herrin.

At the same time, Edwin Gould and William H. Taylor had come on from New York, but were too late to accomplish anything in connection with the deal. The ocean shore holdings include the standard right of way through the heart of San Francisco.

UNION PACIFIC WORK GOES ON

Work on Big Shops at Omaha Will Now Be Completed.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, May 21.—E. H. Harriman has authorized the completion of the big Union Pacific Railroad shops in Omaha, which will require the expenditure of about $2,000,000.

Two years ago the Union Pacific began the work of rebuilding the big shops in Omaha, and $1,500,000 had been spent when the flurry came on last Fall, and all work was stopped.

Chicago Ends Municipal Experiment.

GIANT LUSITANIA BREAKS HER RECORD

Cunarder Now Ahead of All Competitors for a Twenty-four-Hour Run.

NEARLY 25 KNOTS AN HOUR

Off Fire Island at 1:05 This Morning, Going Slow in Fog, but Far Ahead of Time.

The giant turbine Cunarder Lusitania, incoming, from Liverpool and Queenstown, was reported off Fire Island at 1:05 this morning with new records to her credit for the trip and for a day's run. Fog and storm, apparently, have delayed the liner, or the new record might have been a greater feat.

The Fire Island observer made out the Lusitania with difficulty through a thick fog. She was under reduced speed and groping her way to Sandy Hook for anchorage. Granting that, under reduced speed, she does not come abeam of the Sandy Hook Lightship until 2:45 o'clock, she will still be much ahead of her best previous record. She will have made the trip in 4 days 20 hours and 12 minutes, beating her best previous record of five days over the long course by three hours and forty-eight minutes.

The Lusitania passed the Nantucket Lightship at 6:30 o'clock last evening. Smoke was pouring from all four of her funnels, and she was cutting through the water, apparently keeping up the record running she has made since she left Daunt's Rock at 11:33 A. M. last Sunday.

The sea was smooth and the weather clear. She passed close to the lightship. It then appeared that she was going in excess of twenty-five knots an hour.

As the Lusitania passed the lightship her side rails were lined with passengers cheering and waving their hats. As she passed onward she lowered her colors, and the lightship responded by dipping her flag. The lightship crew manned every point of vantage and cheered as the great liner went by.

The Cunarder has traveled over the long course—2,890 knots. In November over the short course—2,780 knots—she made it in 4 days 18 hours and 40 seconds, and at an average speed of 24.35 knots.

The Lusitania was reported 346 miles east of Sandy Hook at noon yesterday. It was figured at the office of the company that for the nautical day ending at noon yesterday she had broken all records for a day's run, and that she had logged 646 knots for the twenty-four hours ending at noon yesterday.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 21.—The Cunarder Lusitania passed Nantucket Shoals Lightship close aboard this evening at 6:37, bound for New York. The wireless operators of the navy stationed on board the lightship had been waiting to hear the clicking of the wireless telegraph. The Captain hoisted all his colors, dipped the English Naval Reserve Ensign, and blew three long blasts as the big steamer passed.

Answering the courtesy, the lightship colors were dipped three times and as many times the big steamer's whistle was sounded, while the passengers on the big liner waved their handkerchiefs and hats. She was passing at splendid speed over a smooth sea, with a light southwest wind. The weather was somewhat cloudy, but generally good conditions were prevailing for the final heat on the home-stretch run, which all the world is watching with interest.

Many wireless messages were dispatched from the ship by her passengers to relatives and friends telling them at what hour to be at the wharf to-morrow morning to meet the ship. Through the work of the naval wireless operators at the torpedo station and from on board Nantucket Shoals Lightship the whole world received the news of the time and conditions of the Lusitania's passing.

CELEBRATES 107TH BIRTHDAY.

Woman Inmate of Jewish Home Says She Saw Napoleon.

Rosie Aronwald, an inmate of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob at 302 East Broadway, celebrated her 107th birthday yesterday, and there was a gala time in the home. Supt. Albert Kruger provided a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Aronwald, which was attended by all the old men in the institution, led by Mendel Diamondstein, who is 106 years old, and the women, among whom is Esther Davis is leader by reason of her 112 years.

Mrs. Aronwald is still able to read without the aid of glasses, and has all her faculties. Her disposition is of the sweetest unless some one dares to speak of her as old. Then she flies into a temper.

She was born in Warsaw, Russia, and lived there until twenty years ago. Mrs. Aronwald is fond of boasting that she saw Napoleon in Warsaw.

5 DEAD IN WESTERN TORNADO.

Dwellings Crushed, School Wrecked, and Barns Blown Away by Storm.

SALINA, Kan., May 21.—Mrs. Fred Grothe was killed and several others more or less injured in a tornado which struck Lincoln, a small town northwest of Salina, last night. Several houses were destroyed, a number were unroofed, and many barns were blown down.

CLAY CENTRE, Kan., May 21.—A tornado passed through the northern part of this county last night, killing three persons and doing much damage. Telegraph lines are down.

OTTUMWA, Iowa, May 21.—Southern Iowa was swept to-day by a terrific windstorm which at Albia assumed the form of a tornado. The Grant School in Albia was wrecked and the roof crashed through the rooms below just fifteen minutes before assembly time. Pupils and teachers escaped injury. J. M. Taylor was instantly killed by a heavy corn crib which the whirlwind picked up and dropped on him.

3 MEN IN AIRSHIP FLIGHT.

Knabenshue Tries His Passenger-Carrying Craft, Making a Successful Test.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 21.—From his temporary aerodrome on Collingwood Heights this evening, A. Roy Knabenshue successfully navigated an airship carrying passengers. With him in this test flight were Carl Hess and Charles Hamilton. Without a hitch, the big new car was driven in every position, before the wind, across it, and directly against it, with the ship ascending and descending.

The flight was a short one and was made to test the craft as to the distribution of weight and the adjustment of the aeroplanes and propeller. Knabenshue lifted the craft high into the air by means of the aeroplanes, and, reaching this position, drove it around at various angles, making a circuit of some six or seven blocks. Then he tipped the car down until it almost touched the earth, and finally sent it scurrying along to the opening of the tent two blocks away, where it was seized by his assistants and carried safe inside.

The car is 112 feet in length and carries two aeroplanes.

WILBUR WRIGHT IN TOWN.

But Invisible—Charles R. Flint Thinks He May Be in a Balloon.

Wilbur Wright of the Wright brothers, aeronauts, has been in town since Tuesday, but few persons have seen him. Mr. Wright is registered at the Park Avenue Hotel, and there is a pile of letters and telegrams awaiting him there, but late last night he had not appeared to claim them.

Mr. Wright was variously reported yesterday as about to dine with Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese Minister, and to confer with Charles R. Flint. Mr. Wu said that Mr. Wright was not dining with him. Charles R. Flint said he knew nothing of Mr. Wright or any conference with Mr. Wright, who, as far as he knew, had not come here to confer, breakfast, or dine with him.

"Where is he?" repeated Mr. Flint when the reporter asked him that. "Well, now, my idea is that he may have gone up in a balloon, and unless you have the equipment to follow him I'm afraid you'll have to wait till he comes down."

Mr. Wright was quoted by the same newspaper that had him intending to dine with Mr. Wu and confer with Mr. Flint as having said that the recent accident to the Wright machine at Manco, N. C., was trifling, and could have been repaired on the spot for less than $50.

LEFT ROOSEVELT $10,000.

Eccentric Recluse Had Never Attended Church or Theatre.

BOSTON, May 21.—Upon the authenticity of a new will and two codicils, which have just been discovered and which provide for a bequest of $10,000 to President Roosevelt, depends the distribution of the $500,000 estate left by Benjamin Hadley, an eccentric recluse who was found dead in his home in Somerville last December.

If the new documents are genuine, which will be determined by the courts, all of the estate with the exception of the $10,000 bequest to the President, will be distributed among the English relatives of the testator.

The will, which is now awaiting probate, and which leaves the estate to the testator's nephew, was dated Jan. 18, 1907, about a year before Mr. Hadley's death. The instrument, which has just been found, was dated in 1889, and under ordinary conditions would be inoperative, but attached to it are two codicils, one dated Aug. 13, 1907, and the other Nov. 16, 1907.

Mr. Hadley, who died alone in his home as a result of a fall down stairs, had many peculiarities. He had never ridden on a train and never attended church or theatre.

RUEF JURY DISAGREES.

After Forty-four Hours of Vain Discussion It Is Dismissed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—After being out for forty-four hours the jury in the trial of Abraham Ruef failed to agree on a verdict and was discharged this evening by Judge Dooling.

The specific charge against Ruef in the trial just closed was the offer of a bribe of $1,000 to ex-Supervisor Jennings Phillips to influence his vote favorably on the electric road franchise applied for by the Parkside Realty Company. The jury stood six to six on the thirteen ballots taken. There are 111 indictments still pending against Ruef.

FOR CURRENCY COMMISSION.

Senate Passes a Resolution Brought Forward by Aldrich.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Senate to-day passed a joint resolution to create the Monetary Commission. It was introduced by Mr. Aldrich and provided for nine members each from the Senate and the House. It is to investigate not only the financial system of the United States, but is empowered to extend its labors to the National banking laws.

The members are not confined to this country in their researches, but may go abroad if it is deemed necessary to study conditions in foreign countries at first hand.

PATERSON FEELS SLANDERED.

Mayor McBride Brings Libel Suit Against a Magazine and a Writer.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 21.—Mayor McBride of this city has instructed City Counsel Merry to start suit for libel against The Broadway Magazine of New York City and Broughton Brandenburgh, a writer, for disparaging statements regarding Paterson, made by the writer in an article "The Menace of the Red Flag," in the current number of the periodical.

Mayor McBride said to-day that the statements made by Brandenburgh were false and slanderous, as Brandenburgh should know, and that he and other writers must cease publishing such falsehoods.

A previous article of similar character, of which Paterson complained, was written by Brandenburgh for Collier's Weekly, which later retracted statements in the article.

RAILROADS FIGHTING THE CORN CORNER

Rushing the Yellow Grain Into Chicago at an Unprecedented Speed.

SHORTS GREATLY CHEERED

Begin to Hope Patton Will Get Drubbing Like That Given Joseph Leiter by P. D. Armour.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The railroads in the corn belt have decided to break "Big Jim" Patton's corner in corn if they can. The Chicago plunger will have the shorts at his mercy unless they can secure corn inside of eight days. If they don't get the corn to fill their contracts Patton can send the price to a dollar if he wishes.

The railroads are making efforts to facilitate shipments. It became known to-day that the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad had instructed its Traffic Superintendents to see that the loading of corn should be subject to no delay.

The news created a sensation on the Board of Trade. It reached the board in the form of a report over the ticker that the Burlington Road had promised that corn from all Nebraska points would reach Chicago within forty-eight hours after loading.

As soon as this report was read speculation became rife as to what would be the result. By many it was construed as a blow to the Patton interests.

One car of corn arrived over the Illinois Central this morning that was loaded in Omaha Tuesday. When the shippers on the Board of Trade heard of this extraordinary run—it probably holds the record for quick work in forwarding a consignment for the distance—they stood speechless with wonder.

Many more cars will follow in short order. Over a million bushels of the golden grain, it is said, are awaiting shipment to this market from Omaha alone, and it is now figured that probably twice that amount of Nebraska corn will find its way into local elevators before the end of the month, whence it will be available for delivery to the Patten crowd on May contracts.

The report that large quantities of corn are speeding this way had a quieting effect upon the pit to-day. The shorts thought they saw a loophole through which they possibly could escape from their predicament, and they manifested less anxiety to cover. The market presented an appearance of calm that contrasted strikingly with recent excited sessions. The May price touched 78 cents early, but fell back to 77⅛ cents.

Unwilling to hold the market up as a target for heavy shipments from the country, the bull leaders made no effort to boost the price. Mr. Patten, chewing gum as usual, was on the floor for the greater part of the session, but he kept away from the corn pit. Most of the time he was over on the cash side of the floor, keeping his eye on the sample market. His brokers had orders to buy up all the corn that was suitable for contract purposes. In this way the shorts were prevented from securing it for delivery on May contracts.

The situation to-day with respect to corn is much like the situation brought about when Joseph Leiter several years ago undertook to corner the wheat market against Philip D. Armour. He turned the situation on Leiter by flooding the market with wheat. So it is wondered by many if Patton will be worsted in his deal by an enormous influx of the yellow grain brought in by Armour's son, who is said to have been squeezed in the present corner.

NO ANTI-INJUNCTION LAW.

Republicans of House in Conference Put Matter Off to Next Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—By a vote of 76 to 63 the Republican conference adjourned sine die to-night without getting together on any injunction programme. The whole matter is left over for next year.

There was hot discussion for three hours, in which the Speaker took an active part. Two votes on adjournment were necessary before the will of the House machine prevailed.

First, by a vote of 69 to 68, the conference refused to adopt the motion of Mr. Fassett of New York to adjourn sine die. Discussion then went on, hinged on the Payne and Hepburn bills. The Hepburn bill had the support of the insurgents as being more sweeping in its provisions. This bill provides that hearings shall precede injunction unless it appear that delay would cause irreparable injury.

But the machine stood out against all argument and ordered the adjournment by its vote, settling it that there shall be no legislation this year.

In the course of the evening Mr. Fassett became overcome by the close air in the chamber, fainted, and fell back in his chair. He was carried to the Republican cloak room, where he was revived by repeated dashes of water in his face. He then returned to the hall and remained until the conference broke up.

After the adjournment of the conference Speaker Cannon expressed the opinion that it would be eight or ten days before final adjournment of Congress could be reached.

It is worthy of remark in this connection that President Roosevelt already has "taken notice" of the thirty-two-million-dollar Public Building bill, although that measure is still in conference between the two houses of Congress. He to-day asked Secretary Cortelyou to prepare a report on the measure to guide him in determining whether to sign or veto it.

That there is a connection between the President's desire to be fully informed as to the Public Building bill and his desire to have passed an anti-injunction law and to have subsidies provided for ocean mail carrying steamers, is declared to be most obvious. It is conceded that there was no measure passed at this session more toothsome to members of both houses than the Public Building bill. The prospect of having this bill vetoed would cause alarm.

Meanwhile the President is continuing his personal work with members.

BARON SAKATANI GUEST OF J. H. SCHIFF

Nothing but Commercial Rivalry Between Nations Now, Says the Host.

HE SPEAKS FOR PEACE

Our Fleet No Menace, He Declares at Dinner to the Distinguished Visitor.

Bearing personal testimony to the friendship between Japan and the United States, twoscore men, representative of the financial, commercial, and educational interests of New York gathered last night at the St. Regis as guests of Jacob H. Schiff to welcome to this country Baron Sakatani, until recently Minister of Finance in the Japanese Empire. The distinguished foreigner is making his first visit to the United States and comes to this city for his first extended stay, after a brief visit to Chicago, "one of the suburbs of New York," as Mr. Schiff put it.

The company sat at table before entwined flags of the two nations. Mr. Schiff presided and at his right hand sat Baron Sakatani, with Cornelius N. Bliss at his left. Edward H. Harriman and George J. Gould, who have recently come to an amicable understanding as to the concerns of the railroad systems of which they are the respective heads, were near by, and the others in the company were:

Nicholas Murray Butler, A. Barton Hepburn, Hamilton Fish, Capt. Green, First Vice President, Pennsylvania Railroad; Melville E. Stone, Rudolph Ellis of Philadelphia, Robert C. Clowry, Henry E. Tatnall of Philadelphia, Frank Vanderlip, Isaac N. Seligman, E. D. Adams, William Salomon, Oswald G. Villard, Valentine P. Snyder, Gen. James H. Wilson, Consul General Midzuno, Mr. Yagin, Mr. Ono, Thomas P. Fowler, Henry Ickelheimer, Isidor Straus, Paul D. Cravath, Adolph S. Ochs, Prof. Loeb, Richard Schuster, Henry Seligman, Herman Ridder, Dr. Takamino, Mr. Ishinomiya, Mr. Magoshi, Mr. Imanishi, Mr. Yokayama, Mr. Kimura, Mr. Kobayashi.

Schiff Tells of Trip to Japan.

After the coffee Mr. Schiff arose to greet the guests of the evening. Speaking of the reception accorded to him on his trip to Japan last year, he said:

"I have never flattered myself that the honors thrust upon me during my visit to Japan were solely in the nature of personal compliments, but I grasped the idea that they were an expression of the appreciation of the people of Japan for the moral and financial aid rendered by the American people in Japan's hour of peril and need. And while with my associates I had the privilege of assuming at least one-half of the financial burden that bore upon the Japanese people in that struggle, I have felt that I received very much more than my share of the expressions of good feeling of the Japanese people for America.

"And since I have returned to my own country I have freely spoken my admiration for the people of Japan—for their wonderful industry, courage, intellectuality, and the moderation which they practiced in their hour of triumph. I felt their desire for the friendship of all nations, and particularly for that of the United States. Now, Baron Sakatani, you have just left the high office in which you rendered distinguished service to your country and your Emperor, and have come to our country for the first time, to see something of our people and our ways. We bid you a hearty welcome.

"It is right, I am sure, that you have not tarried on your way, stopping only in Chicago, which is but one of our suburbs, and have hurried to this imperial city. You will be impressed by the fact that the American people have nothing but good-will and friendship for the people of Japan, and when you go back home you will take with you the impression that no such general prejudice exists among us in this country against you and your people as a very small number of agitators on the Pacific Coast some time ago expressed.

Our Fleet Not a Menace.

"Even if we are sending a fleet of battleships around the world—and we need a fleet to preserve the peace in our own waters—yet we can tell you that all the steel that goes into all our ships will long have been sold for junk before our people and your people will cease to be friends. The only struggle between you and us is the struggle for the commercial supremacy of the world, and if you will hold fast to the maxim of the open door, which we have so senselessly suppressed in our own country, you may rest assured that we will begrudge you no advantage that you may fairly gain in this peaceful contest.

"You meet here to-night the bankers, lawyers, business men and educators who represent the best that there is in our municipal and National life. I thank them for accepting this invitation, though I know how gladly they have come to do you honor."

Peace, Says Sakatani.

Mr. Schiff proposed a toast to Baron Sakatani and to Japan, which was drunk standing, and then he called on the guest of honor. Baron Sakatani, while apologizing for his limited supply of English, yet suggested that perhaps he could speak more of it than many of the diners could Japanese. He declared, however, that no lingual equipment would suffice to express one-hundredth part of the thanks he wished to convey for the tribute paid to him and his people.

"The visit of Mr. Schiff to Japan, during which, the Baron said, the banker became one of his best friends, had served to bring to him a keen appreciation of the friendship existing between the two peoples, and he assured the company that public sentiment in Japan had now so quieted down that no further talk was heard of trouble between Japan and the United States.

After extending on behalf of his nation the warmest thanks for the financial and moral support given to Japan by this country during the Russian war, Baron Sakatani proposed a toast to Mr. Schiff.

The next speaker was Consul General Midzuno, also a newcomer to America. Mr. Midzuno had something the better of his compatriot in the matter of English, and said that although he was as much surprised at being called upon as he was on arriving here to be obliged to wear an overcoat in May, he would "stick to the job."

Mr. Midzuno referred to the great success achieved by Baron Takahira, the new Japanese Ambassador, in his mission here during the Russian war and suggested that one day it might be availed of to add a few more Japanese I. O. U.'s to the American holdings.

War Clouds Gone, Says Midzuno.

"This gathering," continued Mr. Midzuno, "takes place at a most auspicious time, when the clouds that lately were seen by some on the international horizon have entirely passed away and the sky is now so clear that even the most pessimistic have no material with which to stir up anti-Japanese sentiment.

"All questions between our country and yours have been settled in the happiest manner. Let us hope and trust that the most cordial relations between the two nations, now established, will continue during all time.

"It has been well said that peace hath her victories no less renowned than war. I think that I may say with modesty that Japan in war has won the admiration of the world: it is now for Japan to show that in peace she can win victories no less renowned. Let my words be the prophecy of what will be sought and achieved in Japan for centuries to come."

Mr. Schiff next called on President Butler, who said in part:

Butler on Peace and War.

"I am reminded of a remark made by a distinguished Japanese at a dinner two years ago, suggesting to us that while the Japanese people had been for some centuries contributing to the art of the world, yet it had remained for them to win real recognition among the nations by their achievements in war. He asked if this should be considered an indication that at bottom the civilized world preferred the achievements of war.

"I believe that no real observer of what is going on would entertain such an idea for a moment. There are, as I conceive it, three chief enemies of peace. One is greed, one is passion, and the third ignorance. Greed and passion will have to await the progress of education, but ignorance is being rapidly dispelled.

"This distinguished gentleman, our guest, has performed services in his own land that have bound us together, not only by common ties of commerce and trade, but by a common fund of information and common interests. I believe that these ties bind men even more closely than those of blood. Every time a loan is placed by one nation with another an important step is taken toward forging a new link between the two peoples concerned.

"There is a place for the patriot who leads in arms when war has been brought about, but there should be no place in the civilized world for the man who deliberately tries to set the world by the ears in spreading unfounded rumors and bringing interests into violent conflict with each other. And I may say here that we owe a debt to the reputable newspapers of the United States for giving voice to the sound sentiments of the men who are truly representative of our people."

ANTI-BRYAN MEN ELATED.

Take Courage from Gov. Johnson's Strength in the South.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Three things have happened in the last three days which have filled the anti-Bryan men here with enthusiasm—the defeat of Bryan instructions in the Pennsylvania Convention yesterday, the remarkable showing made by Gov. Johnson in the Alabama primaries, and the defeat of Bryan in the Florida primaries. These things, in the judgment of the anti-Bryan men, more than offset the instructions for Bryan given in Michigan, Missouri, South Carolina, and Washington. They take courage especially from the result of the primaries in Alabama and Florida.

The South has all along been counted as the great Bryan stronghold. But the result of these primaries shows that just as soon as a campaign is made there among the people his strength is tremendously reduced. It is loudly claimed by the friends of Gov. Johnson that if his campaign in Alabama had lasted a few days longer he would have carried the State.

It is pointed out that in the States which have yet to choose their delegates the Bryan men will have their hardest campaigning. These include Maryland, which is practically ctrtain to go against him; Virginia, which will send an uninstructed delegation; West Virginia, which will probably follow suit; North Carolina, where it would not be surprising to have a positive anti-Bryan expression instead of a merely uninstructed delegation; Louisiana, which will not instruct; Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, and Georgia, where the anti-Bryan men are now in the field and working like beavers. These States will send a total of 156 delegates.

There were already elected 202 delegates uninstructed and 28 instructed for Gray and Johnson. These, with those on which the anti-Bryan men are now counting, would give them well on toward half the convention and make the nomination of Bryan impossible.

Up to date these States and Territories have held conventions:

BRYAN—Alabama, 22; California, 20; Illinois, 54; Indiana, 30; Iowa, 26; Kansas, 20; Massachusetts, 32; Michigan, 26; Missouri, 36; Nebraska, 16; North Dakota, 8; Ohio, 46; Oklahoma, 14; South Carolina, 18; South Dakota, 8; Washington, 10; Wisconsin, 26; Wyoming, 6; Alaska, 6; Hawaii, 6; Philippines, 6. Total—438.

OTHERS—Delaware, 6; Minnesota, 22. Total—28.

UNINSTRUCTED — Connecticut, 14; Florida, 10; New Jersey, 24; New York, 78; Pennsylvania, 68; Rhode Island, 8. Total—202.

In some of the States which have been put wholly in the Bryan column here there are defections from the Nebraskan, notably in Alabama and Massachusetts, and it is doubtful if the entire Michigan delegation is for him.

THOMAS WINS HIS POINT.

Bryan's Help Will Send Him to Denver as a Missouri Delegate.

Harry Walker, Secretary of the Bryan Progressive League, announced yesterday that the way had at last been opened for Augustus Thomas to second the nomination of Mr. Bryan at the Denver convention. It has long been known that this has been the ambition of the playwright-politician, but difficulties of magnitude stood in his way. It is said to be only through the interventon of Mr. Bryan himself that they have been overcome.

Mr. Thomas could not go to Denver except as a delegate, and New York did not want to send him. He had prepared a Bryan resolution for the State Convention, but Conners and Murphy managed to throttle it and leave him out in the cold. Then he thought of Missouri and his old home in Springfield, Mo. Then Bryan himself let it be known that he would feel gratified if somehow a place could be found for his old friend. So now two of the Missouri delegates have informed him they will be willing to yield Thomas their place.

HISGEN WILL NOT ACCEPT.

Would Rather Run for Bay State Governor Than for President.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 21.—Thomas L. Hisgen, who is reputed to be first choice of W. R. Hearst for the Independence Party nomination for President, announced to-day that he would positively decline to run if nominated.

Mr. Hisgen, who is President of the most formidable independent oil company in the East, says he prefers to run for Governor of Massachusetts with a chance of election as the fusion candidate of the Independence League and the Democracy. He rejected overtures for second place on the Democratic State ticket last Fall, and as Independence League nominee for Governor polled more votes than Henry M. Whitney, the Democratic candidate.

STEEL BARONS UNITED ON UPHOLDING PRICES

Members of Iron and Steel Institute Vote Unanimously to Retain Present Rates.

LAST DINNER OF THE SEASON

Gathering at the Waldorf—Brief Statement by Judge Gary Says Lower Prices Wouldn't Increase Purchases.

The leaders of the iron and steel industry, who, under the guidance of Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, have maintained an unbroken front in the face of depression in the steel business, refusing to cut prices, held their final dinner of the season at the Waldorf-Astoria last night after a series of conferences all day. Like all of the earlier dinners, which have been a bi-monthly event since last Fall, last night's feast was held behind closed doors. When it was over the guests all refused to tell what had been said.

The sentiment of the steel men was crystalized in a brief statement made public earlier in the day by Judge Gary, following the conference at his offices in the Empire Building. This is the statement:

> At the meeting to-day of representatives of the principal manufacturers of steel in this country the opinion was expressed by each one present that the prices of steel are reasonable and should not be reduced; that reduced prices would not increase purchases, and that most of their customers do not expect or desire any change. The opinion was unanimous that the meetings should be discontinued for the Summer months unless the Chairman should deem it advisable to meet at any time for reasons which do not now appear.

Last night's dinner was held under the auspices of the American Iron and Steel Institute, a corporation organized by Judge Gary early in the year to coordinate the leaders of the industry who have been holding to a united policy since the conferences were instituted last October. Besides the Presidents of the leading iron and steel manufacturing companies in the country and the officials of the subsidiaries of the steel corporation, there were present members of the Directorate of the Steel Corporation, including George W. Perkins.

The steel and iron men began to arrive in New York on Monday for the final meetings of the season, and for several days the Steel Corporation officials and the independents have been holding conferences on the general trade situation. Following the last meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute committees, at which the original policy of standing pat on prices was reaffirmed, there have been persistent rumors of dissensions in the ranks, and several of the larger independent steel companies have been named as breaking away from the main body in the matter of prices.

Despite specific denials from the heads of the companies named as having shaded prices, there was a widespread feeling in the financial district yesterday that the joint meeting of the general and subcommittees of the institute yesterday would develop a sentiment for a reduction in prices of the standard grades of manufactured steel in the hope of stimulating trade. That the minority, who are said to have favored a revision of the price schedule, if such there was, was won over to the view of the majority is shown by the positive terms of Judge Gary's announcement that the meeting was unanimous in reaffirming the policy of facing out the trade depression without concessions.

The Steel Corporation has been the backbone of the stand made by the leaders of the industry, and J. P. Morgan sounded the keynote of the policy adopted in a speech which he made last Fall at a dinner given to the steel and iron men by Judge Gary, which was the beginning of the dinners which have since been held regularly. Mr. Morgan reiterated Judge Gary's "conservatively optimistic" view of the outlook.

The informal conferences in Judge Gary's offices in the Empire Building, which preceded the meeting of the committees, were attended by representatives of the leading financial interests identified with the steel industry. Among them were Henry C. Frick, George F. Baker, Norman B. Ream, and George W. Perkins. While the Street was awaiting news of the conferences yesterday, a hopeful item of news was announced by Rogers, Brown & Co., the leading marketers of pig iron in the East, who said they had received definite advices from the Central West and the Pittsburg district that orders have been placed for about 200,000 tons of Northern and Southern pig iron at current quotations, a total which would materially stem the demoralization which ruled since last Fall in this branch of the trade.

The pig iron makers have had no part in the conferences which have kept the steel men together.

MURPHY AS PEACEMAKER.

Report That Conners Is to be Ousted to Appease Home Rulers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 21.—That Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy has assumed the rôle of peacemaker between the Home Rule Democrats and the regular organization, and that, in pursuance of the programme for the restoration of harmony, William J. Conners will be deposed as head of the Democratic State Committee at the Fall convention, is a report which has reached the Capitol, and is generally believed among Democratic politicians here.

Several of the Democrats who attended the recent conference of the Home Rule Democrats here a few days ago have since been in communication with the Tammany leader, either directly or through an intermediary. One of the latter declared to-day that Mr. Murphy would not regard the ousting of Conners even too big a price to pay for Democratic peace.

The peace movement got under way soon after it became evident that the McCarren bill, providing for "the better government of political parties," was likely to pass. Under this bill the Home Rule Democrats, or at least those home rulers who, like McCarren, were thrown unceremoniously out of the Carnegie Hall convention under the bludgeon rule of Conners, would have a walkover in getting into their own again when the State convention is held this Fall.

According to a Democrat here who recently visited Murphy, the latter emphatically declared that he had not voluntarily been a party to the Conners plan of seizing the State Committee. Mr. Murphy, according to this Democrat, declared that the resolution offered by Deputy State Treasurer George W. Batten of Lockport, which paved the way for the seizure and which was passed before a majority of the delegates knew what it was all about, had completely taken him off his feet, and that he did not approve of it.

Senator McCarren, when asked regarding the report, said: "This is the first I heard of it. I cannot believe it is true. One thing is certain, they must undo the wrong they have done and restore the stolen goods before there can be any talk of peace. If the Legislature passes my bill they will be compelled to do so anyhow, whether they want to or not. The home rule Democracy is not begging for peace."

George Fred Williams Withdraws.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 21.—George Fred Williams surprised the members of the Democratic delegation to Denver to-day by withdrawing from the contest for the place on the National Committee which he now holds. The opposition to Williams figured out a majority against him.

Jumped in Front of Train to Die.

PATERSON, N. J., May 21.—An unidentified man, about 30 years old, committed suicide by stepping in front of an Erie train at Grove Street at 7 o'clock this evening. The engine and five cars passed over the body, which was badly mutilated. Nothing in the man's suit, of gray coat and vest and black trousers, leads to his identification.

MAE WOOD ARRESTED; HER SUIT DISMISSED

an interview he had with Hummel, in which the latter produced letters in Senator Platt's handwriting, and also proof sheets and photographic plates of the letters which were to form an article for a Newark paper.

Frank Platt said that De Lancey Nicoll had arranged with Hummel for the suppression of the cause of action against his father and for the return of the letters on payment of $10,000, and the witness said he gave Mr. Nicoll that sum of money and saw him turn it over to Hummel. He said that Hummel then produced the release and two affidavits. The release bore the signature "Mae C. Wood."

"What did you do with the letters after you had read them?" asked Mr. Stanchfield.

"I took them to my office, wrapped them up in a bundle, sealed it, and put it in my desk."

Mr. Platt said that later he read the letters over carefully and kept some of them and burned the others. He denied that the originals of the four letters couched in endearing terms, which formed the chief corroboration of Mrs. Wood's story as to the marriage, were among them. There was not in any of them, said the witness, any allusion on his father's part to the subject of marriage.

Mr. Le Barbier then asked permission of the court for his client to examine Frank Platt, saying:

"Your honor, the plaintiff desires to cross-examine the witness." The court refused to allow this.

Mr. Le Barbier, in cross-examination, got from the witness the fact that one or two of the letters were addressed "Dear" or "Dearest."

"Why was the $10,000 paid?" he asked the witness.

"My father was about to be married for the second time and we thought it best to get rid of this woman."

Hummel Demanded $50,000.

"What amount was first demanded for the return of the letters?"

"Fifty thousand dollars by Mr. Hummel."

"What was the first demand you got for money?"

"When that blackmailing letter came from Hummel."

Mr. Le Barbier wanted the word "blackmailing" stricken out, but "let it stand" was Justice O'Gorman's order.

De Lancey Nicoll, called by Mr. Stanchfield, said that in October, 1903, he had been retained for Senator Platt, and identified a letter he had sent to Hummel in response to one received from Hummel. He said that Hummel told him that Mrs. Wood's claim was for breach of promise of marriage.

William J. Kinsley, handwriting expert, after examining the so-called "letter of admission" of Dec. 10, 1906, in which Senator Platt is purported to have acknowledged his marriage to Mrs. Wood, said that he did not believe the typewritten substance had been on the paper at the time the signature "T. C. Platt" was affixed. He next examined the alleged marriage certificate, and said that in his opinion the words "New York" were in the handwriting of Mrs. Wood, while he was also strongly of the opinion that the signature "Rev. Edward W. Rice" had also been written by the plaintiff.

Mr. Le Barbier then recalled Mrs. Wood. She reiterated her direct testimony, and stoutly asserted that the marriage certificate had been given to her by Senator Platt on the day of the alleged marriage. She was about to leave the stand when Justice O'Gorman said:

"One moment, madam. Do you say that the defendant married you?"

"I do."

"Do you now say he asked you to keep the marriage secret?"

"I do."

"How did you support yourself after the alleged marriage?"

"I did newspaper work and the other things I did before then?"

"Did the defendant suport you?"

"No. He wanted me to live in his apartment and say I was his secretary, but I refused."

"Don't you think it is the duty of a husband to support his wife?"

"I do; but if he wasn't gentleman enough to offer to do so, I was not going to ask him to."

"That will do, madam," said Justice O'Gorman impatiently.

Mr. Stanchfield did not take advantage of his right to address the court, but instead asked that the suit be dismissed.

Justice O'Gorman said he wanted to hear counsel for Mrs. Wood before giving his decision.

Mr. Le Barbier in a brief way summarized the evidence, and said he thought that under all the circumstances the evidence tended to prove the marriage. He added: "Counsel is free to confess that they accepted her story and submit it to the court."

Thinks Mae Wood Will Get Bail.

OMAHA, Neb., May 21.—John O. Yelser, an Omaha attorney formerly consulted by Mae C. Wood, when shown the dispatch telling of the Wood woman's commitment to the Tombs, said: "Of course, I cannot say what will be done to secure her freedom at this time. Nothing will be done by her friends here until word is received from the attorneys who have had charge of her suit in New York. My impression is, however, that she will be able to give the $5,000 necessary to secure her release."

SUSPECT INSURANCE MURDER.

Three Companies Engage in Investigation of Mysterious Deaths in Youngstown, Ohio.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 21.—Pittsburg detectives are working on what may turn out to be a big insurance fraud. The scene is at Youngstown, Ohio. The Reliance Insurance Company of Pittsburg and the Pittsburg offices of the Mutual Isurance Company of New York and the Metropolitan Life appear as the investigators.

Already the bodies of Jacob O. Besore, who died Jan. 5, and of his son, Jacob S. Besore, who died April 30, have been disinterred. The stomach of the younger man has been analyzed and found to contain a large quantity of strychnine. The analysis of the stomach of the father is not yet completed by City Chemist Stevenson of Youngstown.

That both the father and son were insured beyond their visible means for carrying insurance is alleged by the insurance companies. Developments showing the small wages made by the Besores led to a request for disinterment and analysis. Other cases in this neighborhood may depend upon the outcome of the Besore family affair, as it is said the three companies feel that they have been victimized recently.

It is said that Jacob S. Besore, the son, carried $8,000 worth of twenty-year endowment insurance, though his salary was only $9 per week, and his music lessons and other things took all of this. Another member of the Besore family who was heavily insured disappeared in 1899, and his body was found later, evidence of foul play being shown.

Mrs. Besore, widow and mother of the two dead men, is one of the leading insurance solicitors of Youngstown. She is prostrated over developments. She had nothing to do with insuring her husband or son. She declared that if strychnine was found in her son's stomach it was a case of self-destruction, as he had a bad set-back in love recently. She admitted to-night that she helped her son pay his insurance premiums.

JOHNSON WARMLY GREETED IN VIRGINIA

Governor Addresses a Vast Audience at Cotton Manufacturers' Association Convention.

KEEPS CLEAR OF POLITICS

Democratic Candidate Talks on National Remedies—Banking System for the People Instead of Wall Street.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., May 21.—Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota, candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, made his first appearence in Richmond and Virginia to-night as the guest of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, the annual convention of which concluded its labors this afternoon.

The visitor was introduced by Lieut. Gov. J. Taylor Ellyson of Virginia, who in turn was introduced by T. H. Rennie, the newly elected President of the Cotton Association.

Alabama and Bryan.

The Governor avoided National politics with considerable care. He had prepared his address in advance, reading from notes which he held in his hand. His only allusion to politics was when he explained with a humorous smile that since Alabama had advocated the cause of William Jennings Bryan there was little use in his saying anything more. The sally was greeted with laughter.

Gov. Johnson's Speech.

Gov. Johnson said in part:

Our country is to-day the greatest banking power on the globe. The bank deposits and banking capital of the American people are in value the greatest financial force in the modern world. The danger is concentration in congested centres of speculation, instead of proper distribution of the circulating medium for the prosecution of legitimate industry, and the handling of crops at the local points of production.

We have the greatest gold stock and circulating medium in the world, but its congestion in a few reserve centres is such that when the South and West desire to use a part of their surplus to move their crops their just demand produces a panic in Wall Street.

For this unnatural and dangerous condition the Government is responsible in two particulars. First, in establishing a National banking system which concentrates the banking reserves of the contry in a few centres, the second in depositing the Government funds in these congested centres instead of at the industrial points where the money is needed for the legitimate necessities of production and transportation. These conditions are in the power, as it is the duty, of the Government to remedy, and thereby provide a banking system for the whole people instead of the bulls and bears of the Stock Exchange.

The necessity for a firm public control of the private railway is so thoroughly entrenched in the American mind that agitation is now less needed than a practicable working plan effectuating that control. States and Nation are alike aroused. The largest present problem is to avoid conflict between States and Nation in defining the boundaries of control, and the greatest danger now apparent is the temptation of the Federal Government to attempt a centralization of all railway control in itself to the exclusion of the rights and powers of the States.

Minnesota has just passed through the unfortunate experience of witnessing the setting aside by a Federal lower court of three State legislative acts regulating and reducing commodity, merchandise, and passenger rates, and the sovereign power of the State has been arrested by a United States Marshal, who, with the approval of the court, seized our Attorney General and stopped the enforcement of State law. Such a condition must be met with patience and wisdom, and I have plainly the dangers of uncertainty and the necessity of a firm stand on the part of the State for the watchful preservation of all the guarantees of the Constitution.

The true spirit and policy of American conquest, as voiced by the rank and file of the American people regardless of political parties, is not that of the battleship or the club of might, not that of bristling tariffs and hostile tax penalties upon the pursuits of the rights of trade, but that of a steady and determined progress in reducing, ameliorating and eliminating these instruments and agencies of ancient custom and still more ancient barbarism, and thereby extending and expanding the guarantees of American freedom, the influence of the American world power, and the products of American industry as far and wide as the sails of the sea may bear the American flag.

On the platform with the speaker were prominent men from all over Virginia, including the newly elected officers of the Cotton Association, Carlton McCarthy, Mayor of Richmond, and Gov. Claude A. Swanson.

TRUST BETRAYED, SAYS BRYAN

Declares Pennsylvania Convention Illustrates Necessity of Primaries.

HARRISBURG, Penn., May 21.—William J. Bryan spent an hour and a half between trains in this city to-day and occupied the time by holding a conference with Jere S. Black of York, Warren Worth Bailey of Johnstown, and other prominent Bryan men who were defeated in the Democratic State Convention here yesterday in their attempt to have the delegates at large instructed for the Nebraskan.

When asked about the result of yesterday's convention. Mr. Bryan said:

"I appreciate very much the efforts of the Democrats who attempted to secure a resolution in the State Convention in harmony with the vote of the Democrats at the primaries. The difference between the primaries and the State Convention illustrates forcibly the necessity for primaries. When voters speak for themselves they say what they think, and do what they please. When voters put their interests in the hands of an uninstructed delegation they take chances in the delegates using the power for themselves and against voters. It is just such betrayals of public trust that have led to the extension of the primary system."

DISTRICT FOR BRYAN.

Kelley Faction Delegates Instructed—Johnson as a "Future President."

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The six delegates elected to-day by the Kelley faction, or "regular," of the District of Columbia Democracy to the Denver Convention were instructed for Bryan. President Roosevelt and his policies were severely arraigned in a speech by Senator Gore of Oklahoma, and Gov. Johnson was referred to as a "future President" of the United States.

The delegates named are William McK. Clayton, John F. Killeen, John J. Purcell, J. Fred Kelley, Robert Mattingly, and Samuel Denedrey; alternatives, George F. Warner, N. B. Shade, Bernard G. Brown, William M. Hallam, Nicholas P. Bogan, and James V. Beyer.

Edwin A. Newman was elected National Committeeman for the District of Columbia.

NEW LAWYER LEAGUE TO SHUN REFORMERS

Political Utopians, Doctrinaires, and Dreamers Need Not Apply for Political Help.

HAS ITS FIRST MEETING

Ex-Judge Dillon Attacks Socialism and Speaks Out for an Independent Judiciary—Its Policy Outlined.

Members of the New York County Lawyers' Association at their first meeting last night in the assembly room of the Metropolitan Building were assured by several eminent jurists of the sympathy and co-operation of the judges of both the State and Federal courts.

The association, it was stated, will be a safeguard upon the integrity of the bench and bar. Its membership is now 3,000. There are 14,000 lawyers in the city, and efforts are being made to have them all enrolled in the new bar association. It was stated last night that the new organization was not in any manner antagonistic to the City Bar Association, and that it was hoped the two organizations would work in perfect harmony.

Ex-Judge John F. Dillon, President of the new association, said that it would be a fixed and undeviating policy of the association to avoid all connection with any political party or with any question or matter purely political.

"This will require constant care and watchfulness," said Judge Dillon. "Some may seek to make use of the association for personal or selfish or partisan purposes, but it is much more likely that utopians, doctrinaires, dreamers, legal enthusiasts whose zeal outruns their wisdom or experience, or some of the variegated species of reformers, who are as plentiful in the legal world as elsewhere, will endeavor to obtain the sanction of the association to their views, vagaries, schemes, or projects. Against all such sources of danger we must guard with sleepless vigilance and fidelity."

Judge Dillon, in speaking of the dangers which the association should be constantly vigilant to defeat, said:

"Socialism is to-day an existing and actual menace, and all forms of Socialism are aimed at or involve the impairment of individual liberty or the spoliation, in some form, of private property or its full enjoyment. Those who have little faith in Democratic rule have long predicted that the majority will spoliate property when the majority have no property, and therefore no interest in it.

"If such attempts are or shall be made, by popular conventions, by legislative, or by executive sanction, an independent judiciary, backed by the organized voice of the legal profession, is our main, if not only, defense and bulwark.

"All of our unexampled prosperity as a nation and people is due to individual liberty and to the personal right of every man to the fruits of his own labor in any lawful calling or enterprise."

Other speakers were Judge Henry A. Ward of the Circuit Court of Appeals, Justice John Proctor Clarke of the Appellate Division, Supreme Court Justice Gildersleeve, ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, and ex-Justice Joseph F. Daly of the Supreme Court.

Justice Daly said that as soon as feasible an amendment should be added to the Constitution providing for the present Judges to remain in office until they are seventy years old and then be pensioned.

"And we should see that the State Judiciary Department is not approachable by any political party," he added. "It is possible to restore the courts to their former honor and greatness. The bar of the county can have any kind of courts it wants. A courageous bar makes an incorruptible judiciary."

Not Exclusively a Jewish Union.

The members of the Jewish Trades Union say that the Hebrew Theatrical Musical Club is not intended to exclude the non-Jewish members of the Musical Union.

"There is a Theatrical Musical Club," said Solomon Gitlin, one of its members, last night, "but it is not exclusively Jewish. In fact, Henry Dennecke, the Secretary, is a Christian, as are many others. The theatre trouble arises because the management has dismissed members of this club in favor of non-members who will work more cheaply."

METHODISTS STILL VOTING FOR BISHOPS

Only Two So Far Chosen, Dr. Anderson of New York and Dr. Nuelsen of Ohio.

SIX MORE TO BE ELECTED

Rev. Edwin H. Hughes of De Pauw University Likely to be Chosen—Rev. C. L. Goodell of This City Gaining.

BALTIMORE, May 21.—The unofficial announcement last night that the Rev. Dr. William F. Anderson of New York and the Rev. Dr. John L. Nuelsen of Berea, Ohio, had been elected Bishops of the Methodist Church was verified when the ballot taken yesterday was declared to the Conference this morning. Dr. Anderson received 548 votes and Dr. Nuelsen 540, the total vote being 765.

There are still six more Bishops to be chosen. Three more ballots were taken to-day. Two of these were declared to the Conference as ineffective. The fifth ballot, which was cast late this afternoon, will be declared to-morrow morning.

The election of the Rev. Edwin H. Hughes on an early ballot is looked for confidently. Mr. Hughes is the President of De Pauw University. The ballots thus far cast show marked gains for the Rev. Charles L. Goodell, pastor of Calvary Church, New York, whose votes have increased from 194 on the first ballot to 392 on the fourth. Mr. Goodell is noted for his pastoral evangelism, and his election would be looked upon by many as a distinct acquisition to the Episcopacy.

The Rev. Homer C. Stuntz of Madison, N. J., Field Secretary of the Board of Missions, has gained ten places in the list since the first ballot, when he was twenty-first on the list, with 101 votes. On the fourth ballot he was eleventh, with 195 votes. The leading colored candidate, M. C. B. Mason, developed his greatest strength on the second ballot, his vote on those that followed falling off from 275 to 241—just four votes more than he received on the first ballot.

It is expected that the newly elected German Bishop, Nuelsen, will be sent to Berlin, to have charge of the Teutonic races in Europe, and that Bishop William Burt will hereafter confine his labors to the Latin races. This expectation will probably not be affected by the fact that to-day a German delegate laid before the Conference a resolution asking for Bishop Burt's return to his station in Switzerland.

Significance attaches to a recommendation which the Book Committee unanimously decided to make to the Conference. It is that hereafter the Book Concerns of the Church employ union men at union wages and favor union labor whenever opportunity offers. During the past four years the two great publishing houses of the General Conference have had a good deal of trouble with labor unions.

The Temperance Committee has been asked to define the duty of a Methodist lawyer who may be assigned by court to defend a liquor seller.

Dr. William F. Anderson, who has been elected a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was born in Morgantown, Va., in 1860. He was graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University and the Drew Theological Seminary, and then took a post graduate course in philosophy at the New York University.

He entered the ministry in 1887, and in addition to several important charges in this city he has occupied pastorates at Kingston and Ossining, N. Y. Recently he has been Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Education, of the Freemen's Aid, and Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He is also a member of the Board of Managers of his denomination's Missionary Society.

CHURCHES MAY JOIN.

Methodist Protestants to Discuss Plan with Methodist Episcopalians.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 21.—There was a continuation to-day of the discussion of church union by the delegates attending the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, in session here.

The Rev. T. H. Lewis, President of the conference; the Rev. A. L. Reynolds of Ohio, and S. R. Harris, a lay delegate, were selected to go to the Methodist Episcopal Convention at Baltimore in connection with the proposals for Church union. They will arrive in Baltimore Saturday.

Considerable excitement resulted from an address made by the Rev. J. M. Gill of Washington, D. C., who, speaking on the report that had been made as to the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Board, said: "I do not want to question the name of any one in public, but there is a woman at the head of this board who is not a Methodist Protestant at heart. She never was and never will be."

PRESBYTERIANS IN SESSION.

The Rev. Dr. Fullerton of St. Louis Chosen Moderator of Assembly.

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—The Rev. Dr. Baxter P. Fullerton of St. Louis was this afternoon unanimously elected Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

The choice of the Moderator was the first real business transacted by the assembly, which began its sessions here to-day. Dr. Fullerton was chosen as the successor of the Rev. William Henry Roberts of Philadelphia. The retiring Moderator, in accordance with the usage of the assembly, preached a farewell sermon. It was largely a plea for the co-operation of the Churches in the United States in fighting the many evil influences "opposed to the Christian Churches of our country."

Among the most enthusiastic delegates are the foreign missionaries. Dr. William A. Briggs of Laos, a little known country in the Far North of Siam, in discussing his field said:

"Buddhism is now a dead issue—save possibly in Boston. Some people seem to be trying to start a cult in this country, but in far away Laos Buddhism is on a rapid decline."

Twenty-five native Porto Ricans who came to the United States especially to attend the general assembly, form an interesting group among the spectators.

NEW SEMINARY DEDICATED.

Mount St. Alphonsus Opened by Archbishop Farley with Impressive Ceremonies.

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 21.—The new seminary of Mount St. Alphonsus, erected by the Redemptorist Fathers at Esopus, was dedicated, and its chapel consecrated, to-day by Archbishop Farley of New York, with impressive ceremonies. More than 2,000 Catholics from Boston, New York, and Philadelphia were present.

Archbishop Farley was assisted in the consecration ceremonies by Mgrs. Burtsell of Kingston, McCready of New York, and Petrelluzzi of Rome. The building was dedicated by Archbishop Farley at 10:30 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock solemn high mass was celebrated in the chapel, with Mgr. Burtsell as celebrant, assisted by the Rev. Francis Kluder of Saratoga, Deacon the Rev. Francis Auth, Superior of St. Mary's College of Northeast Pennsylvania; Deacon the Rev. James Lewis, secretary to Archbishop Farley, and the Rev. John Hausser of Mount St. Alphonsus as master of ceremonies. The Rev. Albert Stern of Mount St. Alphonsus Church of New York was the preacher.

REPORT FOR MRS. VANDERBILT

Favors Her Freedom—Financial Settlement Details Not Known.

After considerable delay, during which there have been many rumors of efforts made to patch up their differences, the report of David McClure, who was appointed as referee to take testimony in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt against Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, was submitted to Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman yesterday for confirmation. Decision was reserved.

Although every secrecy has been maintained by the interested parties, it is known that Mr. McClure reports that Mrs. Vanderbilt is entitled to the relief she asks for, and recommends the granting of a decree in her favor.

The papers in the case were deposited with the court by a representative of the firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt, and their request for its confirmation is regarded as proof that the decree is in the wife's favor. There was nothing else in the moving papers to give any clue as to the contents of the report except the acceptance of Anderson & Anderson, Mr. Vanderbilt's attorneys, of notice of presentation.

It is said that Mrs. Vanderbilt stood out for a munificent settlement upon the only child of their marriage, whose custody she asked for, and, it is understood, has obtained. One version was that Mrs. Vanderbilt, while not pressing her own claim upon her husband's estate, insisted that not less than $10,000,000 be set aside for their child.

It was said that Mr. Vanderbilt would not agree to this, preferring that the future of their child, of whom he is very fond, should be left to him, expressing himself, it is said, as being willing to settle $1,500,000 on his wife, nothing more. He also instructed his attorneys to insist on equal rights in the upbringing of his son. No authoritative statement on this point was forthcoming, but that some satisfactory arrangement has now been arrived at was evidenced by the referee's report being submitted to the Court.

HUDSON GUILD HOME OPENS.

Formal Exercises of Dedication Held with Large Crowd Present.

The new home of the Hudson Guild at 436-438 West Twenty-seventh Street, of which the cornerstone was laid in last October, was formally dedicated last night. The members of the house received the subscribers and their friends from uptown. Altogether about 1,700 people were present at the dedication exercises.

The exercises were held in the big gymnasium and were presided over by Percival Chubb, who after making an introductory speech called upon Herr Muhlmann of the Conried Opera Company to sing. After the music there were speeches by Gaylord White of Union Settlement, President of the Association of Neighborhood Workers; George Greer, President of the Junto Club, the senior club of the Hudson Guild, and by John Splain, one of the workers. Then Herr Muhlmann sang again, and after Prof. Felix Adler had addressed the audience, Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, head worker of the guild, closed the exercises.

The new building was beautifully decorated with flowers, and after the exercises refreshments were served to the guests.

EARL GULICK ARRESTED.

Boy Soprano Who Toured with McKinley Charged with Robbery.

Earl Gulick, 19 years old, who was once a famous boy soprano and who toured the country with President McKinley in his second compaign and sang at his funeral in Canton, Ohio, was arrested yesterday charged with assault and robbery. The complainant was Alexander H. Dunlap of 554 West Forty-second Street, who charged that Gulick had stolen $60 from him.

Gulick heard that he was wanted by the police and surrendered himself in the Sixth Avenue Detective Bureau. He was taken to Police Headquarters and sent a note to his father, Dr. John Gulick, a dentist, with whom he lives at 40 Gramercy Park. The father and a friend called at Headquarters and later the friend, who talked with the boy, told the lad's story.

Gulick, it appears, met Dunlap on Tuesday night after he had already met two other men, and the four of them went to a café in Forty-first Street, near Seventh Avenue. On leaving the place Dunlap and one of the men got into a friendly scuffle, apparently, but presently Dunlap was lying on the sidewalk and the two men were running away. Dunlap said he had been robbed, and chased the men. Later he came back to the café, where Gulick awaited him, and the couple had some more drinks. Then Gulick went home.

WHY COURT ANNULLED MALONEY MARRIAGE

Both Osborne and Miss Maloney Testified That They Didn't Intend a Marriage.

NEVER LIVED TOGETHER

Papers in the Case Not Actually Sealed, but Cannot Be Inspected Save by an Order of the Court.

According to Supreme Court Justice McCall, who on Wednesday signed the interlocutory decree annulling the marriage of Helen Maloney of Philadelphia, Penn., and Spring Lake, N. J., to Arthur H. Osborne, the papers in the case are not sealed.

"They never have been sealed," said Justice McCall when asked by a TIMES reporter yesterday for information in regard to the matter. "They may be inspected by any member of the Osborne or Maloney families who has a real interest in seeing them. But I am not going to permit the newspapers to have access to them, because they want to see them out of idle curiosity and to make a sensation."

Justice McCall's attention was invited to the fact that the grounds for the annulment of a marriage in this State were few and did not seem on the surface to meet the Maloney case. He was informed that on this account there was a real public interest in the legal reason for the anulment of the marriage, and he was asked if he could not make known the ground on which the petitioner's suit was granted.

"You will have to see the referee about that," replied the Justice. "All I did was to confirm his findings. In this case he was a court of co-ordinate jurisdiction. See the referee."

Daniel F. Cohalan, the referee, declined to discuss the case, saying that it would be manifestly improper for him, as referee, to do so.

At the same time, THE TIMES is able to say on unquestionable authority, that the grounds on which the marriage was annulled by the court were that the couple never lived together as man and wife; that both Miss Maloney and Osborne testified before the referee that when they went before Justice Boyd at Mamaroneck on Dec. 28, 1905, they were on a "lark"; that they regarded the ceremony through which they went as in the nature of a betrothal, and that there was a mutual, if not explicit understanding, that it was not a marriage, and was not intended to be.

Both parties to the suit testified before the referee that they had not lived together at any time as man and wife, and had not so intended when the ceremony was performed by Justice Boyd. It was also brought out, it was learned yesterday, that they had agreed to "marry properly" at some future time.

It is understood that the matter of lack of intent on the part of the young people to marry and live together counted largely in the decision of the referee. Mr. Cohalon, it is understood, however, did not base his recommendation on a single ground, but on several, the principal facts that weighed with him being the testimony of both Miss Maloney and Osborne that there was never any serious intent on the part of either to marry.

Formal application of THE TIMES reporter yesterday at the County Clerk's office to see the papers was denied. The decree of the court was available, but the testimony before the referee was rolled up in a yellow package about the size of a man's arm, labeled "Maloney-Osborne Papers," and tied up with red tape. There was no seal, but the clerks had instructions from the court not to open the papers for any one without an order of the court.

CZAR TRIES TO KEEP PEACE.

Summons Foreign Minister to Consider Ultimatum by Gen. Snarski.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—M. Iswolsky, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was summoned to Tsarskoë-Selo to-day in connection with a dispatch received from Tabriz announcing that Gen. Snarski, commander of the Russian punitive expedition to Persia, has sent an ultimatum demanding the immediate payment of indemnity for the Russian victims of attacks by tribesmen on the Persian border.

The General has threatened to cross the frontier and obtain satisfaction by force if a satisfactory reply is not given him.

Efforts are being made here for a peaceful solution of the difficulty.

MR. WU PICTURED IN THE PLUNGE BATH

Taken to Bathe in State with an Escort of Camera Men, Reporters and Mere Friends.

THROUGH WHOLE PROCESS

And Smiles On, Even When the Flashlights Roar About the Plunge Steps and Patent Exerciser.

Wu Ting-Fang, Chinese Minister to the United States, spent yesterday afternoon, from 3 o'clock to 6, at the Fleischmann baths, in Sixth Avenue. Mr. Wu was by Eugene Christian, W. S. Ho, Chinese Consul; Lock Wing, Chinese Vice Consul; Samuel M. Gardenhire, lawyer and novelist; two photographers, and seven reporters.

Minister Wu thought for a moment yesterday that Fate had intervened to prevent him from taking the bath. He went into New Jersey yesterday morning in an automobile to see Thomas A. Edison's plant at Llewellyn Park, East Orange. Coming back the automobile broke down. But ex-Gov. Murphy of New Jersey came along, and seeing Mr. Wu's distress he took the Minister, the Consul, and the Vice Consul in his machine, and they got to the Manhattan Hotel in good time. From there Mr. Christian's automobile took the party to the baths.

Mr. Wu was noted to examine the big clock in the front office of the baths. He retired to Room 108, and there took off his clothes and his famous ruby and put on a towel. Surrounded by his host and his other friends, he then went into the Tepidarium. He was told that he was to recline on a hot chair while the hot air—153 Fahrenheit—made him perspire.

Minister Wu when dressed for the bath presents an exaggerated spirituelle appearance. The hot air worried him. He kept waving his hands in deprecation as does an old maid when it is suggested that she will marry yet some day. But he stuck it out, for he had said upon entering the door:

"I can stand anything that the Americans stand."

The two photographers were already on his trail, and their deep baylngs could be heard as they came nearer and nearer, so at Mr. Christian's suggestion the Minister took an electric light bath, entering a cabinet with violet lights in it. He sat in the cabinet smiling in guilty glee like a schoolboy who is doing something he knows he ought not to do.

Thence Mr. Wu went boldly into the Russian bath, which is a room filled with vapor 112 degrees hot. He couldn't see his way, but he was led, waving his hands in overjoyed protest, into the shampooing rooms.

The merry party of bathers reached the plungeroom. The Minister could not look upon the blue pool before him and resist. He walked gently to the plunge steps, wearing a sweet smile. He took one step down, and—

The photographers were on him. The cameras were sighted. The flashlights were ready. He waved his arms up and down, chased the smile from his face by hard effort, and shouted:

"No, no, no!"

The photographers desisted—for three seconds. When he had reached the sixth step, and the water was almost up to his neck, they caught him.

Minister Wu was duly dried. He was weighed. He went into the massage room. Attendant 13 laid him on a soft couch, kneaded him, and beat the convent tattoo on his body. He smiled and smiled at this. He saw an exercising machine. It looked like a bicycle, but the pedaling made him jog, somewhat as if he were on a horse.

"I like the bath very much," he said at the end. "But I do not like the camera fiends."

Apparel for Men

The artist who mixes his colors indifferently rarely gets a showing in a national exhibit.

Trifles, frequently unconsidered, go to make in the aggregate that degree of perfection which to many makers of clothing for men seems a will-o'-the wisp.

The placing of a button, the rounding of a lapel, the welting of a pocket, the finish of a cuff, the piping of a seam—may all be considered "trifles." But slight them and you get the sort of garments that anybody can make.

WAS UNDERSTANDING IN PAPER TRADE

But A. G. Paine Denies Agreement of All Mills to Raise Price.

IN DANGER OF BANKRUPTCY

Declares Some Manufacturers Have Been Running Without Profit—Opposes Taking Tariff Off Wood Pulp.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The House Select Committee continued its investigation to-day into the extent of the "understanding" existing between the various paper mills in this country and Canada. A. G. Paine, Jr., of the New York Paper Company was again on the stand for several hours.

The questions addressed to Mr. Paine by the members of the committee narrowed down to a close scrutiny of such facts as the committee had that indicated a more or less complete agreement to which all the paper manufacturers in the country are parties. Mr. Paine did not deny that a certain harmony existed between the manufacturers, but he did deny that there had been any agreement to put the price of paper up.

Referring to the manufacturers of book paper, he said that they had had several meetings at which "general understandings" on various subjects were arranged.

"Was there not a general understanding that you would have to raise the price of paper?" asked Chairman Mann.

"That was my understanding," said Mr. Paine.

"And was there not a general understanding," asked Mr. Mann, "that every mill should advance its prices?"

"There was not," said Mr. Paine, positively.

Mr. Paine said that he did not remember whether or not the question of the illegality of formal agreements under the Sherman law had been discussed, though he admitted that it was a possibility.

"Was not the distinct statement made," asked Mr. Mann, "that you did not propose to put yourself in a position where you could be prosecuted at law?"

"I cannot say," replied Mr. Paine, "that I heard any such statements made at the meetings, but I certainly have heard individual manufacturers say it over and over again. They have discussed the effects of the law very freely, and in particular its bearing on the paper manufacturers."

A list of questions was submitted by John Norris, who represents the newspaper publishers, regarding the different meetings held by the book paper manufacturers, designed to bring out the fact that after these meetings the price of paper was advanced. Mr. Paine said that prices were increasing during the period of these recent meetings, and therefore increased after the meetings. Whether they increased as the result of the meetings he was not prepared to state.

He said that he had not attended any meeting last Fall at which the question was considered of restricting the production of the paper mills.

"Was that subject ever considered at any meeting you attended?"

"The question of production and overcrowding the market goes right along with the price of paper. That is discussed always, but there never has been any concerted action on it."

Mr. Paine said that American manufacturers of book paper were meeting with serious competition from German and English manufacturers, where the scale of wages was from one-third to one-half less.

He opposed taking the tariff off of wood pulp or paper. "If you remove the tariff you may force us to devastate our forests," he said. "If it hits the manufacturers of news print hard, it will eliminate us."

Arthur C. Hastings of the Cliff Paper Company, Niagara Falls, N. Y., presented figures giving the cost of and the selling price of paper at his mill since 1898. For certain periods of 1901 and 1903 they showed that paper was sold at a loss, and that in other years the profit was very small.

"You had been running pretty close to the wind for a series of years," said Chairman Mann. "Suddenly there seems for the third quarter of 1907 to be a big jump from the selling price to the cost price. What reason can you give for that?"

"Increase in demand," replied the witness.

The figures referred to by Mr. Mann showed the cost of production for the last three months of 1907 to have been $43.62 per ton, delivered, and the selling price $50.

Mr. Hastings said he had heard nothing about any agreement among news print paper manufacturers to put up the price of paper or to restrict the output.

AGREE ON A MAIL SUBSIDY.

Provision for $3,000,000 Left in Bill—House May Reject It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—An invitation to trouble was extended to-day by the Senate and House conferrees on the Post Office Appropriation bill, when they reported it with the $3,000,000 ship subsidy clause included. Only yesterday a poll of the House showed that there was a majority of thirty against this feature of the bill, and it is expected a bitter fight will be made on the measure in the House to-morrow.

On the plea of economy the conferrees cut off the increase in salaries for railway mail clerks, and also struck out the provision for their expenses while on the road. For the same reason they declined to grant the thirty days' vacation concession.

Practically as they came from committees, the General Deficiency and the Military Academy Appropriation bills were passed in the Senate to-day. They are the last of the regular appropriation measures. The former carried $18,384,000, while the latter totaled $914,867. The General Deficiency bill was increased in the Senate by $1,040,488 over the amount it carried when passed by the House. The principal item was $450,873, to permit of increased pay for the men of the navy.

FIGHT ROOSEVELT BILL.

Beveridge Beaten on Measure to Aid Injured Government Employes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Unexpected opposition developed to-day in the Senate to the Liability bill framed for the protection of Government employes. It is one of the President's especial bits of legislation, and is destined to set right the failure to include Government employes in the general Employers' Liability bill.

When Beveridge called it up it was assailed by Senators on both sides of the chamber. Bailey denounced it as loosely drawn and ill-considered. After a determined fight the Senate declined to give it precedence over other pending bills. Its fate thus is uncertain.

$223,059,830 FOR MILITARY.

Our Expenditures Are Higher Now Than in the Spanish War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—With the passage by the Senate to-day of the Military Academy Appropriation bill Congress established a new record in expenditures for the military branch of the Government. For the support of the army and navy of the United States, the purchase of supplies and munitions of war, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, the American people will spend the sum of $210,359,830, outside $3,700,000 for fortifications.

The several appropriation bills for the two arms of the service and their amounts are: Army, $95,382,247; navy, $122,662,716; general deficiency, (increased pay for army,) $400,000; Military Academy, $914,867; fortifications, $3,700,000. Total, $223,059,830.

Not even in the stirring days of 1898, when war with Spain was declared, did appropriations for war approach these figures. The nearest approach was in 1905, when the army and navy got, in round numbers, $192,000,000.

SENATE IN AN UPROAR.

Newlands Almost Starts a Riot by a Request About Bryan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Senator Newlands almost started a riot in the Senate to-day during the debate on the Military Academy bill. He sought to have inserted in The Record a few words by William Jennings Bryan on the subject of imperialism. Immediately there were cries of protest, Senator Scott, who was in charge of the Military Academy bill, leading.

"I shall not object to the insertion of Mr. Bryan's views," said Mr. Gallinger, "but I must insist, if they are printed, that this editorial from a New York newspaper of Democratic persuasion be printed also. It is highly edifying and instructive, being an estimate of Mr. Bryan from Democratic sources."

Cries of protest arose from the minority. Gore declared that if it was the purpose of Senators to make The Record a campaign document he would offer a few thousand words by Paul Morton on the subject of illegal railroad rebates. Culberson wanted to submit an article to show that the Republican Administration and the Steel Trust were cheek by jowl.

Beveridge, by demanding recognition in a voice louder than the other Senators, filed an objection to any of the articles being printed.

Save Post Offices for Women.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The fight made by Georgia and Texas Senators against supplanting women postmistresses with men resulted to-day in the rejection of three nominations which had been before the Senate since last December. The nominations rejected are T. W. Scott, to succeed Hattie F. Gilmer at Toccoa, Ga.; John T. A. McCullom, to succeed Mary A. Melton at Conyers, Ga., and Everett Johnson, to succeed Jeannette D. McConnell at Jacksborough, Texas. The fight was conducted by Senators Clay and Culberson.

LOW SUBWAY BID WITHDRAWN

Contractor Graham Finds He Figured Too Modestly on Construction.

James P. Graham, the Brooklyn contractor, who was one of the bidders for two of the sections of the Fourth Avenue subway, wrote to the Public Service Commissioner yesterday withdrawing his bids. When asked about it last night he said:

"I have withdrawn because I found that I had figured too low. I had forgotten to take into consideration several items, and my figures were considerably less than those of the next bidders."

The sections upon which Mr. Graham bid were for the construction of the subway and pipe galleries from Nassau to Willoughby Street and for the subway from Tenth to Twenty-seventh Street. He did not bid for the pipe galleries in the latter section.

On the first piece of work he bid $1,020,476 for the railroad work and $101,374 for the pipe galleries. On the railroad work he was $353,524 and on the pipe galleries $16,626 lower than Rogers & Haggerty, who bid $1,374,000 and $118,000 respectively.

On the railroad work of the Tenth and Twenty-seventh Street section, Mr. Graham bid $1,413,635, $532,005 less than the next bidders, the Tide Water Building Company, and Thomas B. Bryson, who asked for the work $1,945,640.

The commission will meet in the next day or two to decide to whom they will award the contracts for the subway. The award of the Commissioners will have to be submitted to the Board of Estimate for confirmation, but the board cannot go behind the commission and select other bidders.

Tole New Head of Typographical Union

The annual election of Typographical Union, No. 6, has resulted in the election of James Tole as President, who defeated James J. Murphy, who ran for re-election, by 869 votes. Tole polled 2,621 and Murphy 2,252. Most of the other officers elected are new men. They include Edward M. Cassidy, Vice President; Charles M. Maxwell, Secretary-Treasurer; John Muir, James O'Connor, and Charles Rooney, Auditors, and J. L. Cahill and James Henderson, I. T. U. delegates. Assistant Secretary T. J. Robinson was re-elected.

James M. Lynch Probably Elected.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—At International Typographical Union headquarters it was announced to-night that in all probability President James M. Lynch and Secretary and Treasurer J. W. Bramwood had been re-elected. The vote so far shows them far in the lead.

21 Liners Reach Port the Same Day.

Twenty-one transatlantic and coastwise steamers arrived at this port yesterday. The new North German Lloyd liner Derfflinger was built at Bremen for the Far East service. She is 459 feet long, 57 feet beam, and 9,800 tons. Motive power is provided by two quadruple expansion engines of 6,500 horse power, giving her a speed of fourteen and a half knots.

60 KILLED, 100 HURT, IN BELGIAN WRECK

Express Crashes Into Train Loaded with Pilgrims on the Way to a Shrine.

SWITCHMEN UNDER ARREST

Almost Every Passenger on Local Train Killed or Maimed—Accident Caused by Defective Switch.

ANTWERP, May 21.—One of the worst railroad accidents in Europe in recent times occurred at Contich, a station six miles southeast of this city, on the main line, at 8 o'clock this morning. The exact number of victims had not been determined up to a late hour to-night, owing to the difficulty of removing the bodies from the débris, but the latest estimate places the number at sixty killed and one hundred wounded.

The catastrophe appears to have been due to a defective switch where the main line crosses a local line. At this point a train carrying a large number of pilgrims on their way to a local shrine was standing. Into this the Antwerp-Brussels express dashed at a speed of fifty miles an hour, literally leaping on top of it. The heavy coaches of the express crushed the lighter train into splinters. The sides of the express cars were torn from their fastenings, and the floors practically collapsed, thus throwing the passengers to the side of the track uninjured, whence they fled, frenzied, across the fields.

Few of the occupants of the local train escaped unharmed. Those who were not killed were badly injured, many of them mortally.

The rescuers—even the doctors who were hardened to such scenes—were sickened at the sights that met their gaze. Evidences were found of horrible death struggles that had occurred in the crushed coaches. In one place a dismembered hand was found clutching one of the supports of the torn car. One body was come upon lying across the boiler of a locomotive, crushed into a shapeless mass. The majority of the dead could not be recognized, either being decapitated or having their heads terribly crushed.

The judicial authorities of Antwerp soon arrived on the scene and opened an investigation into the disaster. They ordered the men in charge of the switches under arrest, although it is believed by the authorities that they were blameless.

The signal man at Contich saw that his switch was not working just as the Antwerp express came thundering down the line. He leaped from the window of his signal station and heroically ran down the track toward the oncoming train, waving a red flag. His effort, however, was too late to avert a disaster. This man is among those placed under arrest.

The engineer and fireman of the express were both killed at their posts.

The work of rescue is being admirably handled, and everything possible is being done to alleviate the suffering of the injured. All the clergy and physicians of Contich and the soldiers from the neighboring barracks are taking part in the work. In addition to the surgeons who hurried down from Antwerp, an ambulance corps from Amiens also is on the scene.

Serious railroad accidents in Belgium have been rare, the most notable of recent years being one at Ottignies in 1895, when 17 persons were killed, and another at Forest, near Brussels, in 1899, when 21 persons were killed and over 100 injured.

Prince Albert went to Contich this evening and visited the injured, having cancelled an engagement to preside at a banquet at Antwerp.

SUFFRAGETTES IMPRISONED.

Punished for Noisy Demonstration in Front of British Premier's House.

LONDON, May 21.—A number of militant woman suffragists, dissatisfied with the reply of Prime Minister Asquith, made yesterday to the delegation of Radical members of the House of Commons on the question of claims of women for enfranchisement, made a demonstration in front of the Premier's residense in Downing Street this morning. The police reserves had to be called out in order to clear the thoroughfare, and found it necessary to arrest six of the noisiest demonstrators.

The women appeared in Downing Street and sent in to the Premier a petition asking that the franchise be granted at the present session of Parliament. The Premier sent word through a constable that he had no reply to make. The women thereupon mounted the steps of the house and harangued the crowd which had gathered.

The six women taken into custory all went to prison for periods of from one week to one month rather than give recognizances for their good behavior.

LOCKED OUT OF PRISON.

Viborg Manifestants Couldn't Be Punished Till They Showed Passports.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—Seventeen members of the first Duma to-day began serving in St. Petersburg the sentences of three months' imprisonment imposed for signing the Viborg manifesto. They drove to the prison in cabs. There was no escort or sympathizers nor any demonstration.

Two of the ex-Deputies were without passports and were not allowed to enter the prison until they had secured these documents.

Other signers of the manifesto also imprisoned themselves to-day in the various cities whence they were elected.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, May 21.—The body of Alanson Stewart Appleton, who died May 8 in his fifty-first year at his country residence in Surrey, is to be cremated and taken to Chicago for burial.

LONDON, May 21.—The cross suits for damages arising from the collision off the Isle of Wight April 25 between the British cruiser Gladiator and the steamship St. Paul will be heard June 3 before Frederic Gorell Barnes.

ROME, May 21.—The Pope to-day received 200 German-American pilgrims, led by Mr. Oelkers, President of the Central Association of Catholics of North America. Mr. Oelkers read an address expressing loyalty to the Pope and presented a contribution of Peter's Pence for the Papal Jubilee. The Pope thanked the pilgrims warmly for their greeting and blessed them and their families.

VIENNA, May 21.—The school children of Vienna, numbering more than 85,000, assembled to-day in the park of Schoenbrunn Castle to pay homage to Emperor Francis Joseph, who this year celebrates the sixtieth anniversary of his accession to the throne. The children sang some hymns and his Majesty then walked among the children and talked with them. His path was strewn with flowers by little girls.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya, who was arrested in St. Petersburg last year charged with complicity in the revolutionary agitation, is to be tried on the charge of distributing arms and conducting a revolutionary propaganda. The extreme penalty for this offense is death. Mme. Breshkovskaya has been a co-prisoner with Nicholas Tschaikovsky, an American. A petition for the release of these prisoners was presented last December to Premier Stolypin.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—Five members of the Finnish Cabinet have resigned in consequence of Premier Stolypin's plain speaking in the Duma a few days ago, when he took up the question of the relations between Russia and Finland and condemned the separatist policies of the late Senate in strong terms.

BISHOP GREER IN WILL CASE.

He and Dr. Nelson Testify to Archdeacon Tiffany's Mental Soundness.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., May 21.—The appellants in the trial to break the will of Archdeacon Charles Comfort Tiffany of New York having rested this afternoon, the appellees introduced as their first witness Bishop Coadjutor David H. Greer of New York.

Bishop Greer said he had known Dr. Tiffany thirty years, but did not notice in 1906 and 1907 the least sign of deterioration in his mind.

"It was as sound as mine," added the witness.

The Rev. Dr. George F. Nelson, who succeeded Dr. Tiffany as Archdeacon of New York in 1902, and who for twenty-five years was official secretary to Bishop Potter, testified that he had never seen any indication of mental unsoundness in Dr. Tiffany.

Testifying for the appellants to-day, the Rev. Dr. James Wesley Johnston, pastor of the John Street Methodist Church, Brooklyn, said that he noticed a marked change in Dr. Tiffany's condition after his illness.

Dr. John Josephs MacPhee, a neurologist, of New York, answering a hypothetical question of 800 words, read to him by counsel for appellants, said that the Archdeacon on Feb. 6, 1907, on which day he made his will, was suffering with progressive mental deterioration, or senile decay, and was incapable of making a will.

STORK SPOILED HIS MARRIAGE,

Says Husband, Suing for Alienation—Mother-in-Law Objected to Children.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 21.—Justice Tompkins, in the Supreme Court at White Plains, heard testimony to-day in the action of Claude F. Day, ex-President of the Day Manufacturing Company of Jersey City, against Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Turner of Malone, N. Y., parents of Mr. Day's wife, for $100,000 damages for the alienation of the affections of Mrs. Day. Mr. Day also alleges that his father and mother-in-law have taken his daughter from him.

Mr. Turner is wealthy, and the marriage of his daughter, Hazel Grace Turner, to Mr. Day on Oct. 12, 1904, attracted much attention in Malone. On Feb. 14, 1906, Mr. Day alleges that he returned home and found his wife and baby gone and the house deserted. From that time Mr. Day said he had not seen his wife until he met her in court to-day and had not seen his daughter at all since the time she was taken away. Mr. Day testified that just before the wedding Mrs. Turner warned him that she did not want her daughted to become a mother.

Mr. Day said that after the birth of his daughter the attitude of Mr. and Mrs. Turner toward him seemed to change.

"Instead of stopping at our house they stopped at the Murray Hill Hotel, and were cool and disagreeable toward me," the witness said.

"Do you know why they were hostile to you?" he was asked.

"Mrs. Turner told me I had made a promise not to have any children, and that I had not kept my promise. This was on Sept. 18, 1905," Mr. Day declared.

MAY BE A GUNNESS VICTIM.

Jewelry Marked with May O'Reilly's Name Found in Fire Ruins.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 21.—Sheriff Albert M. Schmintzer of Laporte, Ind., has asked Acting Capt. Zimmerman to locate May O'Reilly of this city, who has not been seen since October last. At that time she went to Chicago in response to a mysterious telegram. Her relatives know nothing of her. The Sheriff says articles of jewelry marked with Miss O'Reilly's name have been found in the ruins of the burned Gunness home.

It is thought by the police here that the O'Reilly girl may have been murdered and burned in the Gunness home.

Miss O'Reilly was a dressmaker. The fact that she had been at Laporte was first known to-night, when a telegram was received by Zimmerman.

LAPORTE, Ind., May 21.—To-morrow promises to be a day of developments in the Gunness case. Some time during the day the Grand Jury probably will complete its labors and report. To-morrow, also, Sheriff Smutzer will resume digging for bodies in the farmyard of Mrs. Belle Gunness.

G. P. BOWLER IS RELEASED.

Harvard Student Forged His Brother's Name on Notes for $16,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 21.—George Pendleton Bowler, the young New Yorker and former Harvard man who was sentenced to serve a year in the Concord Reformatory, after being convicted of forging his brother's name to notes aggregating some $16,000, was freed to-day from the East Cambridge Jail, to which place he was transferred last January. "Poco" Bennett, the Harvard money lender, was the victim.

After the conviction of Bowler Mrs. Edith Reynolds of New York appeared in Boston and made several vain efforts to procure his release.

CLEVELAND STRIKE NEAR END.

Two Arbitrators Chosen, and Conflict Ceases When Third Is Selected.

CLEVELAND, May 21.—Only the selection of the third arbitrator is needed to bring about a cessation of the street railway strike. Two arbitrators were selected to-day to consider the bill of arbitration which, it is said, will be agreed upon between the strikers and the Municipal Traction Company.

The arbitration bill, as it now exists, was submitted to a vote of the strikers to-night. According to an arrangement among the strike leaders, the rank and file were to determine whether the bill should be submitted to arbitration. A serious contention was removed to-day when the present employes of the company agreed to have their status also arbitrated.

Gets $16,000 for a Lost Arm.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 21.—Because he lost an arm at the shoulder as a result of a cave-in of an excavation in which he was working on Aug. 17, 1906, Frank Logerto to-day received a verdict of $16,000 by a jury in his suit against the Central Building Company, tried before Justice Mills. When hurt, Logerto was at work for the defendant company that was erecting a house for William Sloan of New York at Mount Kisco.

CALLS ASSASSINATION FAKE.

Guatemalan Says Attempt on Cabrera's Life Was Carefully Planned Farce.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 21.—It has been officially stated that O. Bustillos, the special Commissioner from Honduras, charged with complicity in the recent attempt on the life of President Estrada Cabrera of Guatemala, has been safely landed on Honduran soil, thus clearing the atmosphere of all possible international complications which might have arisen as a result of this incident.

In this connection a surprising story is told by Dr. Herman P. Rowe, a wealthy Guatemalan planter, who declares that the alleged recent attempt on the life of President Cabrera was a carefully engineered farce, planned purely for political purposes. He says for days before the alleged attempted assassination was made it was talked of in the clubs and cafés.

FOUND DEAD, DIAMONDS GONE.

R. C. P. Holmes, Edison Agent, Killed and Dragged Into an Alley.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Robert C. P. Holmes, purchasing agent for the Commonwealth Edison Electric Company, was found dead in an alley in the downtown district to-day. The only indication of violence on the body was a deep cut over the left eye. The pockets had all been turned inside out and their contents were missing. A diamond shirt stud, a diamond ring, and the cuff buttons were also gone.

Holmes last night attended the meeting of the National Electric Light Association, and his departure from the hotel was the last seen of him alive. It is believed that he was on his way to take the elevated road at the Adams Street Station, when he was either decoyed or dragged into the alley where his dead body was found.

There was more of sedative than excitement in yesterday's game at American League Park, which the Chicago's made theirs by the wasteful score of 9 to 2. A sufferer from heart disease might have witnessed every incident of the full nine innings without the slightest danger of shortening his life tenure. The play was slower than divine wrath, and the only way the faithful 5,000 could get any action lay in cultivating the acquaintance of Mr. Egan, the new umpire, and advising those in authority to get the hook in that official's behalf.

"How plainly you can hear the fog horns of the boats at Fort Lee ferry," remarked big Jack Ranier, the motorcar man, to Paul Armstrong, the eminent playwright. "I do declare those toots sound most musical."

"Fog horn your grandmother!" or words to that effect, said Mr. Armstrong, who is as observing as he is forceful, "it's that guy back of the bat making all the sneeze."

It is impossible to hoodwink Mr. Armstrong. It was indeed the new umpire, Egan, whose resonance had given rise to the error in the Ranier column. The first time he emitted a decision, the shock shook a boy out of a tree overlooking the grounds, but "Pshaw!" said Willie, the local mascot, who is well informed in all matters pertaining to his calling, "That ain't nothing; that boy didn't weigh more'n a hundred and twenty pounds at the outside, an' the tree was sort of leanin' at that. You'd ought to hear him holler when he's excited. He makes the Frisco earthquake look like a fool."

The home boys fielded like they didn't need the game. They started in with the call of time and kept it up to the finish. Chase's great catch of a liner and throw to the plate, cutting off a run when the bases were filled, was a redeeming feature.

We got two runs, one in the second and the other in the third. This is not in the nature of a gloat. It is simply a statement put forward in the interests of historical accuracy.

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—The Giants staved off defeat here to-day by a rally that was as unexpected as surprising in view of their recent work on the diamond. The game was an erratic one. St. Louis led for three innings. The Giants tied the score in the fourth and jumped into the lead by one tally in the sixth, but the addition of three runs in the ninth furnished them some mead of comfort after so many successive defeats and gave them the game by the score of 8 to 4. ### Notre Dame Shuts Out Fordham.

Fordham lost its second game of the season yesterday at Fordham Field, the fast aggregation from Notre Dame defeating them by the score of 2 to 0. There was scoring in only one inning, when Notre Dame stowed away the game. Brogan clipped off one of Mahoney's fast ones, sending it into centre field, and it rolled under the fence, enabling Brogan and Ruell to bring in the two runs. Two sensational catches of fouls were made by McDonald after long runs, and the throwing of the visitors' catcher was accurate. The score:

NEW YORK CREW DEFEATED.

Pennsylvania Outrows Local Collegians by Three and a Half Lengths.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 21.—The University of Pennsylvania crew defeated the New York University eight in a hard two-mile race on the Schuylkill River here to-day by three and a half lengths in 8 minutes 51 seconds.

It was New York's first race with Pennsylvania, and the only dual race scheduled for the latter this year.

New York Yacht Club Meeting.

Thirty boats were represented at the third general meeting of the year of the New York Yacht Club, held at the club building in West Forty-fourth Street last evening. Capt. Henry F. Lippitt presided. Owing to the absence of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt only routine business was transacted. Commodore Vanderbilt, who sailed from Europe in his yacht, the North Star, on May 10, is expected to arrive here on May 26. It is expected that the date for this year's annual cruise of the club will be announced by him directly upon his arrival here.

Belmont Park Favorites Fare Well in Small Fields on a Muddy Track.

GOLDEN PEARL'S STAKES

Added Starter Leads All the Way and Is First in a Slow Run Contest for the Pocantico—Sanctus's 'Chase.

The track was muddy, the fields were small, and the racing was tame at Belmont Park yesterday. Favorites were successful in four events, and the winners of three of the races looked like sure things, as odds-on choices. The stake feature of the programme brought to the post only two of the horses named on the card, though three horses ran for the event, the Pocantico Stakes, at one mile and a sixteenth for three-year-olds. The best horses were withdrawn, and A. J. Joyner's Hessian was of the number scratched, but another horse from the same stable, Golden Pearl, was added, and caused the only real upset of the day for the betting men, by winning after a queer and slow race. The summaries:

VANDERBILT'S DERBY HOPE.

Victory by Stable's Colts Brightens Prospects for Seasick II. in Great Races

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 21.—William K. Vanderbilt's two colts, Gambaiseuil and Raleigh, this afternoon ran first and second for the important stakes, the Prix des Acacias, defeating the Duc de Grammont's colt, Gigolo II., hitherto the hot favorite for the Chantilly Derby. As Gambaiseuil and Raleigh both have shown themselves in private trials and in actual racing to be much inferior to Mr. Vanderbilt's crack colt Seasick II., it generally is admitted now that Mr. Vanderbilt holds what is conceded to be a certainty of winning the Chantilly Derby.

Mr. Vanderbilt told THE TIMES's correspondent that Seasick II. now is absolutely certain to start for the Chantilly Derby here, the Epsom Derby in England, and the Grand Prix De Paris.

The plan formed by Mr. Vanderbilt will give Seasick II. a busy period of a little more than two weeks, in which time his three races in two countries are to be run. The Prix du Jockey Club, at Chantilly, popularly known as the French Derby, will be run on Sunday, May 31. The Vanderbilt colt then must be shipped to England, to run in the Derby at Epsom, on June 3, and following that race, must be shipped back to France, to run for the Grand Prix de Paris, on Sunday, June 14.

CRACKS WIN AT GOLF.

Travers, Travis, and Douglas Among Victors at Baltusrol.

Walter J. Travis, Findlay S. Douglas, and Jerome D. Travers, all of whom have held the National as well as the Metropolitan golf championship, are survivors in the competition for the championship local title for the coming year. Travers is the present holder not only of the National, but also of the Metropolitan title, and his playing yesterday on the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club, near Short Hills, N. J., was quite equal to his best form, and it is a safe speculation to assume that he will meet Travis in the final match to-morrow.

Travis had two fairly easy matches. A stiff contest was looked for in the morning, when he played John Reid, Jr., the St. Andrews golfer, but the latter evidently felt as bad as the weather, for he allowed Travis to take the match by 6 up and 5 to play. Travis then beat R. F. Mundy of Montclair by 6 up and 4 to play. Douglas and J. D. Fort of Apawamis were opponents in the morning, and the latter forced his opponent to do his best, the ex-champion winning by 3 up and 1 to play. In the afternoon Douglas defeated L. A. Hamilton of Wykagyl by 5 up and 4 to play.

Travers in both of his matches had men who were expected to make things lively for the champion. Gilman P. Tiffany, the young Hudson River champion, was his opponent in the morning, and so keen was Travers's golf that Tiffany had little show and went out by the high score of 9 up and 5 to play. Later in the day Frederick Herreshoff encountered the champion, and this time a hot game was fully anticipated. But Travers set a dashing pace from the start, and to the surprise of the crowd won by 8 up and 7 to play.

A sad reversal of old-time form was the defeat of H. J. Whigham, twice the United States amateur champion, in 1896 and 1897, when, in the first round, he was promptly put out by T. T. Reid of Montclair by 5 up and 4 to play. The results of the match play rounds:

Championship, First Round.—R. F. Mundy beat O. M. Richmond 1 up; Walter J. Travis beat John Reid, Jr., 6 up and 5 to play; W. D. Vanderpool beat W. C. Shoup 4 up and 3 to play; Charles B. Sullivan beat Louis Livingston 2 up and 1 to play; Charles H. Seely beat C. F. Watson 2 up and 1 to play; Findlay S. Douglas, beat J. D. Foot 3 up and 1 to play; L. A. Hamilton beat George T. Brokaw 2 up and 1 to play; T. T. Reid beat H. J. Whigham 5 up and 4 to play; Walter Kobbe, Jr., beat C. Kellogg, 3 up and 2 to play; E. M. Wild beat Oswald Kirkby 3 up and 2 to play; R. C. ### President's Cup Play.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 21.—Mrs. Wynant D. Vanderpool was the winner of the first round for the cup offered by President R. H. Thomas at the Morris County Golf Club this afternoon. She was awarded three points toward the cup. Her score was 1 down. Mrs. Frederic R. Kelogg was second with a score of 4 down, and was awarded two points. Mrs. J. Otis Post and Miss Cara Foster tied for third place and the one point awarded to that position, each making the round 9 down.

Miss Phipps Also Beaten at Golf.

ST. ANDREWS, May 21.—Miss Anita Phipps, the last of the quintette of American competitors left in the contest for the British women's open golf championship, was eliminated from the match in the fifth round this morning, beng vanquished by Miss Kyle in six up and five to play.

FOR A NATIONAL HILL CLIMB.

Wilkesbarre Autoists Willing to Foster Such an Event.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., May 21.—What will probably result in the formation of a National annual hill climb was started here to-day at an informal meeting of Wilkesbarre and New York automobilists. The New Yorkers had been invited to come here as the guests of the Wilkesbarre Automobile Club in view of the big event which is to be held on Memorial Day, and which will probably have a larger entry than any similar event ever held in this country.

The visitors were taken over the course, which is a climb of a little more than 6,000 feet on the Wilkesbarre Mountain called the Giant Despair. This piece of mountain road embodies all the features for an ideal test of automobile climbing, with its excellent surface, twists and turns, and its abrupt ascents.

The scheme to make this hill a National course for the champion annual hill climb was broached at a meeting of those in the party after the trip over the course. President George F. Lee, Vice President Lyman H. Howe, and Secretary Dr. E. C. Wagner of the local club readily assented to the proposition of assuming the responsibility for a National event of this character. The hill, besides its excellent natural qualities, is situated in the City of Wilkesbarre, which fact makes it convenient for a gathering of the interests that would be included in such an event.

The Wilkesbarre Club has almost entirely remade the rough, mountainous road, which originally coursed its way up to the top of the mountain, and has wired it for timing purposes, and in other ways made it about the only course of that length which could be adapted for a National hill climb. The party of New Yorkers arrived here early this morning and were entertained by Gen. Paul A. Oliver, whose residence is on the extreme top of Wilkesbarre Mountain, and at Albert Lewis's home at Bear Creek, which is on the other side of the mountain, about five miles from the course.

Cragin Reaches Semi-Finals.

There was some good lawn tennis under unfavorable conditions in the continuation of the championship tournament on the courts of the West Side Club, 116th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, yesterday. Calhoun Cragin came up to the semi-finals in great form by defeating Eddie C. Moen in hollow fashion to the score of 6—2 and 6—love. The starting of the doubles resulted in a Yale-Harvard combination of veterans, Thomas C. Trask and Frederick C. Inman, pairing against C. W. MacMullen and E. V. Frothingham. The former held the lead in both sets, winning by the score 6—2 and 6—3. The summary:

Men's Championship Singles.—Second Round—Calhoun Cragin defeated Dr. Ewing Taylor, 6—1, 6—3; Eddie C. Moen defeated R. E. Wigham, 8—2, 6—2; G. A. L. Dionne defeated George M. Bodman, 3—6, 6—4, 7—5.

Third Round—Calhoun Cragin defeated Eddie C. Moen, 6—2, 6—0.

Men's Championship Doubles.—First Round—Thomas C. Trask and Frederick C. Inman defeated C. W. MacMullen and E. V. Frothingham, 6—2, 6—3.

Gould and Miles in Finals.

LONDON, May 21.—Jay Gould of New York and Eustace H. Miles, the English tennis player, will meet in the finals of the Olympic court tennis competition, each having defeated his opponent in the semi-finals at the Queen's Club this afternoon. Mr. Gould beat Mr. Page in the easiest fashion in three straight sets, the score standing, 6—1, 6—0, 6—0, while Mr. Miles also won three straight sets from N. S. Edytton, but not so decisively. Mr. Miles's scores were 6—4, 6—1, 6—3.

SOCIALISM AND BENEVOLENCE.

It is a matter of common observation that the so-called Christian Socialists and parlor Socialists of this latitude do not appear to know what Socialism is. By speech and writing they urge upon society many salutary reforms, the bettering of conditions among workingmen, the raising of the standard of comfort, the lightening of burdens, the cure of evils and abuses, and this they call Socialism. Reform is, of course, not Socialism, any more than representative Government is anarchy. Good works had been done on this earth centuries before KARL MARX was born. By individual and by organized effort the lightening of the toiler's burden, the alleviation of harshness and hardship and suffering, and the promotion of human happiness have been sought, and have been in large measure accomplished, down through the ages since man first began to feel that he was, after all, in some degree his brother's keeper. These works of beneficence have been performed by men who never thought of calling themselves Socialists, who knew and cared nothing about Socialism. The amateur Socialists hereabout are poaching upon the preserves of benevolence.

Real Socialism means something quite different. Socialism, as it is taught and inculcated by men who know what they are about, does not as a rule emphasize the lightening of burdens and the reform of abuses. There are leaders of Socialism in this city who openly say that they are not seeking cures for hard conditions, inequalities, and oppression. They frankly declare that they want things to get worse, in order that, when the reform comes, it will not take the shape of mere betterment, but will be a veritable social revolution, the overthrow of the existing order, and the establishment of a Socialistic régime. It is well known that it is hard to get two Socialists to agree upon a definition of Socialism, but, in a general way, Mr. BROUGHTON BRANDENBURG, President of the National Institute of Immigration, in The Broadway Magazine, defines the thing very well in these words:

> The Socialists believe that all the means of production of wealth, mines, machines, factories, inventions, ideas, land, and so forth, belong to the human race as a whole. They believe that all persons who derive the benefits of these means of production under the present competitive system should be expropriated and the operations of human life carried on for the equal benefit of each individual. There must be a Government to control these operations and reward each individual according to his efforts. That is State Socialism.

At a meeting held in Chicago the other night to ratify the nomination of DEBS and HANFORD as the Socialist candidates for President and Vice President, Mr. HAYWOOD, in the course of a not very temperate speech, exclaimed, "To hell with injunctions!" To the same place he consigned the courts and Judges. That is good Socialist doctrine, for it is, as any one can see, auxiliary to the main purpose. The courts, naturally, would be an obstacle to the establishment of State Socialism. They must be got out of the way in the course of the revolution. Curiously enough, the convention of the Socialist Party in Chicago, instead of sticking to the doctrines of Simon Pure Socialism, put into the platform demands for a considerable number of reforms, the accomplishment of which would hinder, not help, the social revolution. They demanded the National ownership of railroads, telegraphs, telephones, and steamships, and "of all industries which are organized on a National scale, and in which competition has virtually ceased to exist." They also demanded "the extension of the public domain to include mines, quarries, forests, and water power." These things belong properly in a programme of Socialism. But "the scientific reforestation of timber lands and the reclamation of swamp lands," and the freedom of press, speech, and assemblage are not Socialistic, except that these Socialists demanded that this freedom be "absolute," which means that persons with bombs in their pockets should be allowed to assemble in Union Square without hindrance from police. The improvement of the industrial condition of the workers by shortening of hours, by securing a rest period of a day and a half a week, by the inspection of workshops and factories, and by the regulation of the employment of women and children was also demanded. Under the influence of a humane public opinion the lawmakers of this and other countries have been doing these works of reform for a great many years. The old political parties have repeatedly put such principles in their platforms. The continuing and extended application of them, of course, must tend to make it harder for the Socialists to secure converts. A sounder and more helpful Socialist doctrine is set forth in the concluding paragraph of the scheme of industrial reform:

> By abolishing public charity and substituting in its place compulsory insurance against unemployment, illness, and accidents, invalidism, old age, and death.

This is again the true note. Let the Government support the people. In other words, give everybody everything. Let the toiler divide the fruits of his industry with the drone. Abolish the natural penalty of laziness and improvidence, and let the industrious and the forethoughtful earn no reward which they are not compelled to divide with the shiftless.

The charge of intellectual dishonesty may fairly be brought against the professional Socialists who know what they really mean and want, nevertheless annex to their body of doctrine the aims and works professed and accomplished by philanthropy and benevolence in all ages. There is a cunning in their method, however, for by this device they have easily fooled a not inconsiderable number of clergymen, university professors, and callow millionaires, in whose eyes the destructive doctrines of Socialism have thus been made to appear golden, beautiful, and worthy.

JUGGLING WITH WORDS.

Representative VREELAND thought that the country would accept anything called Clearing House currency, and learned his mistake. Senator ALDRICH seems in the way of a like rude awakening, which would be his second on the same subject. The Senator thought the Republic was shaking when his Bond Currency bill was rejected, and he is now trying to see whether the country will accept anything which is labeled "Currency Commission."

He is likely to learn, as he certainly ought to learn, that the country will not be satisfied with any packed Commission. A Congressional Commission, although not ideal, would not be objectionable in principle. A Commission composed of those whose ideas the country has vetoed, and excluding representation to the ideas which have blocked the way of inferior proposals, promises poor results. What can be expected of a Commission headed by Senator ALDRICH's nominees, and Representatives who were appointed to block the way of real reform in the House?

This is not a Republican or Democratic matter. Platforms are silent about it, but the country has resounded with the expression of its wants. Yet the proposal is that this Commission shall have no representatives of the country at large to hold in check the party managers, who would do nothing at all if they dared. The proposed Commission is an excellent example of "holding company" legislation. Senator ALDRICH does not represent the financial opinion of his own town, and no one prominent in the proceedings has represented either his constituents or any real principle which would not be sacrificed for votes. The Commission needs the weight of a few authoritative and open-minded names if it is to carry weight with the country.

CHINA'S RESOURCES AND OURS.

The pessimists who see the near finish of our National resources may or may not be rejoiced by the cheering assurance of WU TING-FANG that China "in one province has sufficient coal to supply the world for a thousand years." They may think they know as much about China's coal and the world's demands as the Chinese Ambassador, and they may argue that any calculation based upon China's past or present consumption of coal and iron is subject to revision by the alteration produced by China's awakening, which WU TING-FANG also exultantly proclaims. He foresees thousands of miles of Chinese railways, operated with American rolling stock, and carrying goods made by machinery. It is as difficult to make a mental picture of such a China as to imagine the exhaustion of our own resources before the New York City 3½ per cents. mature.

On another point the Chinese Ambassador is even more bewildering. Within the week he has engaged two American professors to go to China to teach American farming. If they were commercial travelers of the Agricultural Implement Trust this could be understood. America leads the world in any sort of farming which can be done with tools, but it is at the foot of the class almost in intelligent husbandry, judged by results. We are strong in theory, but weak in practice, for the yield per acre here is among the world's lowest, although we have the best of soils. Russia alone grows less wheat per acre than we, and yet China seeks teachers of agriculture here.

This is comforting, for of course we can grow as much wheat as anybody whenever we really need it. If China survives with over 101 persons to the acre, it will be a long time before anybody need die of starvation here with 23 to the acre. If our population ever reaches China's density we, too, shall be able to make gardens on rocks. And we may then look for thirty instead of thirteen bushels to the acre, for England does even better than that. And in the background is the possibility of doubling the area as well as the yield. It has been calculated that within a man's lifetime the population of the United States will require a billion bushels of wheat to eat. Prophecy for prophecy—whenever a billion bushels is needed more than a billion will be grown. The railway traffic implied in the consumption of a billion bushels of wheat, with all the necessary incidental processes of production, consumption, and distribution, may frighten some, but to others paints a rosy picture. If the Chinese are able to live in Chinese fashion Americans will be able to live in American fashion.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN ENGLAND.

Mr. ASQUITH's gentle dalliance with the advocates of woman suffrage has doubtless astonished many persons in this country who have not realized the extent to which Great Britain is fad-ridden these days. The Prime Minister promised on Wednesday that the Government would not oppose an amendment to an electoral reform bill granting to women the right to vote for members of Parliament under the same terms as govern men voters. This was not a promise that Mr. ASQUITH or his Cabinet would actively help the cause of woman suffrage, but it was a large concession to the cause, considering that the suffragists claim to have the sympathetic support of a large majority of the House of Commons. It shows that the tide in favor of the aggressive women is so strong that the Prime Minister thinks it the better part of valor for the Government not to stand directly in its way.

His qualified promise, however, does not satisfy them. They want the Government to introduce a woman suffrage bill and push it through this session. They are not willing to ride through on an amendment. Probably they have doubts about any general electoral reform bill coming up very soon.

Yesterday there was another great feminine demonstration in Downing Street. The little cul de sac off Whitehall was packed with raging daughters of men and perplexed policemen. The suffragettes take too much joy in demonstration to hold their peace for a half measure. They are going to continue their fight, and it begins to look as if, with the help of the other discontented elements, they might yet place the Liberal Party in a most unfortunate position.

THE CHESTNUT CANKER.

Every one interested in chestnut culture, which in recent years has developed through the introduction of Japanese and European varieties, will lament the devastation wrought by the red-fruited fungus, or "canker," to which Dr. WILLIAM A. MURRILL of the New York Botanical Garden gives the significant name Diaporthe — "utterly ruinous." THE TIMES reported yesterday that the blight has in two years destroyed from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 worth of the finest chestnut trees in New York and its vicinity, and that the method of checking its spread is not by spraying, or even by cutting off the infected limbs, but by converting the whole tree at once into lumber.

For ornament, for timber, and for its fruit, which has been improved by graftings of foreign chestnuts, this American hardwood of the oak family has qualities that warrant a strenuous campaign in its behalf. The nuts, hitherto damaged by weevils to the extent of 25 per cent. of the annual crop, may be protected by sprays of bisulphide of carbon and by introducing the weevils' natural enemy, the wasplike braconid parasite, together with one or two other predatory bugs known to the Bureau of Entomology at Washington. The chestnut forests, of which the cut, over 407,000,000 feet in 1906, was 158 per cent. greater than in 1899, can be kept from their human enemies by breaking down Speaker CANNON's opposition to the Appalachian Forest Reserve bill. Against the new fungus enemy scientists at the Botanical Gardens, and at the Laboratory of Forest Pathology at Washington, will muster their forces in the interest of lovers of the chestnut parks and woodlands.

AGED PLAYWRIGHTS.

There is food for thought for the thousands of ambitious young persons in this country who industriously write plays in the hope that by and by they may become acknowledged dramatists in the announcement that a French philanthropist is establishing a home for aged playwrights. It must be something of a shock to the patient aspirant for the title of dramatist to learn that in France, the country that has the best plays, the best actors, and the most enlightened audiences, aged dramatists are objects of charity. Yet it is a clear fact that in France, as in all other countries, the dramatists' rewards are dubious and elusive. In spite of the tales of the wonderful royalties received by the authors of "Ingomar in Standard Oil" and "Monna Vanna in Harlem," very few playwrights are well paid, and many are fit objects for charity before they are aged.

The charity projected by Dr. DE ROTHSCHILD, therefore, is nobly planned, and will be useful, though one may be permitted to doubt if unsuccessful dramatists can be as cheerful in the society of other unsuccessful dramatists as they would be in society less restricted. The daily sight of a score of other unsuccessful dramatists will inevitably be rather depressing. To solace the depressed, however, the founder will establish a small theatre on the premises, in which the plays of the inmates will be acted. Each performance will serve to indicate to all the spectators but one why the author of the play was reduced to poverty in his old age. Admission to the theatre ought to be free to young dramatists, to the end that they may learn how not to write. Dramatists rarely learn that much.

Chiefly, however, we regard the plan as beneficent in its possible effect on unacted aspirants. A playwright is one whose plays have been acted. Nobody is thinking of founding a home for the perpetually unacted. The ordinary lunatic asylums must still serve for them.

Gov. HUGHES has signed the bill that puts a legal perimeter about the medicinal springs of Saratoga, protecting them from the suction of the natural gas companies. With the pressure of gas insured, the springs that "made" Saratoga will presently be restored to their ancient strength and vigor. Saratogians may watch the passage of the Governor's Race Track Anti-Gambling bills with composure, knowing that, with the blight of racing removed, their village would have a chance to regain its prestige as a watering place.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Revolving Doors Defended.

While it is evident that there are places of entrance, and even more evident that there are places of exit, where revolving doors are dangerous and therefore should be forbidden—if the voluntary application of common sense did not prevent their use there, as it usually would—the Prefect of the Paris Police, M. LEPINE, seems to have gone unnecessarily far, and therefore too far, in making the rare misuse of these doors the excuse for forbidding their erection anywhere in the French capital. He has argued, as persons in official or otherwise authoritative positions are rather apt to do, from the special to the general, and on a few exceptional cases has built a rule of universal and permanent application—which is something that always results in a lot of bother and often in a lot of loss.

The revolving door is an admirable invention, and, in places where its imperfections are not brought out and emphasized by a demand upon it for a quality of service it is not designed to render, no satisfactory substitute for it has yet been devised. All doors are or may become an obstruction to free passage, but it is not necessary that every door, for instance, should open outward just because there are the best of reasons why the doors of school houses and theatres should never swing the other way, nor should all doors be constantly left unlocked because the fastening of them in those buildings and some others, in certain hours, is criminal.

So, though the revolving door is from its nature more obstructive than ordinary doors to the hurried passage of many people in a short space of time, that fact does not condemn the utilization of its advantages in places where the chance of such a rush is sufficiently small to be safely ignored. Revolving doors are rather ugly contrivances, and they are extremely expensive, but they do serve several important and highly desirable purposes. Therein lies the explanation of their general use in buildings into and out of which many people pass in comparative leisure and in a well-distributed stream. In the "skyscraper" they are almost a necessity as a protection against draughts, and while it is easy enough to figure out how people could get caught and hurt in them, as a matter of fact accidents almost never happen, and of the few that do occur none is serious.

A Defeat for the President.

As a considerable number of amiable people were troubled by the removal from some of our coins of the motto, "In God We Trust," and as it is a matter of no great consequence whether it is there or not, we, for our part, are well enough content, or at least not measurably discontent, with its approaching restoration. Still, it is only fair to remind all and sundry that the President, whatever may be thought of his wisdom in raising the issue, had all the solid arguments on his side when he was forced to defend his course, and that Congress, in reversing his action, only showed its characteristic willingness to yield to outside pressure in all matters to which it is itself indifferent or in which it thinks that political capital can be cheaply made by submission to what it has an excuse for calling public sentiment.

The original placing of this motto on the coins was the result of an individual preference, not of any popular demand, and our mints had been running for many a year before anybody thought of doing the thing. When done, it attracted no attention, and, so far as known, it had no appreciable effect on either business or politics. Now and then unseemly jests about the motto in this particular usage were made by persons of levity and ill-taste, and finally the President, whose sense of proportion is not always perfect, decided that as the inscription was required by no law he would exercise his authority and cause its removal.

His motive, unquestionably, was the reverse of irreligious, and he announced at the time that he would not oppose the restoration of the motto if Congress ordered it after thinking the matter over. Immediately there was an outcry, which, though loud, came from few places and people. As nobody else said much of anything, not much of anything else was heard, and Congress, in a moment of leisure, listened to the voices—and incidentally squared a little grudge or two with the man in the White House. It is half sad, half funny. The motto goes back to the place where there was never any good reason for putting it. Now there is a reason—the law says so. The reason for the law remains to be found.

Reflections on a Sad Case.

There is, we suppose, no excuse for doubting that W. H. MARSH died of the terrible disease which is clumsily and inaccurately called hydrophobia. A few people who have had no opportunity for observing the symptoms and progress of that disease have denied its very existence, but its reality and its fatality are alike certain, and, despite the mystery as to just how Mr. MARSH caught the horrible infection, its diagnosis was easy by the Pasteur experts by the time its first manifestations had wakened his anxiety and sent him to them for relief.

It was then, according to their experience, too late for their treatment to be effective, but many will think that they exceeded professional duty, as they certainly violated the almost invariable professional custom, by telling Mr. MARSH that his case was hopeless and his death a matter of a few days. This was their well-grounded belief, but between such a belief and positive knowledge there is a large difference, and none knows better than the doctors the truth there is in the old saying that "while there is life there is hope." Many a man is now alive who was "given up" years ago—and the chances are that some of them would have been dead if their doctors had said, as well as thought, that there was no chance for them.

And those of us who have least patience with the theories of "suggestion" in their more expanded forms are still forced to admit the possibility that a grave prophecy of death can produce death. That it did so in this instance it would be absurd to assert, but nevertheless one cannot help wishing that the prophecy had not been made or wondering why it was.

BUSINESS MEN FOR PEACE.

Meet at Lake Mohonk—Osborn Warns Against Caesarism.

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., May 21.—To-night's session of the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration was devoted to the business men's movement in connection with the general object of the conference. C. B. Murray of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce presented this resolution adopted by the business organization to-day:

> The men representing business organizations in various parts of the country recognize the fact that international arbitration as a substitute for war between nations is a potential proposition; that popular education should be encouraged as the best means to hasten the day of a world's court of justice, that the business men, being vitally interested in this, the greatest cause of humanity, feel it their duty to assume a large share of the financial burden of this educational campaign.
>
> They appreciate, further, that they should give time and serious thought to the problems confronting those who are now engaged in the international arbitration movement.

Addresses were made by Marcus M. Marks, President of the National Association of Clothiers; Frank D. La Lanne, President of the National Board of Trade; James Arbuckle of St. Louis, manager of the Latin-American and Foreign Trade Association, and others.

Thomas M. Osborn, Public Service Commissioner, in his speech on "War and Democracy," warned against "Caesarism."

"It expresses itself," he said, "by undue faith and reliance placed upon some single man who is allowed by society to assume the character of a dictator—endeavoring to focus in himself all the functions of Government and to dispense the blessing of Providence through his individual person. Frequently the unfortunate mortal becomes convinced that he is more than human, believing that by some God-given faculty he is far better able to judge the needs of people than they themselves, and much better qualified to exercise the functions of Government than any regular system developed under the natural pressure of the necessities and desires of society."

RIVERSIDE DRIVE NUISANCES.

Urges That Police Suppress Appearance of Loiterers and "Muckers."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The time of the year is fast approaching when that extensive, beautiful, and most open and airy of all the parks in the thickly populated sections of the city, Riverside Drive, will be of greatest benefit to dwellers near it. The present is therefore the proper time for calling attention to an abuse which last year seriously limited the chances of its use by many, and utterly destroyed the pleasure of a walk there to many more. On Summer evenings constantly, and not infrequently in the Spring and Fall, groups of boys and young men would gather on the promenade and loiter there, some individuals sitting on the parapet, some sitting on one or more benches which they had removed from their usual positions for their own purposes, some standing in the pathway; there they would wrestle with one another, jostle one another, (and passersby also,) yell out sobriquets, indulge in vulgar and sometimes profane and indecent language—in a word, conduct themselves as rowdies.

I have felt my blood boil and my fists clench many a time at what I have seen and heard of such groups and of their conduct to passers-by, but I have never seen such a crowd "moved on" or otherwise interfered with by the police. It is true that a policeman on the promenade was a rare sight. The evil had last year attained annoying proportions, and I draw attention to the fact before it be revived again this year, as, if allowed, it undoubtedly will, and urge that the police sternly repress its earliest appearances. In doing so they will have the sympathies of all but the rowdies themselves. J. W.

Combination Holidays.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been called to the fact that this year Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, and Fourth of July all fall on Saturday, a day which is already a half holiday with many wage earners. It seems rather hard that this class of the employed, many of whom get few holidays throughout the year, should thus virtually be deprived of half a day's holiday. It would be a great benefit to them if some arrangement might be made whereby this class of employes could have a whole day's holiday given to them to represent Memorial Day and Fourth of July apart from the regular Saturday half holiday. A SYMPATHIZER.

The Shrill Whistles.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Necessary" noise is so great that it is almost beyond belief how many citizens seem inclined to add to the din of our modern babel, regardless of more sensitive ears and nerves. Such as these, with all due regard to personal liberty, should be restrained from turning our city into a veritable boiler shop.

Would it not be well to start with the suppression of those shrill, senseless whistles that, in the mouths of irresponsible urchins, fill the air, morning, noon, and night, with outrageous stilettos of sound, robbing many a worthy citizen of his equilibrium of temper?

MORRIS KERSEY.

Lafcadio Hearn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May a mere outsider and low-brow inquire what purpose is served by the mud slinging over poor Lafcadio Hearn? The man's dead. The world does not care if he were an angel or a yahoo. It is his work which stands; its good, and his personal character does not matter. His so-called friends (all with books to boom) should treat us to a little silence. Wasn't it Ingalls who said that only Indians scalped the dead and only coyotes dug up corpses?

KITTY MONTROSE.

TOUCH AND GO.

"Sheer off!" For she, by fashion led,
Ignored the pale pedestrian's whim.
Why should she turn aside for him
As through that narrow lane she sped?

They met! No voice to her had said—
"Lady, some inches of that brim
Shear off!"

So as she passed with sprightly tread,
(Ah, fair she was—petite and slim!)
Her M——y W——w's ruthless rim
Caught, held, and took his luckless head
Sheer off!

FIREBOATS PARADE.

Two New Ones Added to Fleet—Cardinal Logue Sees Manoeuvres.

Mayor McClellan reviewed the city's fireboat fleet yesterday afternoon, the manoeuvres being incidental to a preliminary trial of the Thomas Willett and the James Duane, the newly built boats now added to the fire-fighting force.

Among those who saw the sight from the balcony of the firehouse just west of the Aquarium was Cardinal Logue, Bishop Brown of Queenstown, Mgr. Lavelle, Mgr. Hayes, and other clergymen.

The boats of the fleet began to arrive from their stations early in the afternoon. Their brass work was polished until it dazzled the eyes of the beholders, and spotlessly clean was deckhouse and superstructure. They were the New Yorker, William L. Strong, George B. McClellan, Abram S. Hewitt, Zophar Mills, David A. Boody, and Seth Low. "Admiral" John Kenlon of the Marine Division of the department and Battalion Chief Conlon were in command of the boats.

Mayor McClellan was accompanied by his secretaries, Fire Commissioner Hayes, Deputy Commissioners Whitney and Wise, and Chief Croker. Before the review the Mayor inspected each boat.

As soon as the reviewing party got on board the Velox, the Chief's launch, the signal was given and the boats started up the river to meet and convoy the two new boats to the Battery.

The Willett and the Duane were met about opposite Pier 7 North River. As the old and new craft met there came a sharp whistled command from the Velox, and the head of the line turned. The other boats swung into single file behind the New Yorker, and the line came on, shooting a hissing broadside from port and starboard pipes.

The Willett and the Duane were on the end of the line. They are larger than the old department boats, and their streams are as powerful as any. In the stern of each is constructed a water tower, capable of doing the same work as the land water tower.

When the turn at the Battery was reached the water was shut off and the Duane and Willett drew off to the starboard of the Velox. The old boats were lashed side to side. Then came a signal for full speed ahead, and as the seven shot past the Velox and the fire pier they all let go a broadside from every nozzle on board.

SQUIRRELS DOWN A CHIMNEY.

Two Inquiring Youngsters Meet Death on the Sloanes' Hot Stove.

The Central Park mother squirrel who built her nursery in the chimney of Mrs. John Sloane's home at 883 Fifth Avenue ought to be informed that the cataclysm which overtook the nursery yesterday noon did not kill all three of her children. The mother could not find any of them early last night when she returned from her day's work in the Park, but one is alive and in good hands. He will enjoy the gentlest training.

This Spring the mother squirrel moved out of the Park and across the avenue to build her nursery, as do many of the squirrels, thus getting into the best of New York's 1,100. This mother climbed to the top of the Sloane house, finding around at the rear the sky end of a chimney. A pipe ran up through it from the stove in the kitchen below, but just down inside the brickwork, between the stovepipe and the brick wall, she found a ledge that would uphold a nursery.

It was warm there, and it was a cold Spring. The nursery was built and populated. The two daughters and one son grew apace. Their manners were gentle, and they were obedient.

Thus it was that the mother left home yesterday morning to do her foraging in the Park feeling at ease about her family. But the time had come for the three to get out of the nursery and see something of the world. They started.

They got somewhat dizzy at first. They lost their balance. They fell, down, down—it seemed they would never stop. The two daughters—who may as well be called Edythe and Cornelia—went tumbling through a ventilating aperture just above the stove, falling upon the hot stove top. The son, Roland, had struck a ledge just above the aperture. He held on.

Lena Andersen, the cook, was standing in front of the stove broiling squabs for luncheon. Edythe and Cornelia danced and squealed on the hot stove. Lena Andersen, instead of rescuing the two squirrels, screamed something about ghosts, threw down her fork, and fled to her adviser, John Campbell, the butler. She could not explain what she had seen appear as if by magic upon the stove, but she could point it out. John Campbell rallied the dozen servants, leading them down into the kitchen. Lena Andersen tripped up to the stove and pointed out two little gray lumps.

John Campbell and Lena and all the rest began to investigate. They found Roland, frightened, sticking to his safe foothold.

The mother squirrel was heard at the top of the chimney last night, but she could not be caught. She ran away without knowing what had happened since she left home.

HORSE ON A ROOF.

Made to Walk the Plank, Pirate Fashion, to Fall on Soft Hay.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, L. I., May 21.—Some 200 of this village's citizenry saw a horse marooned on the roof of a house in Main Street this afternoon. They were all sober, and they saw the horse come down, good as new.

Silas William's livery stable has two stories. The horses are kept on the second floor. At one end of this floor a door opens out on the roof of a shed. This door is opened for ventilating purposes, but usually bars keep the horses from wandering out of it.

This afternoon the bars happened to be down. A big, gray horse wandered upon the roof. It began to give way. The further he walked the weaker the roof got, and finally he stopped still, afraid to go in any direction.

The problem was to get the gray down without damaging the shed and injuring the horse. The citizenry helped with advice. Four heavy planks were put under the gray. Hay was strewn thick on the ground where the gray would have to fall. The planks were tipped up, and the gray slid down upon the hay bed, unhurt.

GOV. HIGGINS SEES CONEY

And Would Like to Take It Back to Rhode Island with Him.

Gov. James H. Higgins of Rhode Island, with President McGowan of the Board of Aldermen, Mrs. McGowan, and several others, including ex-Deputy Police Commissioners Rhinelander Waldo and Arthur O'Keefe, visited Coney Island last night. They rode down from Manhattan in two automobiles, and a punctured tire caused a delay of nearly two hours in Ocean Boulevard, so that it was nearly 11 o'clock before they arrived.

Luna Park had been kept open expressly for the Governor and Fred McClellan, the manager, met the party at the gates and showed them over the park. Gov. Higgins tried many of the stunts himself and declared that he would like to take Coney Island back to Rhode Island with him.

Because of the rain the party made only a short stay at the island, but they visited the Bowery before they returned to Manhattan.

ANTI-TRUST FIGHT WAS M'KINLEY'S PLAN

He Conceived the Policy That Roosevelt Has Adopted, Says George B. Cortelyou.

FEARED OUR PROSPERITY

And Had Planned Steps to Check Business Abuses When He Was Killed, His Former Secretary Declares.

President Roosevelt is portrayed by Secretary of the Treasury George B. Cortelyou as the executor of policies left to him as a legacy by President McKinley, in an article by James Creelman in the June issue of Pearson's Magazine, published to-day. The article is called "Mr. Cortelyou Explains President McKinley."

Mr. Cortelyou does not deny initiative to President Roosevelt along all lines, but in his attitude toward the regulation and control of trusts he makes clear that the President is a follower of ideas which only his assassination prevented President McKinley from putting into execution.

"The idea that President McKinley was blind or indifferent to the conditions and abuses growing out of the sweeping prosperity which attended the development of large forms of business during his Administration is a mistake into which many persons have fallen," Mr. Cortelyou is quoted by Mr. Creelman as saying. "He was wide awake to everything affecting the welfare of the country. But the phenomenal prosperity that had come was so much greater than he had anticipated that it is no exaggeration to say that he was staggered by it.

"He would say, 'How wonderful it is! How wonderful!' And yet in the midst of it all he said, again and again, 'This trust question has got to be taken up in earnest, and soon.'"

Mr. Cortelyou is made to explain that in President McKinley's first term he was too busy to deal deeply with anything but pressing questions of immediate government, and difficult and debatable reforms had to wait until he had time to turn around.

"But in his second Administration," the article continues, "there was, in some senses, a distinctly new McKinley. With the Spanish war and its questions behind him, he turned his attention to the domestic affairs of the country, and it was then he said: 'This trust question must be taken up and settled.' That thought was in his mind when he died—that and the question of commercial reciprocity with other nations.

"Mr. McKinley saw the great onrush of prosperity. He saw with it evils inseparable from the new conditions. He spoke of them plainly and often to those who were nearest to him.

"But to deal with them effectively without shattering the interwoven and delicate forces that were co-operating for the welfare of the country—that was the question. The President talked of it, he worried over it, he slept on it.

"Taken in connection with President Roosevelt's announcement, on taking the oath of office in Buffalo, that it would be his aim 'to continue absolutely unbroken the policy of President McKinley for the peace, prosperity, and honor of our beloved country,' the real position of Mr. McKinley on the trust question has a significance that cannot now be ignored."

Of President McKinley's plans for commercial reciprocity Mr. Cortelyou is quoted as saying that the President felt he could lift his party and his country to a new level of success by extending the principle of reciprocity to our foreign markets.

"During his vacation in the last Summer of his life," Mr. Cortelyou says, "the President worked at Canton on material for a series of speeches, in which he proposed to develop progressively his ideas on the extension of our foreign trade through the means of reciprocity treaties, and had directed the collection of data on the subject of trusts.

"By the end of the Summer he was prepared to deal publicly with both questions on a broad scale, and it was his intention to use the first opportunity to appeal to his party and the country for support. I never saw him more determined on anything than on this.

"When Mr. McKinley went to California to witness the launching of the battleship Ohio, his plan was to develop the new fight in a number of speeches on his return trip across the continent. The almost fatal illness of Mrs. McKinley at San Francisco and her serious condition on the journey home changed the President's plans, because he was not in a state to deal with questions which assumed such grave proportions in his mind."

From the slowness and gravity with which the Secretary of the Treasury spoke, Mr. Creelman asserts that "he seemed to realize that what he said was in the nature of a revelation; that the great design formed in the mind of President McKinley established an important bridge connecting the last two National Administrations, and proved a continuity of Republican policy, as against the rough clamor about new, strange, and unconsidered theories of the Roosevelt Administration."

NEW COURSE IN THERAPEUTICS

Machines for Curing Stiff Joints Given to Vanderbilt Clinic.

A Department of Surgical Mechanico Therapeutics will be established in connection with the Vanderbilt Clinic of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Amsterdam Avenue and Sixtieth Street, under the direction of Dr. Charles H. Jaeger, Chief of the Orthopedic Division and Instructor of Orthopedic Surgery at Columbia University. The department will be equipped by Mrs. Ray Matshak as a memorial to her husband, Samuel Matshak, the dry goods merchant who died last Fall.

Surgical mechanico therapy has two chief fields of usefulness. There are machines for moving and exercising every joint in the body. Often a patient leaves the hospital with an injured joint that needs exercise. A stiff joint may otherwise result. The machines provide a gentle but persistent exercise which gradually restores it to its normal activity. The second field provides exercise for invalids and those convalescing from long illness.

Columbia will be the first university in the United States to have an equipment of this kind.

ICE INQUIRY NEAR END.

Special Grand Jury Likely to Decide the Matter This Week.

Wesley M. Oler, President of the American Ice Company, was a witness yesterday before the Special Grand Jury which is examining into the transactions of the company.

Mr. Oler's testimony occupied most of yesterday's session. It is not definitely known when the case will be finished, though it was said yesterday that the Grand Jury would be prepared to vote on the question of indictment by the end of the week.

KING EDWARD A GUEST IN HONOR OF MISS REID

Attends Engagement Dinner Given by Earl and Countess of Dudley.

QUEEN WAS ALSO PRESENT

The Affair Was a Court Function and Was Followed by a Large Dance.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—A small dinner party was given to-night by the Earl and Countess of Dudley, ostensibly for the King and Queen, but the real motive of the dinner was to celebrate the engagement of John Hubert Ward, the Earl's brother, to Miss Jean Reid, daughter of Ambassador Reid.

Miss Reid was the only unmarried woman present at the dinner, and Lady Essex was the only other American at the table.

Other Americans came later in the evening to the ball that followed the dinner. Among them were Mrs. John Jacob Astor, the Duchess of Roxburghe, Lady Alastair Innes-Ker, and Lady Willoughby de Eresby.

The affair was quite a Court function, the men wearing the Court costume of knee breeches. Two hundred and fifty guests attended the dance.

The entertainments included an exhibition of dancing by the Canadian, Miss Maud Allan.

MISS EDITH TAYLOR TO WED.

Engagement of Philadelphia Girl to Mansfield Patterson Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—An engagement of much interest to society in this city and New York, announced to-day, is that of Miss Edith Moore Taylor of this city to Mansfield Patterson of Geneva, N. Y.

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Madison Taylor of 1,504 Pine Street. She made her début several seasons ago and has been a special favorite not only in this city but also at Bar Harbor, where her Summers have been passed. Her sister, Miss Mabel Heyward Taylor, married Gifford Alexander Cochran two years ago and now lives in New York. Miss Taylor is also a granddaughter of Mrs. Henry E. Drayton.

TRIAL MILL FOR SHUBERT PLAYS

Managers to Pick Fall Productions from Pieces Put On by Summer Stock Company.

A KEY TO POPULAR TASTE

Performances Expected to Give an Idea as to Which Plays Are Valuable for Use Here.

Though nothing has been said about the matter publicly, the Shuberts have determined on a new departure in play producing. They have arranged with the manager of the Hyperion Theatre Summer Stock Company in New Haven, Conn., to try out with that organization all the plays which the firm contemplates producing in the Autumn. The productions will be made under the stage direction of Oscar Eagle, who was formerly connected with Liebler & Co.

It is by no means an original plan for a manager to have a new play tried out by stock companies at various places in the warm months, but this is the first time that one of the largest producing managers has arranged for an entire series of such presentations, all at a single theatre, and by a single company.

J. J. Shubert admitted last night that he had made such an arrangement with the management of the stock company. He did not wish to name the new plays to be tried, he said, as some of them might be discarded after the try-out production. The first piece, which is from the French, will be offered on Monday evening. The list includes three more foreign pieces and eight American plays.

"The company will present nothing except absolutely new pieces or foreign pieces never seen in this country, of which we control the rights," said Mr. Shubert. "As a result of these performances we hope to be able to tell with more accuracy which of the various plays we have on hand are really 'valuable properties,' and which are not going to be serviceable when actually performed. Though a stock company production may not be a complete test, we feel we can tell much more even from such a presentation under a competent stage manager than from any reading of the manuscript."

MISS WYNNE TO PLAY HERE.

Young Cousin of Miss Matthison to Appear in "The Servant in the House."

Gladys Wynne, a young cousin of Edith Wynne Matthison, who is now appearing with the Miller Associate Players in "The Servant in the House," is soon to join that company, temporarily replacing Mabel Moore, when the latter begins her Summer vacation. Miss Wynne arrived from England only a few days ago, and the change will take place about June 1.

Miss Wynne is 19 years old, but in spite of her youth has been playing more or less conspicuous rôles in England for three years. She is a daughter of Robert Wynne, an uncle of Miss Matthison. Miss Matthison and her husband, Rann Kennedy, trained her for the stage. Her most recent engagement has been to play the ingenues with H. B. Irving, replacing Dorothea Baird when she has been unable to appear.

When Mabel Moore returns to the company at the Savoy Theatre Miss Wynne will join the Chicago company of "The Servant in the House," and will be permanently cast for the part of Mary.

MERRY WIDOW HATS GALORE.

These hats are all to be distributed at the New Amsterdam Theatre on the night of June 13 as souvenirs to commemorate the two hundred and seventy-fifth performance of "The Merry Widow." Each lady in the audience will receive a hat coupon as she enters, but, for obvious reasons, will not get her hatbox until leaving the house.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Make Recoveries—Call Money Rates, 1½@1¾ Per Cent.

INTEREST IN IRON SITUATION

Reports of Good Buying Orders—Foreign Exchange Rates Up Again —Money Easy Abroad.

After a morning session of extreme irregularity with sharp breaks to low prices on the part of a number of active shares, the stock market turned strong and closed with substantial gains registered by a majority of stocks. The reasons for this return of the strength which vanished so suddenly on Tuesday appeared to be largely technical. Presumably, there had been considerable short selling of stocks through the two days of unsettlement by speculators who had lacked courage to operate for the fall until the market began to betray signs of weakness. Sales of this character were covered very quickly yesterday upon the reappearance of vigorous buying elsewhere, this contributing largely to the general rise. At the same time it was apparent that the interests identified with the long advance in prices preceding Tuesday's break had maintained unshaken control of the situation, and chose, for the moment, at least, to put prices up. There was nothing in the day's news to explain the irregularity of the morning or the strength of the afternoon. Somewhat more cheerful reports from the iron trade, including a Western dispatch to the effect that large buying orders in pig iron had been received at several points, were offset in a measure by the prolonged session of the steelmakers in conference over the question of maintaining prices. The meeting was still in progress at the close of business, and while the financial community was in some doubt over the result, reports from the larger interests concerned were insistent that no change would be made. Sentiment was influenced favorably by the announcement of the payment of a cash dividend by the Atlantic Coast Line, a road which six months ago paid at its usual 6 per cent. rate in script in place of cash. It now reduces the rate to 5 per cent. per annum, but makes the payment in cash. The development would be more convincing were it not for the fact that railroad earnings from the territory in which the road operates continue to decline. A Pennsylvania subsidiary, the Panhandle, reported a loss of $218,000 in its net returns for April.

Although no gold engagements were announced during the day, another advance in the price of demand sterling in the foreign exchange market pointed to additional exports as soon as steamer facilities were available. Discount rates at the chief money centres abroad declined during the day, and the Banks of England and France reported substantial increases in their holdings of gold. The English bank's percentage of reserve to liabilities rose to 51.77 per cent., the highest ratio in force in over ten years. The French bank added $7,000,000 to its holdings of gold, which are now only some $20,000,000 under its record in this respect. In spite of the heavy withdrawals of gold, resulting in a loss by the banks to the Sub-Treasury of $5,682,000, money rates were again easy here.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee was quiet yesterday, with fluctuations irregular. The market closed steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower.

The opening was at a decline of 5 points, and during the middle session the market ruled about unchanged to 10 points lower, but rallied slightly toward the close. There was a great deal of discussion of the proposed offerings of Government coffee at auction. French cables, after showing a net decline of 1 franc, closed at a net loss of ¾ franc. Hamburg was net ½ to ½ pfennig lower. Neither of the Brazilian markets reported any change in prices, receipts at the two ports being 12,300 bags, against 54,000 last year and 16,000 two years ago. Jundiahy receipts were 6,000 bags, against 31,000 last year and 1,000 two years ago.

Spot coffee was barely steady; 6⅜c for Rio No. 7.

The range of contract prices was as follows:

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Between a better export business and crop complaints from Indiana and Kansas, the market developed a much better tone yesterday, with offerings very light throughout. Highest prices were reached in the afternoon on export sales of fully forty-six loads. Northwest receipts were 129 cars, compared with 277 cars last year. Liverpool opened quite firm, but closed partly ½d net lower. Berlin was ⅝c higher, and Budapest 1@1½c net lower. Cash wheat in New York closed firm, with No. 2 red quoted at $1.05, elevator, and $1.01¼, late July. No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.14⅝, and No. 2 hard, Winter, $1.13¼, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—Favorable weather and prospects that Argentine shipments would equal those of last week caused a break yesterday whereby all of an opening of ¼c advance was lost. Liverpool closed ½d higher, but cables brought no export orders. No. 2 corn in New York was quoted at 78c, nominal, in elevator, and 76c, nominal, free on board, afloat.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Hard to Diagnose.

There was an inning for every one in yesterday's market, and traders who were in the market for scalping purposes only were able to obtain some profit in a majority of cases. Nowadays the wise scalper confines himself to the high-class stocks which are or have been the most active, offering the widest range of fluctuations and the best opportunities for quick profits. It is funny to note the attitude of some of the brokerage houses on a market such as that of yesterday. The reaction in the forenoon was of a character which might be supposed to represent a further recession, if not continued material weakness, and conservative advice was forthcoming, indicating the possibility of further profits on the downward movement. But the rally subsequently was of such a character that it did not require an expert tape reader to discern signs of its continuance, and the gossip or the official offerings of advice in many of the brokerage houses were colored accordingly. The advice transmitted over the wires, to judge by half a dozen samples taken at various times during the day, was badly mixed. There was a conflict of opinion between different houses and between the different messages of the same houses.

***

Tipsters' Output Varied.

Tips were widely circulated throughout the district yesterday, but there was this distinction between the output from the tipster headquarters now and a week ago, that they did not all agree yesterday, and some were flatly bearish while others were distinctly bullish. An example developed in one house showing the possibilities of the tip. When Smelters was selling between 70 and 71 one of the traders who gets a miscellaneous collection of information from all over the district, much of it right, came in with the news that an advance of several points in that stock was imminent. At the moment the market showed no indication of any prospective enthusiasm, and the would-be information dispenser was invited to back his faith in his own information with bets. He had confidence enough to do so, limiting the advance to two points within a short time, and he won. Absolutely contrary information was telephoned to the same house at almost the same time.

Is the Public Growing Wise?

"One hears more about the sudden accession of wisdom on the part of the public just now than ever before, and if we are to believe it those who used to be classified as lambs have been promoted into the wiseacre class, buying stocks at the low prices and handing them over to the manipulators at the top of the advance," said an old-time broker yesterday. "We have a number—in fact, a large number—of traders in this office, some living in town and some out of town, who are without doubt eligible to be classed as the public. I asked one of my partners recently whether their accounts showed much substantial progress in speculative wisdom. I had brought myself to believe that such was the case, and I am free to confess that I was more or less disappointed when my partner told me that, so far as he could see, there was just the same percentage of successful trades among these clients of ours that there was two, three, or four years ago. In fact, in one instance the percentage was considerably lower than what might be termed the average. My partner attributed this to the belief on the part of this particular client that he knew all about the market; that the advice of his broker was foolish, and that he could beat the game himself. He has not done so yet."

***

Currency Situation Disregarded.

Neither brokers nor bankers exhibited any desire to talk at length yesterday over the currency developments at Washington. The announcement that the attempt to agree on a compromise measure had been abandoned created no surprise, and, in fact, in banking circles—that is in some of them—it was regarded with relief. This did not mean that the bankers did not want currency revision, but they were afraid that some hodge-podge measure would be enacted into law in the closing hours of the session. With regard to the appointment of a currency commission it would be difficult to determine the exact attitude, or what might be termed the average of it, throughout the district. One banker pointed out that the report of the local Chamber of Commerce was an interesting and exhaustive document, but it accomplished nothing, and the American Bankers' Association had done good missionary work to no avail. Just what more can be learned about the situation that will illumine it the sceptical ones cannot see.

***

Segregating Speculative Nuisances.

Moving from comparatively small offices into new ones more than double the size, a firm fairly well known in the financial district found that it had more room than it wanted, or could use advantageously. There was no desire on the part of any of the members to sublet the space or even to give desk room accommodations, but one of the younger members found a use for it. Among the customers were half a dozen or so who did little else than trade in the market and resolved themselves daily into impromptu debating clubs for the discussion of every topic under the sun. Sometimes they were more or less of a nuisance, but withal good customers and good fellows. One morning the spare office was found brilliantly lighted, equipped with a centre table and half a dozen easy chairs and a brass sign hung conspicuously over the door with this legend: "Raving Room." It caused amusement at first, but whenever those inclined to argument begin to get excited they are hustled into this room, specially set aside for them, where there is no limitation on topics or the discussion thereof. Incidentally the Raving Room has become the most popular room in the office.

Samuel H. Miller, who has been for many years assistant cashier of the Chase National Bank, was appointed cashier yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of E. J. Stalker. Mr. Stalker was one of the bank's oldest officials in point of service. At the same meeting Henry M. Conkey and Alfred C. Andrews were made assistant cashiers.

Little Board Broker Suspended.

J. M. Smith, a trader on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, who was admitted to membership on April 14 last, was suspended yesterday for failure to meet contracts. He had been a floor trader, and his obligations are small.

TRUST LAWYER CRIES GIVE US PEACE!

Argument of De Lancey Nicoll in Government's Suit Against the Tobacco Company.

CALLS ACTION OPPRESSIVE

And Declares That a Great Monument to American Endeavor Is in Danger of Being Destroyed.

The lawyers for the Tobacco Trust held the arena again yesterday with closing arguments in the action brought by the Government to dissolve the combination. De Lancey Nicoll took the first turn in replying to James C. McReynolds, the special assistant to the Attorney General, who is in charge of the matter. After him, ex-Judge William J. Wallace and William B. Hornblower argued.

Mr. Nicoll began his argument by answering Mr. McReynolds's contention that the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Northern Securities case was compelling in the present instance.

"In the Northern Securities case," said Mr. Nicoll, "the corporation was a mere holding company, a custodian of the stock of the constituent companies, used as a device to get control of properties incapable of consolidation. Here, on the other hand, is a case of the purchase in good faith of the stock and properties of constituent concerns of a corporation and engaged under chartered powers to carry on the business previously done by these companies.

"We do not deny that we have been active, energetic, and fierce in competition. Our vigilance has been constant and unceasing. But we do deny that we have used any methods that were illegal or were not used by competitors."

Answering the allegations of monopoly, Mr. Nicoll denied that such could exist under the conditions, first because the American Tobacco Company controlled only about one-half the supply, second because it never had control of transportation facilities, and third because all the patents for the manufacture of machines to make cigarettes have expired.

"Size is not the test of a monopoly; neither is territory a test; the fact that our business extends over the entire United States is no test. The only test is the control of a market and the power to exclude others from it unlawfully used.

"No man has imagination enough," said Mr. Nicoll in closing, "to see the utter ruin and chaos that would result if the prayer of the Government were granted. Has the public suffered? Has the producer suffered? We have taken thousands of acres from cotton for tobacco. Have the wholesalers and retailers suffered? They have increased in number. Has the export trade suffered? The exports of tobacco have increased.

"No wonder that from all quarters of the land come cries, Stop this twisting and trading of statutes! Stop this harassing legislation! Stop this angry denunciation of American industry! Give us peace! Give us peace so that the sun of prosperity, which is now hidden by the clouds, may shine through again!"

WANT FOREIGN COINS IN OUR BANK RESERVE

Financiers Here Seek Permission to Adopt a Custom Long Permitted Abroad.

APPEAL TO U. S. TREASURY

Change Would Enable Bankers to Reship the Coins Instead of Melting Them Into Bars for Exchange.

A movement to permit the National banks to hold in their reserve foreign gold coins which are imported into this country is likely to follow the gold export movement which has been in progress since April 15, and which has exhausted the supply of gold bars available for export and led to the taking of United States gold coin from the Sub-Treasury for shipment to Europe.

Supt. Foster of the Assay Office has under consideration a recommendation to the Government that the National banks in this country be enabled to hold foreign gold coins in their reserve, as the banks in foreign countries now hold the gold of other countries on the same basis, so far as its use as reserve goes, as domestic gold coin.

In making such a recommendation to the Secretary of the Treasury, Supt. Foster, it was said, will have the support of some of the leading National banks in this city, whose officers are of the opinion that the best interests of this money market will be served by the adoption here of the custom pursued by the European banks.

When United States gold coin is shipped to France or Germany or other European countries it is kept intact and is held by the banks in Europe as they hold their own gold. Thus it serves as reserve, and in case of gold export movements it is available for reshipment to the country from which it came.

On the other hand any foreign gold coin consigned to the banks here is melted down and made over into bars, with some incidental loss, and frequently these bars are recoined into United States goldpieces.

One result of this system, apart from the cost of handling it in this fashion, is that when the tide of gold sets in the other direction and we are forced to export gold we first exhaust the supply of bars at the Assay Office, and then resort to shipments of our own coins.

Were the custom which prevails abroad followed here the present gold export movement would be confined with foreign gold coins instead of with our own coins.

The inclusion of foreign gold coins in the reserves of our National banks would be in keeping with the custom of the Bank of France, the Bank of England, the Bank of Germany, and of Russia, and, in fact, of the banks of practically all European countries.

Many millions of American gold coin has been held by the Bank of Russia, and much of our gold coin has been included in the reserves of the Bank of France and the Bank of England. We frequently get back from Europe our own coin, but the banks here are never in a position to re-export foreign coin, for this is melted down the moment it finds its way to New York.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 21.—Trading in the local market was lighter in volume to-day, and showed comparatively little change. There was a fair demand for North Butte and Utah Consolidated, both selling up a fraction in the early trading. There was considerable profit taking in evidence throughout the list, but the offerings were absorbed with very little effect on prices. The close was steady and without feature.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Business Good on European Bourses—Americans Active in London.

LONDON, May 21.—Money was in decreased supply on the market to-day, the joint stock banks having called in supplies. Discounts were steady.

Trading on the Stock Exchange opened hesitatingly, but gathered strength during the session, and the early declines disappeared. The close generally, excepting Americans, was firm. Consols benefited on the improved bank return, and investors were more active with the other good yielding stocks. Foreigners were firm on Paris buying, while Kaffirs experienced a broadening business.

American securities were fairly active in the forenoon. Dealers put prices a shade over parity, and professional operations carried them higher. In the afternoon New York accepted the higher level, but immediately offered Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific, and Southern Pacific. This started a general decline, and the market finished weak.

Bar silver was steady at 24 11-16d per ounce.

Money, 1¼@1½ per cent.

PARIS, May 21.—The tone on the Bourse to-day was firm.

BERLIN, May 21.—Trading on the Boerse to-day opened firmer on New York advices, but the tone in general was quiet.

CALCUTTA, May 21.—The rate of discount of the Bank of Bengal was reduced to-day from 7 to 6 per cent.

TIDEWATER NOTE ISSUE.

$17,000,000 in Sixes to be Offered to the Public To-day.

The $17,000,000 issue of five-year 6 per cent. Tidewater notes which have been taken by Redmond & Co. and the Equitable Trust Company, will be offered for public subscription to-day at 98½. The applications received by the bankers up to the close of business yesterday more than covered the entire issue, and it is certain, it is said, that the general subscriptions will have to be cut down when they are allotted to the banks.

Some of the members of the underwriting syndicate, it is understood, have chosen to withdraw their share of the bonds from the market, and this, of course, cuts down the amount which will be available for general allotment. The bankers yesterday announced that on any further subscriptions they will require a deposit of 5 per cent. of the amount of the bonds for which application is made. The holders of the old notes will not hereafter be able to obtain preference for more than 50 per cent. of their present holdings.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Strong on Brighter Trade Prospects—Closes 17 to 29 Points Up.

Cotton met a renewal of bullish excitement late yesterday, and prices closed firm at a net advance of 17@29 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 300,000 bales. The market had opened barely steady at a decline of 5@9 points, in response to lower cables. A fair demand developed right at the initial decline, however, and while there was some irregularity, the market showed a generally advancing tendency. Reports from Fall River that some of the mills there were planning to go on full time next Monday had influence. Advices from the dry goods district are generally more encouraging. The range of contract prices was as follows:

| | High. | Low. | Close. | Wed. Close. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| May | 9.85 | 9.85 | 9.86@9.88 | 9.62 |

| March | 9.14 | 8.87 | 9.11@9.13 | 8.94 |

The local market for spot cotton was steady, with prices 10 points higher at 11c for middling upland and 11.25 for middling Gulf. Sales, 1,817 bales.

Southern spot markets were telegraphed as follows: Galveston firm, 1-16c higher, at 11¼c; sales, 378 bales; New Orleans steady, unchanged, at 11 3-16c; sales, 1,050 bales. Houston steady, 3-16c higher, at 11 3-16c; sales, 28 bales. Memphis steady, ¼c higher, at 11¼c; sales, 750 bales. Savannah quiet, unchanged, at 11c; sales, 1,577 bales. Norfolk steady, unchanged, at 11¼c; sales, 159 bales. Augusta firm, unchanged, at 11⅜c; sales, 495 bales.

AUTO-SPEEDING LAW VOID, SAYS LAWYER

Attorney for Chauffeurs' Club Declares That It Conflicts with Penal Code.

PENALTIES INCONSISTENT

Only $50 Fine Possible Outside of New York—Here $250 or Jail Sentence.

That there are no legal automobile speed regulations in New York, notwithstanding the motor vehicle law now on the statute books, is the contention of Xenophon P. Huddy, counsel for the Professional Chauffeurs' Club of America, whose contention has created so much interest among automobilists that a copy of the briefs has been sent to Gov Hughes in the hope that it will cause the Governor to recommend additional automobile legislation before the adjournment of the pending special session of the Legislature.

Mr. Huddy submitted his brief to the Court of Special Sessions at Jamaica, Queens County, in the case of Harry Chandler, chauffeur for Charles Steele, of J. P. Morgan & Co., who was arrested on the Merrick Road, near Jamaica, about three weeks ago charged with speeding Mr. Steele's car at the rate of fifteen miles an hour. Chandler was arraigned before Magistrate Gilroy at Jamaica, and Mr. Huddy asked that the case be dismissed on the ground that there are no legal automobile speed limit laws in the State of New York.

The case was adjourned, and a week later Mr. Huddy submitted his brief in support of his contention, and Magistrate Gilroy after reading it said that he was inclined to believe that the validity of the present law was very doubtful, if, indeed, it were not utterly void. Magistrate Gilroy then sent the case to the Court of Special Sessions, where the case will be argued in about two weeks.

Why Law May Be Void.

In his brief Mr. Huddy argued that the law is illegal for the following reasons:

There exists no such provision of law under which the defendant is prosecuted controlling the speed of motor vehicles, as is alleged in said information, because said alleged Motor Vehicle law, in so far as it purports to limit the speed of motor vehicles by making a violation of a speed limit a misdemeanor, does not comply with Section 728 of the New York Penal Code, which provides as follows:

"The provisions of this code, or any part thereof, shall not be deemed repealed, altered, or amended by the passage of any subsequent statute inconsistent therewith unless such statute shall explicitly refer thereto and directly repeal, alter, or amend this code accordingly."

Speeding Not in Penal Code.

"The Penal Code," said Mr. Huddy, when seen at his office, 300 Broadway, yesterday, "expressly stipulates that no act can be criminal except as prescribed or authorized by the Penal Code, and neither by original enactment nor by an amendment does the code refer to the automobile speed laws. The code also stipulates that all crimes, including the misdemeanor of speeding an automobile, are intended to be defined by the Penal Code, and this the Penal Code does not do.

"Again, the Penal Code says that repeals, alterations, amendments, and additions to it must be express, and this it has not done in this case. I claim that, as a result, the motor vehicle law of 1904 should have been expressly incorporated into the Penal Code, and should have been expressly referred to, and this the Legislature that passed the law failed to do.

"I may add that it would also seem that the Court of Special Sessions at Jamaica, which is in a county other than New York, has no jurisdiction over infractions of the speed law under the present motor vehicle regulations, because under the law of Criminal Procedure Courts of Special Sessions in counties other than New York are limited to fines up to $50, and no more, whereas the present New York motor vehicle law, it will be noted, provides for fines varying from $1 to $250 and prison sentences. There is undoubtedly an inconsistency here, with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure limiting fines to $50, while the penalties under the motor vehicle law may be five times that amount, or even a jail sentence.

Concludes That Law Is Void.

The conclusion is inevitable, therefore, that because the present motor vehicle law did not refer to the provisions of the Penal Code governing the speed of automobiles at the time the present law was enacted it did not become a law, in so far as the speed limits are concerned. As it did not become a law when it was enacted because of a failure to comply with Section 728 of the Penal Code, it was an absolute nullity and was void. The subsequent express amendment of Section 666, as amended, did not remedy the failure of the present law to refer to Section 728.

Mr. Huddy has received numerous requests from lawyers and automobile associations for copies of his brief, and nearly all who have read it agree with him. Gov. Hughes, in a letter to a prominent automobilist, has promised to give the brief careful consideration before determining his course with regard to future automobile legislation.

GROSS AND KLEEBERG RESUME

Brokers Who Failed in Heinze Crash Reinstated by Stock Exchange.

Albert H. Gross of the failed Stock Exchange house of Gross & Kleeberg, which suspended on Oct. 16, following the collapse of the attempted corner in the Heinze United Copper stock, was reinstated to membership on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Gross & Kleeberg had been engaged by Otto Heinze & Co. to manipulate United Copper stock, and the failure of the firm was brought about by the inability of the Heinzes to pay for stock purchased on their account. Otto Heinze & Co. failed a few days after the suspension of Gross & Kleeberg was announced. Gross & Kleeberg have made a satisfactory settlement with all their creditors, and the firm will resume at once.

Judge Hough, in the United States District Court, recently released the firm from an obligation of $39,000 due the failed Stock Exchange house of T. A. McIntyre & Co. McIntyre & Co. had sold approximately 2,300 shares of United Copper stock to Gross & Kleeberg on the day of the collapse of the shares on the Curb. McIntyre & Co. had sold these shares for the account of Otto Heinze & Co.

It was learned yesterday that it was this transaction in United Copper stock which started the collapse of the Heinze corner. Heinze & Co. had been carrying an account with the McIntyre firm, and without warning demanded the delivery of a block of United Copper shares which had been deposited as collateral. T. A. McIntyre, it was said by one of his associates yesterday, went out on the Curb himself and engineered the transaction which broke the shares from 58 to 19 in less than an hour.

PICTURES FROM THE PARIS SALON

Four pages of the Picture Section of next Sunday's Times will be devoted to reproductions of paintings now on exhibition in Paris at the annual Salon of the Society of French Artists. One whole page will be given to Louis Beroud's great panel canvas, "The Rush for Fortune," a picture which is attracting much attention from the visitors. Another striking painting which has been selected for reproduction is a spirited battle scene, showing Joan of Arc at the head of her troops. This is by Frank Craig. Still another battle scene is the destruction of the French Admiral Leissegues's flagship by the British in 1806, by Charles Fouqueray. But the pictures are not all of struggle and battle. Many motives of life are depicted in canvases by Richemont, Martin-Davel, Rousseau-Decelle, MacEwen, Jay, Watkins and others. Altogether twenty-two selections have been made from over 3,000 canvases shown. No such splendid pictorial representation of this great art exhibit has ever been made in a New York paper.

In addition the Picture Section will contain a large two-page reproduction of the group photograph taken in front of the White House at the recent Conference of Governors. It shows not only the Governors of the various States, but the President and Vice President, Cabinet Members, Supreme Court Justices and many distinguished guests.

The demand for this exceptional number of The Sunday Times is certain to be great, and readers are requested, in order to facilitate the distribution of the edition, to place their orders with news dealers as early as possible.

M'INTYRE ARRESTED IN CIVIL SUIT NOW

Warrants Out Also for Other Members of Defunct Brokerage Firm.

CLIENT SUES FOR STOCKS

Alleges That a Number of Parcels Were Misapplied to the Firm's Own Use.

Following his arrest on Wednesday after the Grand Jury had indicted him for grand larceny, Thomas A. McIntyre, senior member of the firm of T. A. McIntyre & Co., brokers, now in the hands of a receiver, was arrested yesterday by a Deputy Sheriff in a civil suit brought against his firm by Frederick W. Kavanagh of Waterford, N. Y.

Soon after Mr. McIntyre's arrest his brother, John G. McIntyre, also a partner in the firm, went to the Sheriff's office and surrendered himself, as he was also included in the order of arrest. Warrants were also issued for other members of the firm, but so far have not been executed.

Both men were released in $5,000 bail each, which was furnished by their 84-year-old father, Ewen McIntyre, who lives at Elberon, N. J.

The suit brought by Kavanagh is to recover $30,000 from the McIntyre firm, being the value of securities which he declares he deposited with them and was unable subsequently to recover. In his complaint Kavanagh alleges that the firm wrongfully converted to its own use 100 shares of Missouri Pacific, 100 Erie first mortgage bonds, 100 shares of Missouri, Kansas & Texas common, 200 shares of Missouri, Kansas & Texas preferred, 200 shares of Cast Iron Pipe, and 250 Missouri Pacific scrip, valued at $250 each, between Feb. 6 and 20 of this year.

Says Stocks Were Misapplied.

Kavanagh says that prior to Feb. 5 he was the owner of these securities, which were in the possession of A. O. Brown & Co., and upon which was due the sum of $3,853.32, upon payment of which he was entitled to the possession of the stocks and scrip. On Feb. 5 they were turned over by A. O. Brown & Co. to T. A. McIntyre & Co.

It is alleged by Kavanagh that McIntyre & Co. sold and delivered the stocks and scrip to various brokerage firms.

The 100 shares of Missouri Pacific were transferred to S. L. Blood & Co. on Feb. 6, the 100 Erie bonds to Barton & Barton on Feb. 10, the 100 shares of Missouri, Kansas & Texas to Asiel & Co. on Feb. 18; the preferred shares of the same stock to Post & Flagg on Feb. 14 to the amount of 100 shares, the other 100 shares on the same day being transferred to Jewett Brothers, the 200 shares of Cast Iron Pipe to Alfred Meaure & Co. on Feb. 25, and the 250 shares of Missouri, Kansas & Texas scrip to C. M. Schott on Feb. 11.

These sales and deliveries, Kavanagh asserts, were made without his authority or consent, and with the wrongful intent to convert and dispose of the securities for the use of the defendant firm.

He says his sources of information came from A. O. Brown & Co., Charles C. Burlingham, and Arthur A. Peck, receivers in bankruptcy of the firm.

T. A. McIntyre & Co. were adjudged bankrupt on April 27, and on April 28, Kavanagh says, he tendered the receivers $3,920, being the balance due on the securities, but they refused to deliver the stocks and scrip to him. He then deposited the $3,920 in the Merchants' Exchange National Bank to the credit of T. A. McIntyre & Co. and that of the receivers, with the condition that it be turned over to the receivers upon delivery to him of the securities.

Assets, $316,750; Debts, $1,575,000.

Albert H. Peck, one of the receivers of T. A. McIntyre & Co., made public yesterday a summary of the position of the failed firm, which placed the assets at $316,750, against liabilities of $1,575,000.

The statement shows cash on hand of $43,750, and puts the value of the securities found in the firm's vaults at $90,000. When the safe deposit box was first opened these securities were valued by the receiver at $70,000.

In detail the statement issued yesterday was as follows:

| ASSETS. | |
|---|---|
| Cash | $43,750.00 |
| Exchange memberships, (under the rule, of the various Exchanges, liabilities to members are a first lien,) estimated gross value | 90,000.00 |
| Bills receivable, (estimated collectible) | 10,000.00 |
| Amounts receivable, (estimated collectible) | 50,000.00 |
| Collateral pledged at banks in excess of loans, approximate.. | 30,000.00 |
| Furniture, &c., (estimated).... | 3,000.00 |
| Securities | 90,000.00 |
| | $316,750.00 |
| Liabilities | $1,575,000.00 |

The order for the arrests was signed by Supreme Court Justice Rockwood of Saratoga. The bail offered by Mr. McIntyre, Sr., was the house owned by him at 303 West Seventy-fourth Street. He said it was valued at $70,000, and was free from encumbrance.

The defendants at once went before Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum, who accepted their father's bond and released them from custody.

COAST LINE DIVIDEND CUT.

Now 2½ Per Cent., a Reduction of 1 Per Cent. on the Year.

The Directors of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, at a meeting held in this city yesterday, declared a cash dividend of 2½ per cent., payable July 10. The last cash dividend was distributed to the stockholders in July, 1907, and amounted to 3 per cent. Yesterday's declaration was a reduction of 1 per cent. in the annual rate from the dividend paid a year ago. Last January the stockholders received a 2 per cent. dividend, but payable in Atlantic Coast Line certificates of indebtedness instead of in cash.

As these certificates were selling considerably under par, the actual value of this dividend to the shareholders was less than 3 per cent., which was the nominal amount of the payment. In this light yesterday's 2½ per cent. dividend was not regarded as a reduction from the January dividend. The stock rose 1½ points yesterday.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

JOSEPH M. SMITH.—Joseph M. Smith, stockbroker, 44 Broad Street, has made an assignment to Franklin Lockwood. Mr. Smith began business in December as a partner with his brother Thomas in the firm of Smith Brothers, who dissolved on April 1, and Joseph M. has since been alone.

TIMOTHY MURPHY.—Schedules in the assignment of Timothy Murphy, grocer, 2,899 Eighth Avenue, show liabilities of $1,984, and nominal assets of $1,800, and actual assets of $800.

FREDERICK GOLL.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Frederick Goll, wholesale dealer in furniture, 174 and 176 Canal Street, by Kneeland, La Fetra & Glaze, attorneys for these creditors: Phoenix Furniture Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., $10,804; Oriel Cabinet Company, Grand Rapids, $4,052, and P. Derby & Co., New York, $1,353. It is alleged that he is insolvent and made transfers of property to the Crocker Chair Company, National Desk Company, J. F. Cowan, and other creditors to prefer them. Judge Hough of the United States District Court appointed George E. Frost, President of the Frost Veneer Seating Company, receiver with a bond of $20,000, on application of Gen. S. F. Kneeland. The liabilities are about $50,000, and the assets about the same.

E. BLOCH & CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Eugene Bloch, doing business as E. Bloch & Co., butcher, 324 Columbus Avenue, by these creditors: Henry Meilbunn, $166; Isidore Bloch, $250, and Herman Hart, $104. It was alleged that he is insolvent and admitted in writing his inability to pay his debts. The business was started in 1876. Judge Hough appointed John Gruenberg receiver. The liabilities are $ to make reservations at private sale in our new beautiful suburban residence park, expires Saturday noon, May 23d. After that our general announcements of the name and exact location of the property will be published and public offering made.

To a few who register their reservations prior to this date we offer first choice of building sites upon exceptionally favorable terms.

Consider These Facts:

1. We have always been identified with successful developments of the highest class only, and all our properties are out-of-the-ordinary and distinctive.

2. This new residence park is the only available tract of land in the heart of the highest, most picturesque and most beautiful region of the L. I. North Shore—distant but 45 minutes' ride from New York and in line with the gigantic traffic improvements now nearing completion.

3. The property is a lovely wooded park, laid out with winding roads and subdivided into individual plots of half an acre to five acres. Practically every plot has magnificent old trees. Several spring fed lakes lend a touch of unusual beauty to the landscape. Statistics show this region to be one of the healthiest in the entire United States.

4. Plots can now be secured for half of what the land is sure to bring a year hence. Never in a single instance have those who have bought early in a Dean Alvord development (Prospect Park South, Brooklyn, for example) failed to see their property double and triple in value year by year.

This restricted property will appeal to those whose refined taste demands a more refined social atmosphere than is afforded by the usual suburb, and a more picturesque setting for an all-year-round home out of the city.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, FIRST JUDICIAL Department.—Notice is hereby given that it is the intention of the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 4 of the Laws of 1891, and the several statutes amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, to make application to the Supreme Court of the State of New York, at a Special Term, Part III. thereof, to be held in and for the County of New York at the County Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 4th day of June, 1908, at the opening of the Court on that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, for the appointment of three disinterested freeholders, residents of the City of New York, as Commissioners of Appraisal, to ascertain and appraise the compensation to be made to the owners and all persons interested in the real property rights, franchises, easements or privileges sought to be taken or acquired by the City of New York, or which may be affected or damaged by this proceeding.

The City of New York, by this proceeding, seeks to acquire an estate in fee simple in certain real property hereinafter described for the construction, maintenance and operation in perpetuity of a Rapid Transit Railroad, including certain stations and station approaches or entrances, in accordance with the routes adopted by the Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners, by resolution on the 25th day of May, 1905, and approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York on the 14th day of July, 1905, and approved by the Mayor of the City of New York on the 28th day of July, 1905, and consented to by an order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Judicial Department, made and entered on or about the 12th day of March, 1907, which railroad, including stations and station approaches or entrances, is further described in the contract for the construction thereof made by the City of New York, acting by the said Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners, by resolution on the 25th day of May, 1905, and approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York on the 14th day of July, 1905, and approved by the Mayor of the City of New York on the 28th day of July, 1905, and consented to by an order of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Judicial Department, made and entered on or about the 12th day of March, 1907, which railroad, including stations and station approaches or entrances, is further described in the contract for the construction thereof made by the City of New York, acting by the said Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners, with the Degnon Contracting Company, dated May 9, 1907, which said contract was thereafter duly modified by a contract of modification dated February 18, 1908. The subway or subways for said railroad are to be constructed substantially as shown in such contract modified as aforesaid, and upon the maps or plans adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York, on the 13th day of March, 1908.

The premises in which an estate in fee simple is to be acquired in this proceeding are three parcels of land, briefly described as follows:

The first parcel consists of certain lots or parcels of land designated upon the said maps adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York on the 13th day of March, 1908, as Lots Nos. 17, 14 and 11, in Block 197, Section No. 1, which lots taken together form a parcel of land occupying the entire front on the westerly side of Centre Street, between White Street and Walker Street, with a frontage on the northerly side of White Street, extending westerly 54 feet and 6 inches from the westerly side of Centre Street, and with a frontage on the southerly side of Walker Street, extending 44 feet 10 inches westerly from the westerly side of Centre Street; said Lot No. 17 being also designated upon such maps as Nos. 133, 135 and 137 Centre Street, and Nos. 112 and 114 White Street; said Lot No. 14 being also designated upon said maps as Nos. 139, 141 and 143 Centre Street; said Lot No. 11 being also designated upon said maps as Nos. 145, 147 and 149 Centre Street and No. 107 Walker Street.

The second parcel consists of certain lots or parcels of land designated upon said maps adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York, on the 13th day of March, 1908, as Lots Nos. 26, 27 and 28 in Block 197, Section No. 1, which lots taken together form a parcel of land situated on the westerly side of Centre Street, extending from Canal Street to Walker Street, with a frontage on the northerly side of Walker Street, extending about 45 feet 11 inches westerly from the westerly side of Centre Street, and with a frontage on the southerly side of Canal Street, extending about 20 feet 2 inches westerly from the westerly side of Centre Street; said Lots Nos. 26, 27 and 28 being also designated upon said maps as Nos. 106 and 108 Walker Street, Nos. 151 to 155 Centre Street and Nos. 240 Canal Street.

The third parcel consists of a certain lot or parcel of land designated upon said maps adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York on the 13th day of March, 1908, as Lot No. 27, in Block No. 198, Section No. 1, which is a parcel of land situated on the easterly side of Centre Street, extending from Walker Street to Canal Street, with a frontage on the northerly side of Walker Street, extending about 61 feet 2½ inches easterly from the easterly side of Centre Street and with a frontage on the southerly side of Canal Street, extending about 54 feet 11¾ inches easterly from the easterly side of Centre Street, said Lot No. 27 being also designated upon said maps as Nos. 114 and 116 Walker Street, Nos. 152 to 158 Centre Street, and Nos. 234 to 238 Canal Street, all in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York.

A fuller statement setting forth the location and boundaries of the several lots and parcels of land and rights, franchises, easements or privileges sought to be taken or acquired, and a brief statement as to each of said lots or parcels of the title, interest, rights, easements, terms or privileges therein, or appurtenant thereto, sought to be acquired by the City of New York, is annexed to each of three similar maps adopted by the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York on the 13th day of March, 1908, which said maps were filed, one in the office of the President of the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 23d day of March, 1908, one in the office of the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York, at No. 154 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 13th day of March, 1908, and one in the office of the Register of the County of New York on the 25th day of March, 1908.

IVINS GIVES RESULTS OF TRACTION INQUIRY

Tells Public Service Board His Work Is Done and Throws Up the Job.

THIRD AVENUE'S $35,000,000

Only $10,554,351 of It, the Commission Learns, Was Paid to the Road in Cash.

With the submission of copies of leases, abstracts of Directors' minutes, and similar documentary data, the Public Service Commission closed yesterday the investigation of traction companies in New York, which it began under a resolution passed on July 18 last. The inquiry that began before a crowd that filled the Aldermanic Chamber in the City Hall, was finished in the hearing room of the Public Service Commission before an audience consisting of five newspaper men and two "benchers."

The various traction companies which have been concerned in the investigation did not even send their counsel, and William M. Ivins, the special counsel for the commission, and his son, William M. Ivins, Jr., had the lawyer's table to themselves. Chairman William R. Willcox of the commission presided.

After presenting documentary matter which he had at hand, Mr. Ivins addressed the Chairman by way of comment upon the limits within which the investigation had been conducted. He said:

I believe that the objects for which the resolution of July 18 was passed have now been practically attained. Your Chairman, as sitting Commissioner, initiated an investigation of the operating condition, that of rolling stock and other equipment, and train service, of the entire transportation system of the city, and these matters have since been taken up, and the work carried on by different members of the commission, with practical results of great promise.

The Metropolitan Inquiry.

The history of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, the New York City Railway Company, and the Metropolitan Securities Company has been investigated as exhaustively as the functions of the commission require or permit, for the purposes for which it was created. Once the Metropolitan Street Railway system went into the hands of receivers all financial investigation became of interest only as bearing upon questions of cost of construction, operation, and maintenance, and as looking to the future financial reorganization of the system. Thenceforward the commission could issue its orders only to the receivers, who, in turn, could only act in conformity with the general or particular instructions of the United States Circuit Court.

The realization of the assets, the determination of the rights of the respective parties, and the marshaling of the assets among such parties are now the first things to be done, and they can only be done under and by the order and direction of the Federal court and its receiver. This renders the determination of all such matters by the commission supererogatory even as a matter of aid to the court, the latter being already in possession of the property and books of the companies, and therefore in these particular cases the parties in interest can now look only to the court for the determination of their rights, and the protection of their interests.

When, however, these matters shall all have been judicially settled, and the issue of new securities shall come up for authorization, the commission will not only have before it all proceedings of the court and its agents, but may then profitably conduct any new or further investigation to enable it to determine its own duties in the premises.

Criminal Phase of Case.

The enforcement of the criminal law for wrongdoing in the past, once the facts in the case were disclosed by the commission, was outside of the scope of the commission, and the investigation into the matter of the criminal responsibility, if any, for past practices, has been in the hands of the Grand Jury and the State courts since November last. * * *

My retainer has reached its natural term, and since I desire to devote myself to the work of the New York Charter Commission and to my regular practice, which I have been out of since I accepted your retainer, I beg you to consider it as concluded.

In the event of your desiring to retain me specially in other matters at any future time I shall gladly serve to the best of my ability, other professional or personal engagements allowing. Permit me to assure you, as a fellow-public-servant, that there is nothing I more deeply wish for than the realization by your honorable body of the best possibilities of the Public Service Commissions law.

Chairman Willcox's Reply.

Chairman Willcox made this reply to the concluding remarks of Mr. Ivins:

In closing this inquiry I want to express to you, Mr. Ivins, our deep appreciation of the services you have rendered. As sitting Commissioner I am fully aware of the many sacrifices you have made in order to render this service, and I know how completely your time has been given up to the work, and with what devotion you have performed the services which have been of such great value in ascertaining the physical and financial history of the transit companies in this city.

The city and State are greatly indebted to you for the faithfulness, care, and the ability with which you have gone into all these matters.

Third Avenue's $35,000,000.

Among the documents turned over by Mr. Ivins for the information of the commission was a summary of the financial history of the Third Avenue Railroad from 1900 to 1907. This contained a statement of the use of the proceeds of the $35,000,000 bonds issued by the Third Avenue at the time of its lease to the Metropolitan, which Receiver Whitridge of the Third Avenue said the other day could not possibly have all been used on the property. Mr. Whitridge was of the belief that it would be too costly a proceeding to trace the expenditure of this money for any practical results to be accomplished, and he accordingly passed up that phase of the situation.

The statement submitted by Mr. Ivins was obtained from the books of the Morton Trust Company, to which the proceeds of $35,000,000 of bonds sold at 99, realizing $34,589,231.25, were turned over, to be applied, according to the mortgage, to the extinguishment of the floating debt of the Third Avenue system. It appears that only $10,554,351.59 out of the total sum was paid to the Third Avenue Road in cash, the balance of the bonds being required for the payment of the floating debt. In this floating debt there were $15,433,049 of loans outstanding as relics of the Henry Hart period of financing prior to the lease of the Metropolitan.

There was also an item of $1,316,576.18, representing "sundry claims paid by the Morton Trust Company for reorganization, legal and other expenses incident to the lease," which is entirely unexplained by any inquiry thus far made, and will undoubtedly go down among the mysteries of traction financing, now that the Public Service Commission is done.

The statement also shows that about $2,800,000 of floating debt of the Third Avenue's subsidiaries was paid off out of the proceeds of the mortgage, and a subsequent statement contained in Mr. Ivins's summary, being a balance sheet of the Third Avenue as of April 30, 1907, developed that the subsidiaries had piled up a floating debt of $15,283,896 in the seven years following the lease.

In addition, the Third Avenue Road had itself a floating liability of $2,840,648 as the accounts were stated on that date.

General Delivery Window Always Open

Postmaster Morgan has arranged to have the general delivery windows at the Post Office open during the entire twenty-four hours, including Sundays and holidays. The windows have heretofore been closed at midnight on week days, and at 6 P. M. on Sundays and holidays. The additional facilities, it is expected, will prove a great convenience to visitors.

Voorhis Would Stop Sunday Work.

Supt. Voorhis of the Bureau of Public Buildings under Borough President Ahearn is taking steps to do away with all Sunday work not absolutely necessary. In this way the city will escape paying the double wages which are the rule on Sunday. He also hopes by getting a receipt for all supplies delivered to the public buildings in the city to effect another large saving.

GEN. IVES CHOSEN.

Will Head Williamsburg Trust Co. To-day—Trouble Over Receivers' Fees.

Gen. Brayton Ives, President of the Metropolitan Stock Company, will be elected President of the Williamsburg Trust Company to-day.

Motion for the discharge of the receivers and permission to reopen the Williamsburg Trust Company was argued yesterday before Justice Kelly in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. The order was sought on the ground that the company was entirely solvent, and that Bank Superintendent Williams had given his approval of the plan of resumption. The receivers were represented by Attorneys Church and Lyons and the Directors by Kuhn & Dykman. Both sides presented a form of order permitting resumption, and frequent clashes occurred between counsel over the various clauses, especially the one regarding the fees due to the receivers.

Mr. Dykman became highly indignant at the claim made by Mr. Church that $200,000 would be a fair compensation for the receivers' work. Mr. Dykman contended that $6,000 was an amply sufficient fee. Justice Kelly tried to bring the counsel to an amicable discussio nof the question, and finally said that he would take up the matter himself.

The ideas of the Directors and receivers were no nearer concurrence in regard to other points, and the argument was finally ended by an order from the court directing the counsel to agree upon an order for resumption within a week, in order to allow the company to reopen on June 1. Before dismissing the case, however, Justice Kelly, modified the injunction against the Directors so that they can meet and resign and select the new board, which is to hold under the trust agreement between the Metropolitan Trust Company and the shareholders.

NEW LINES TO SEABOARD.

Little Kanawha and Wabash Both Likely to Have Them.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 21.—In order to form a new outlet to the seaboard from the West Virginia coalfields the Standard Oil interests, the Pennsylvania, the Vanderbilts, and the Baltimore & Ohio have combined in a new deal. It is announced here to day that the Virginia Railroad, now being completed by H. H. Rogers and other Standard people, with Norfolk, Va., as its eastern terminus, has allied itself with the Little Kanawha syndicate and that freight will be delivered to the seaboard next Fall.

BALTIMORE, May 21.—A local newspaper to-day says:

"The Georges Creek & Cumberland Railroad, the railway purchased by the Western Maryland last year for an outlet through the Cumberland Narrows for a line between Cumberland and Pittsburg, will be purchased by interests identified with the general lien and convertible bondholders' committee, of which Alvin W. Krech is Chairman, when it is offered at auction next month.

"It was learned to-day that arrangements to this end have been completed by the committee and this is taken by many local bankers to indicate that the original plan of the Goulds to link the Western Maryland with the Wabash will be carried out."

CITY TO SELL OLD BONDS.

Seligman & Co. Take an Option on $7,000,000 Left from Last July's Issue.

New York City bond market conditions have so much improved since the beginning of the year that there was said in banking quarters yesterday to be a fair chance that Controller Metz will shortly be able to dispose of the balance of the $15,000,000 of corporate 4 per cent. stock which was offered last July, but for which bids amounting to only $3,000,000 were received. J. & W. Seligman & Co., it was announced, have obtained an option until June 15 at par on the $7,000,000 of this issue which still remains unsold.

In addition to the $3,000,000 sold at public sale last July, the Controller later sold some $5,000,000 over the counter and to contractors and others to whom the city owed money. This left the $7,000,000 on which Seligman & Co. have now taken an option.

WANT TRACKS REMOVED.

Manner of Obtaining Property by Long Island R. R. to be Investigated.

Just why and how Joseph Cassidy came to give away certain valuable streets and highways to the Long Island Railroad Company during his two terms as President of the Borough of Queens is to be investigated by Ira G. Darwin, District Attorney of Queens County. Complaints of farmers and other property owners living in Queens and Hollis streets over the obstructing by freight trains of thoroughfares in that section brought to the attention of the county authorities the fact that the railroad company is now in possession of quite a number of crossings and streets which it obtained during the Cassidy administration.

Records of the Department of Highways of Queens showed that under the Cassidy administration permission was given to the Long Island Railroad to lay tracks across Hamilton Street in November, 1904, and across Farmers Avenue in June, 1905.

Fight Over Coler's Dog Undecided.

Justice Kelly in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon heard arguments on the motion to make permanent the temporary injunction obtained recently by Borough President Bird S. Coler restraining the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals from putting to death an Irish setter, the property of Mr. Coler, for which no license fee had been paid. The argument on the motion will be continued next Monday, when Justice Kelly will render his decision.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Consolidated Stock Exchange officials denied yesterday that Thomas C. Buck of 42 Broadway, defendant in the suit of Katherine Edith Haxton, is a member of that organization.

Mrs. Florence Scott Woodard of the Waldorf-Astoria and Ralph Hilton Philipson of London procured a marriage license at City Hall yesterday. Mrs. Woodard, who is the daughter of James Arthur Fairweather, was divorced in San Francisco on April 10, 1898, from Louis Edwin Woodard.

The trial of Carl Fischer-Hansen, the lawyer indicted for extorting $15,000 from J. E. O'Brien of Philadelphia, was again postponed yesterday until Monday by Judge Malone in General Sessions, because Judge Rosalsky has not yet decided the motion for dismissal made by John F. McIntyre.

The North Side Board of Trade will attend the meeting of the Charter Revision Commission this afternoon in City Hall, when changes in the rights and privileges of the Borough Presidents will be considered. The board will protest against any curtailment of the Presidents' powers.

The Commissioners of Accounts have raised these salaries in their office: E. F. Boyle, chief examiner at $3,000, becomes chief accountant at $4,000; W. L. Chaffee, examiner at $2,000, chief examiner at $2,500; B. E. Welton, examining engineer, increase from $2,700 to $3,500; P. F. Atlee, chief examiner, $2,500 to $3,000; C. W. Snyder, chief examiner, $2,500 to $3,000; Eugene Shepard, examining inspector, $2,000 to $2,250; W. J. Cobb, examiner, $1,800 to $2,100; R. B. Foedick, examiner, $2,000 to $2,250; T. J. McFall, T. W. Duane, P. J. McGowan, H. G. Lynn, E. S. Connell, C. D. Schenck, M. Manheimer, J. N. Outwater, accountants, from $2,100 to $2,400; L. B. Hubbard, accountant, $1,800 to $2,250; P. Lindeman, clerk, $1,500 to $1,650; C. A. Wanzor, clerk, $1,500 to $1,650; S. E. Maas, clerk, $1,500 to $1,650; R. V. Amos, clerk, $900 to $1,080.

JACKSON'S LAST SLAP AT THE CITY RAILWAY

Says Abolition of Transfers Proves Inadequacy of the Receiverships.

QUACKENBUSH HITS BACK

"Attorney General with a Predeliction for Receiverships" Dangerous to Community, He Says.

Final briefs have been exchanged in the action which Attorney General Jackson brought last September for the dissolution of the charter of the New York City Railway on the ground of insolvency for a year prior to that time and the permanent appointment of receivers for that corporation. The matter now goes to Supreme Court Justice Davis for decision, and, with the decision rendered, will be determined, in all probability, the question whether the control of the surface traction lines shall remain in the hands of the Federal receivers, Adrian H. Joline and Douglas Robinson, or pass to the receivers appointed in the State courts, Paul Fuller, J. Hampden Dougherty, and Melville G. Fallister.

If the Jackson suit should succeed, it is learned that a fight will be made to displace the Metropolitan Street Railway Federal receivers on the ground that their appointment was ancillary only to that of the City Railway receivers, and is necessarily terminated with the appointment of the receivers of the lessee road. It was learned further that if the State receivers get in, one of the first things they will do will be to undertake to re-establish the transfer system at points where it has been cut off.

The questions involved in the suit depend largely upon valuations placed on items in the City Railway's balance sheet of June 30, 1906, and the admission or exclusion of certain items for the purposes of the case. In his brief Herbert R. Limburg, special counsel for the Attorney General, contended that the City Railway had a deficit of some $20,000,000 on the date in question and was hopelessly insolvent.

In answering the suit last Fall, Auditor Brown of the City Railway propounded a balance sheet that showed a surplus of $5,000,000 "current" assets over "current" liabilities, as against a deficit of $7,000,000 appearing in the report to the State Railroad Commission for June 30, 1906. James L. Quackenbush, as counsel for the defendant, submitted in the final brief still a different compilation showing assets over liabilities of about $3,400,000.

There are some pointed comments in the briefs of the opposing interests. Mr. Quackenbush says, in arguing that the Attorney General need not intervene:

> In the present case the properties of the New York City Railway have been successfully administered for nearly eight months by competent receivers appointed by the United States Circuit Court, and the pending proceedings in that court provide fully for the protection of all those having an interest in or claims against the property. * * * It would be dangerous if the Attorney General's definition of insolvency, (i. e., the insufficiency of assets to meet liabilities,) as applied to business corporations, were adopted. Infinite harm might be done to the business community if an Attorney General who happened to have a predilection for receiverships were free to pounce down on business corporations and transfer the management of their business to receivers simply because, by reason of financial stringency or other temporary causes, the value of their assets had shrunk so that for a year they would not be sufficient to provide for the debts if the corporation were wound up.

Mr. Limburg, in his reply, says:

> While such an argument has no relevancy in the case at bar, it may be stated in reply that the administration of the properties by the receivers appointed by the United States Circuit Court may, and no doubt is, "satisfactory" to those who have been responsible for the present deplorable condition of the property. That the interest of the public at large or of the State is adequately protected by those receivers we emphatically deny. Such an assertion does not carry conviction in view of the prompt and unnecessary abolition of transfer facilities by the United States Circuit Court receivers, which by no stretch of the imagination can be considered a boon to the public at large.

Elsewhere in the brief of Mr. Quackenbush it is argued that the New York City Railway must have been a solvent corporation because the "competent business men who organized the Interborough-Metropolitan Company invested their money in the stock of the Metropolitan Securities Company, which has owned all the stock and the obligations of the New York City Railway."

Mr. Limburg comments:

"It is a novel proposition that Mr. Belmont's or Mr. Ryan's opinion as to whether the defendant was solvent should be substituted for legal proof, or for an examination of what assets or resources the defendant had to enable it to meet its liabilities."

EXPLAINS CITY COAL BIDS.

Loughman Says He Changed Specifications to Save Money.

M. F. Loughman, Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity, issued a statement last night with the approval of Commissioner John H. O'Brien explaining why he changed the specifications for the coal supply for his department. Mr. Loughman said:

> I have not only succeeded in breaking up the coal combine against the city, at least the combination aimed at this department of the City Government, but have arranged to get the kind of coal wanted at a saving of $10,740. Last year the supply of coal cost the city $82,000; this year the supply will cost only $72,000.
>
> In arranging for the contract for coal for Manhattan and the Bronx for the ensuing year the Department of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity advertised for "broken" coal, instead of "egg" coal, as heretofore furnished; this change in the specifications being made both to reduce the cost and to prevent the occasional delivery of "broken" coal intermixed with "egg" coal, the whole carload being classified as "egg" coal.
>
> It is evident that this change was not made to favor any particular bidder, and did not, and the wisdom of it is shown in the result, which on the basis of last year's consumption indicates a saving of $10,740.
>
> The first bids received this year were all rejected by the Commissioner, because he had reason to believe he could secure lower prices by readvertisement, and the correctness of this course of action is demonstrated by the results attained on the second bidding.

In conclusion Mr. Loughman said that a saving had been accomplished by the department, and doubtless the change necessitating a smaller disbursement by the city displeased some of the bidders.

MACHINERY CLUB'S NEW HOME

Formally Opens Its Rooms in the Hudson Terminal Building.

The Machinery Club, which occupies the twenty-first and twenty-second floors of the Hudson Terminal Building, at 50 Church Street, opened its new quarters yesterday afternoon.

The opening address was made by George W. Post, President of the Standard Coupler Company, who spoke in an optimistic vein.

The officers of the club are: F. H. Stillman, President; R. C. McKinney, Vice President; Walter L. Pierce, Treasurer, and W. Seton Henry, Acting Secretary.

The Machinery Club has been in existence a year and has 1,100 members, 500 of whom are local members. It has members in 127 cities, in Cuba, Mexico, Japan, and European cities.

HEALTH BOARD'S ACTIVITIES.

Asked to Compel Landlords to Rid Flats of Cockroaches.

Health Commissioner Darlington and Third Deputy Police Commissioner Bert Hanson talked about the respective departments in which they are active at a dinner of the Men's Club of Holy Trinity Church, held last evening in the lecture room of the church, 122d Street and Lenox Avenue.

Commissioner Darlington said that the Health Department concerned itself with forty-nine different modes of activity. One of them was the correspondence. To show what this was he read a series of complaints and requests that had been received by the department. Some of these asked if landlords could be compelled to free flats from cockroaches; if a quarrelsome couple could be removed from a house on the ground that they were a menace to the health of others, and if a wife was obliged to support her husband by taking in washing.

One man complained that he had fallen over a drunken man in the hallway in his flat, and that if it happened again he would go to Charles F. Murphy and have Dr. Darlington removed.

Dr. Darlington said that the food of New York was at present of very high grade. Out of 800 recent analyses only 35 specimens had proved to be bad, he said, while only 5 had revealed any ground for court action.

Mr. Hanson said that there had been a big change in the Police Department.

"One great fault in the past," said he, "has been that there was a strong band of policemen working for the interests of the police, forgetting that they were the servants of the people. When Commissioner Bingham took office the Detective Bureau was filled with incompetents. All that had been necessary to become a Detective Sergeant was to 'have the price,' generally said to have been $3,000."

Other speakers were Commissioner of Immigration Robert Watchorn, the Rev. Dr. Harry Pierce Nichols, pastor of the church, and W. S. Richardson, leader of the Rockefeller Bible class.

CRAZY BOY RUNS AMUCK.

Jacob Kolchinsky, Insane from Overstudy, Attacks Parents and Baby Sister

Made insane by overstudy in his efforts to win a scholarship in Cornell University from the Brooklyn Boys' High School, Jacob Kolchinsky, the nineteen-year-old son of Simon Kolchinsky, became violent in the home of his parents, at 271 South First Street, Williamsburg, yesterday, and before he was placed under restraint he tried to kill his mother and father, and also his two-year-old sister Tessie.

Kolchinsky, who was near the head of his class, was to have been graduated next month.

Wednesday, shortly after midnight, Kolchinsky with a hatpin which he had obtained rushed to a crib where his two-year-old sister Tessie was asleep and began to jab her with it. When Mrs. Konchinsky rushed to her aid, the insane boy turned his attention to her and began to jab her face and shoulders with the pin. Her screams brought her husband, and as he seized his son the boy snatched a carving knife and slashed his father with it, inflicting a gash on his right arm.

The screams of the family brought Policeman Snedeker of the Bedford Avenue Station. He had a hard tussle with the boy before he subdued him, and with the aid of the father and mother he took him to the police station. After Kolinsky was treated by an ambulance surgeon and placed in a cell, he tried to beat out his brains against the iron bars.

METZ HITS AT REFORMERS.

Says Their Secretaries Must Criticise to Prove Earning Pay.

Daniel A. Moynahan, Collector of Assessments and Arrears, has written to Controller Metz complaining of the criticisms passed upon him in the annual report of the Civil Service Reform Association, because of the employment of certain men in the Department of Arrears, who had not passed the civil service examination. The report said that the clerkships were used for political purposes.

Mr. Moynahan points out to the Controller that "due mainly to the work of these men," the interest collections for 1907 have been $1,150,000, compared with $48,000 for 1906, and that in consequence of the protests received their work has had to be suspended.

Controller Metz in his reply says:

> We have trouble enough trying to run this department within the limitations which the law places upon us without worrying about the comments of self-constituted bodies, whose secretaries are criticising and making reports which they do not know much about, for the purpose of proving to the well-meaning members, who contribute their dues annually, that they are earning their salaries.
>
> I am fully satisfied that the men you employed under Section 536 of the Laws of 1893 did conscientious and satisfactory work for the city. We, of course, have no means of knowing that two or three out of the hundred had at some time in their previous careers tended bar for the purpose of making an honest living. So far as I know this is as yet no crime and need not worry you on that account.

The Controller concludes by giving Collector Moynahan permission to employ whatever men the legal restrictions under which he is compelled to act will permit, and bids him complete the work he has undertaken.

CAUGHT WOULD-BE KISSER.

Luke Collins Meets His Match in a Woman Umbrella Wielder.

Mrs. Mary Reed of 151 West 117th Street was returning home from a visit to friends in East 122d Street about 11 o'clock last night when a man accosted her and tried to kiss her. The woman was carrying an umbrella, and she struck the man over the head with it, breaking the handle.

The man fled shouting for help, and Mrs. Reed pursued him, belaboring him with the umbrella. At 119th Street and Lexington Avenue, the fugitive ran into the arms of Policeman Hall of the East 126th Street Station, who arrested him.

At the station the man said he was Luke Collins of 177 East 122d Street. He was locked up on Mrs. Reed's charge that he had annoyed her.

ANTI-BUCKET SHOP MADE LAW BY HUGHES

Cassidy's Measure Makes It a Felony to Deal in Alleged Stock Market Quotations.

OPTOMETRY IS RESTRICTED

Governor Vetoes Columbus Day Bill on the Ground That Holiday Would Create "Business Embarrassments."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 21.—Foremost in importance among the measures which became law to-day by receiving the approval of Gov. Hughes is the Cassidy Anti-Bucket Shop bill, which makes it a felony to conduct or to aid and abet in the conduct of a bucket shop. This act, which will be known as Chapter 458 of the Laws of 1908, goes into effect on Sept. 1.

The Cassidy law adds a new chapter, to be known as Chapter XI. to Title 10 of the Penal Code. The acts prohibited under its provisions are thus defined:

> To make or offer to make, or assist in making or offering to make any contract respecting the purchase or sale, either upon credit or margin, of any securities or commodities, including all evidences of debt or property and options for the purchase thereof, shares in any corporation or association, bonds, coupons, scrip, rights, and other evidences of debt or property and options for the purchase thereof or anything movable that is bought and sold wherein both the parties thereto intend that such contract shall be or may be terminated, closed, or settled according to or upon the basis of the public market quotations of prices made on any Board of Trade or Exchange upon which such commodity or securities are dealt in, and without intending a bona fide purchase or sale of the same.
> To make or offer to make, or assist in making or offering to make any contract respecting the purchase or sale upon credit or margin of any such securities or commodities wherein both parties do not intend the actual bona fide receipt or delivery of such securities or commodities, but do intend a settlement of such contract based upon the difference in such public market quotations of prices at which said securities or commodities are, or are asserted to be, bought or sold.

Violation of any of the acts prohibited in the new law is made a felony punishable, if the offender be a corporation, by a fine of not more than $5,000 for each offense, and where the offenses are committed by other persons by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

It is also made a felony to exhibit quotations for bucketing purposes. The law further provides that in cases where a customer has placed an order with a broker for the purchase or sale of securities or commodities for immediate or future delivery, such broker, upon demand, must furnish within 24 hours a statement containing the prices and the names of the persons from whom the property has been purchased or to whom it has been sold, and that failure to comply with this provision shall constitute primafacie evidence that such purchase or sale has been made in violation of the Cassidy act.

The law provides that a corporation convicted of a second offense against the provisions of the law may be dissolved on action brought by the Attorney General, and that a foreign corporation so convicted may by a similar action be restrained from doing business in this State. The act thus defines a bucket shop:

"Bucket shop" shall mean any building or any room, apartment, booth, office, or store therein or any other place where any contract prohibited by this act is made or offered to be made.

Supervision Over Optometry.

Another bill signed by the Governor was the Wilcox bill defining optometry and regulating the practice thereof. Under the new law the practice of optometry is placed under the supervision of the Board of Regents, who shall issue certificates upon examination successfully passed to persons who intend to engage in the "measurement of the powers of vision and the adaptation of lenses for the aid thereof."

This will affect all persons except duly licensed physicians who are employed in testing eye sight in opticians' establishments.

The Governor vetoed a bill amending the Public Service Commissions act and providing that letter carriers and policemen and firemen when in uniform may have free or reduced transportation. The Governor said his reasons for vetoing this bill was that its operations are not limited to cases where such public employes were on duty. In such cases, the Governor says in a memorandum filed with the bill, the Federal, State, and municipal authorities may arrange for such transportation under the existing laws.

Vetoes Columbus Day Bill.

The A. E. Smith bill, designating Oct. 12 as a public holiday to be known as Columbus Day, was vetoed by the Governor on the ground that it would create "confusion and business embarrassments." In his memorandum filed with the bill the Governor says:

"If it was intended to add Columbus Day to the number of public holidays, the general law relating to holidays should have been amended accordingly."

Senator Cassidy said: "I am very glad that the Governor has signed my bill, commonly known as the Bucket Shop bill. The measure is intended to prohibit the fraud upon the public, more vicious than any other form of gambling.

"There is hardly a village of any size in the State which is not infested with these bucket-shop fiends who operate under one name one day and another one to-morrow."

BRAIN EQUALS BRAWN.

Chief Croker Contradicted In Regard to Civil Service Examinations for Firemen

Chief Croker's complaint in the recent investigation by the Commissioners of Accounts of the Fire Department that the civil service examination shuts out from the department candidates whose muscle surpasses their brains has been contradicted by the Assistant Chief Examiner, J. P. Conway, in a letter sent to Frank L. Polk, President of the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Conway points out that in the last examination the first twenty men obtained 91.85 per cent. of marks for their physical examination, while the last twenty only averaged 87.29 per cent. The regulations have been altered so that a sturdy candidate could obtain an appointment with only 70 per cent. of the marks on the mental tests; but, as a matter of fact, those who did worst in the mental examination were not as fine specimens of humanity as those who showed the most brilliant intellectual equipment. Of the 115 candidates who failed to qualify only ten were equal to the physical average of the first twenty, and yet they were unable to score a beggarly 58 per cent. on the mental tests.

YOUNG BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Former Protectory Inmate Wanted to Get Away with Band Instruments.

John Malone, 18 years old, who tells the police he has no home, was arrested early yesterday on the fourth floor of the New York Catholic Protectory, 417 Broome Street, and locked up in the Mulberry Street Police Station on a charge of burglary. He was discharged from the protectory about four weeks ago, after having been there four years as the result of a juvenile crime. Three weeks ago the institution was entered during the night by a rear window and a quantity of stationery stolen. One week later the protectory was robbed again, evidently by the same thief. This time the plunder included a number of instruments belonging to the protectory band.

At the police station Malone said he broke into the protectory to "get even" for the discipline to which he had been subjected while confined there. He said he stole the band instruments because "they were used to punish the boys." When the latter were unruly they were made to practice on them, he declared.

BRUFF DIVORCED.

Former Ensign in U. S. Navy Gets a Decree from Justice O'Gorman.

Charles Lawrence Bruff, whose escapades while an Ensign of the United States Navy were the cause of his forced resignation nearly two years ago, obtained a final decree of divorce yesterday from his wife, Mrs. Anna Olga Hyde Bruff, otherwise known as Olga Maxwell Bruff. The case went before John J. Adams, as referee, and it was on his report that Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman made the final decree yesterday.

Bruff, while an ensign attached to the battleship Missouri, married the defendant on Aug. 20, 1906, at the "Little Church Around the Corner." He charged his wife with misconducting herself with a man named Bell at the Madison Square Hotel, Twenty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue, on July 12, 1907. She put in a general denial to the allegations.

RECREATION PIERS TO OPEN.

Accessible for Refreshing Breezes To-morrow Afternoon.

In addition to the old piers there will be opened a roof garden on Pier 10 North River, at Albany and Cedar Streets.

Music will be provided on all the piers between 8 and 10:30 P. M.

The Commissioner has introduced an innovation by granting permission to allow baby carriages on the upper decks of the recreation piers between 8 A. M. and 6 P. M.

DYNAMITERS WRECK A RAILROAD BRIDGE

Destroy Span Over New Haven Tracks Near Pelham Park After Another Attempt.

LABOR TROUBLES BLAMED

Explosion Smashes Windows in the Neighborhood and Throws Bronx Hotel Guests Into a Panic.

The new steel bridge, erected to carry the highroad from Baychester to Pelham Bay Park over the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, was badly damaged by a charge of dynamite early yesterday morning. The bridge, which was completed as far as the steel work was concerned, was built by the Schumaker Company of Philadelphia, which does not recognize union labor.

"The damage amounts to about $5,000," said Eugene J. Rights, the erecting engineer, yesterday afternoon, "and it will probably take us three more weeks to repair it. The bridge was completed so far as the iron work was concerned, and Daly & Holbrook were going to work immediately with the cement and carpenter work.

"Since the labor troubles two years ago the Schumaker Company has had an open shop, along with most of the other big steel concerns, and it is probable that this explosion is due to union men, although we have no actual knowledge as to the identity of the dynamiters. At least 50 pounds of dynamite must have been used to do so much damage."

The end of one of the long trusses of the bridge was entirely torn from its support and badly twisted by the force of the explosion, but the masonry and other parts of the bridge were uninjured.

Lieut. William Colby of the Bronx Detective Bureau said that at least three of his men would watch the structure all the time, and he himself was on the ground yesterday to make an inspection. The Schumaker Company is erecting five more similar bridges along this line, and it is feared that there may be trouble at any one of these, especially as an attempt was made Wednesday to blow up the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway bridge over the Bronx River at Jennings Street.

This bridge is being built by the Pennsylvania Steel Company, which also refuses to recognize exclusively union labor. Watchmen who were guarding the structure saw five men going over the bridge and fired at them. The men ran, but dropped a bag into the river, which was afterward found to contain fifty long sticks of dynamite and two fuses 50 feet long.

Because of this attempt the guard on the Baychester bridge was doubled on Wednesday night. However, the heavy mist prevented the watchmen from seeing objects on the bridge very well.

The explosion occurred at 3:30 yesterday morning. Buildings in the neighborhood rocked and practically all the windows within a radius of half a mile were broken. The thirty guests of the Park House, which is just across the tracks, poured out into the rain in their night clothes, convinced that there was an earthquake.

The watchmen were thrown to the ground by the force of the explosion. When they arose they saw two men running. The guards pursued them, but the two men ran into the arms of a mounted policeman, who brought them back. Before they were taken to the police station, John Stark, a boatman on the river, told the police that the two captives had hired a boat from him in the evening and had been out all night fishing for eels. The police allowed them to go, and they took a 6 o'clock train, getting off at Van Nest.

The three watchmen who were on guard last night were William Hensler, John Connelly, and Edward Roderer.

The police say that it is their opinion that the wreckers had a half-hour fuse attached to the sticks of dynamite and had plenty of time to get away before the explosion took place. The explosive was placed over the span of the bridge which goes over the railroad tracks, and with a little more force would have precipitated the span on to the track underneath.

Capt. Hayes of the Westchester Police Station and several of his men are searching for a clue to the men who destroyed the bridge.
